VICHY, France, June 8.—British and "Free French" troops invaded French Syria and Lebanon early this morning, plunging former allies into a fateful struggle and forcing Frenchmen to shoot at Frenchmen.

The British struck by land, sea and air. The French high command in Syria said its forces were defending their positions "brilliantly," and Chief of State Petain exhorted his army to fight fiercely against what he called a "profoundly unjust aggression."

An Arid Battleground.

The hardest fighting apparently was in progress in the Jebel Druz sector of southeastern Syria, entered by the British and "Free French" from bases in Palestine and Transjordan. It was an arid and hilly battleground. The troops of Gen. Charles de Gaulle were believed to be in the thick of the fighting in that sector.

[The German radio as heard in New York last night announced that allied forces had reached Suweida, capital of the Jebel Druz territory. It is about 23 miles north of Syria's border with Transjordan, and 55 miles southeast of Damascus. A dispatch from Berne said reports received there indicated that large French garrisons were going over to the "Free French" forces. One report received in Berne stated that some 4,000 men had gone over to the British in the Jebel Druz area.]

Strong British forces likewise were said to have unleashed a powerful assault against Banias, about 25 miles north of the historic sea of Galilee and one of the strongest of Damascus' preliminary defenses. It was a stronghold of 12th century crusaders.

Marshal Petain's plea to his troops to fight their hardest against the British was a bitter accusation against a nation that just a year ago had been an ally in a common struggle against Germany.

Accuses British of Tricks.

The British, he said, had preceded "this violence with tricks." [The British have charged the Germans were taking over Syria.]

The French soldiers in Syria, Petain asserted, knew from first hand knowledge that there were no German troops in Syria.

"You then are the object of profoundly unjust aggression in the face of which we are outraged," he continued. "It is only today that French sovereignty in the Levant is menaced for the first time. You can believe me."

Lashes Out at De Gaulle.

Then Petain lashed out at the move by Gen. De Gaulle which finally had pitted French brother against brother, an eventuality he had sought to avoid.

The De Gaullists, Petain charged, "supported by British imperial forces, do not hesitate to shed blood of their brothers, who are defending the unity of the empire and the sovereignty of France.

"France, faithful to her declaration [the armistice with Germany] in any case can remain proud of not having been the first to take up arms against the former ally, no more today than at Mers el Kebir, Dakar, and Sfax."

Protests to Britain.

Soon after the Petain declaration, it was announced the French government had protested to the British government against the attack. The protest was delivered by the French ambassador in Madrid, Francois Pietri, to Sir Samuel Hoare, the British ambassador there.

The British and "Free French" land forces apparently had as their objective the capture of Damascus, capital of Syria; Beirut, capital of Lebanon, and Aleppo, in northern Syria. Thus their drive constituted an immense pincer movement, designed to cut Syria off from Turkey.

The advance into Syria and Lebanon from the south was made on a 90 mile front.

Damascus was the goal of two British columns, one striking thru the

IN DAYS OF OLD WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD

Traffic Takes Toll of 11 Lives in Chicagoland

Traffic accidents took a toll of 11 lives in Chicagoland yesterday. In one accident five lives were snuffed out; two persons were killed in each of two others.

The dead were:

Charles F. Rapp Jr., 48 years old, 4123½ Lincoln avenue, head of the Chicago Paint and Sponge company.
Mrs. Cloe Rapp, 45, his wife.
Robert Clements, 28, Michigan City, Ind., a munitions worker.
Claude Seise, 50, Minneapolis, Minn., a munitions worker.
Robert L. Stevens, 22, also of Minneapolis, a munitions worker.
Frank A. Kalabza, 40, a paper salesman with offices at 135 South La Salle street.
Mrs. Anne Kalabza, his wife.
John Kmet, 23, 3841 Ferdinand street, a laborer.
John LeVoy, 22, of 3858 Ferdinand street, a laborer.
George Austin, 59, of 6557 South Pulaski road, an electrician.
James Mulligan, 47, of 6730 South Morgan street, a motorman for the Chicago surface lines.

Rapp and his wife, riding in one car, and the three munitions workers, in another, were killed in a head-on collision in U. S. highway 12 eight miles east of Michigan City, Ind. Clements was the driver of the second car. Also riding with him was James Cossler, 31, of Owensboro, Ky., who was severely injured. The four men were employed at the Kingsbury ordnance plant, La Porte, Ind., according to Michigan state police.

Blowout Is Blamed.

Skid marks on the highway showed that Clements' car swerved into the outside lane on the wrong side of the road, police said, apparently because of a blowout.

Kalabza, who served as police and fire commissioner in Berwyn four years ago, and his wife were killed when their car was involved in a collision near Harvard in McHenry country. Their daughter, Elizabeth, 12, was injured. He and his family were living on an estate in Fontana, Wis. Two women riding in the other car were injured, but police had not identified them.

The car in which Kmet and LeVoy were riding struck a lamp post at Rockwell street and Grand avenue. Three men riding with them were injured.

Dies of Crash Injuries.

Austin died in Holy Cross hospital of injuries suffered in a three car collision at 79th street and Pulaski road last Tuesday.

Mulligan was killed when he was struck by an automobile at 70th street and Racine avenue. The driver was Joseph Dvorak, 6740 Emerald avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 395 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 291 were killed in Chicago, where 10,099 were injured in the same period.

PRINCE BERNHARD FLIES TO CANADA FOR A VISIT WITH JULIANA

OTTAWA, Ont., June 8 (AP).—Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands unexpectedly arrived here today from England for a two weeks' visit with his wife, Princess Juliana, and their two daughters. The prince left England by plane yesterday.

Prince Bernhard.

Not even the princess, whom he had not seen since last spring, knew that he was coming, a Netherlands legation spokesman said. The legation was silent as to the prince's future plans, but it was thought likely he would visit Washington, D. C., before returning to England. The prince and his wife left during the day for the United States.

[The Netherlands news agency said Prince Bernhard would accompany Juliana on a journey that will take them to Holland, Mich., Boston, and Princeton, N. J. They will attend a special convocation at Hope college, at Holland, on Tuesday. The trip already had been arranged by the princess to visit American educational institutions. They will be accompanied by Dr. Alexander Loudon, Dutch minister in Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Loudon.]

DENIES BRITAIN CUTS SUPPLIES OF MIDDLE EAST

SYDNEY, Australia, June 8 (AP).—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies appealed to the nation in a broadcast today to reject the "anti-British" suggestion that Britain was curtailing supplies to the middle east because of an exaggerated fear of invasion. The criticism was made by two Labor members as parliament prepared to discuss the defeats in Greece and Crete.

Kettering Has New Device to 'Oust' U-Boats

Detroit, Mich., June 8 (AP).—Charles F. Kettering, one of America's foremost inventors, predicted today that German submarines would be driven from the seas by development of a device to catch them on the surface at night.

The engineering genius who gave the automobile the self starter and a score of other inventions expressed a belief that the anti-submarine device would be completed and in operation "within a reasonable time."

"We have been working with the navy for six years," he said, referring to the General Motors research division, which he heads. "It's not going to be too hard to beat the subs."

"Licking Night Bombers."

Kettering also said that the problem of interception of night bombers "is being licked now" in England by detection devices "now in production."

He did not indicate whether the devices were being improved to the extent that they would guide fighter planes to German bombers whether there was moonlight or not. Detectors now in use by the British are said by observers to direct pilots to within several thousand feet of German planes, closer detection depending on light conditions.

Explaining the job of combating submarines, Kettering said it was the practice of German U-boats to come to the surface to recharge their batteries and then wait in the path of a convoy whose position and course had been reported by scouting planes.

When Convoy Comes.

"When the convoy comes along, the submarine moves right with it," he said. "It stays some distance from the nearest ship and can't be seen. Then, just at daybreak, it submerges to cover the conning tower, and makes its attack. After it puts torpedoes into several ships the escorting destroyers are too busy rescuing people in the water to stop it from getting away.

"All you have to do is locate him when he's on the surface at night and you've got him. Detectors will find him when he's under water."

CIO UNIONISTS BOO 'BACK TO WORK' APPEAL

Frankensteen Ousts Local Leaders.

Inglewood, Cal., June 8 [Special].—Richard T. Frankensteen, national director of the aircraft division of the CIO United Automobile Workers union, tonight suspended his principal assistant, Wyndham Mortimer, three international organizers, and all officials of the UAW local at the strike-bound plant of the North American Aviation corporation.

The action came shortly after Frankensteen was booed down in an unsuccessful attempt to persuade the strikers to return to their jobs in the morning. His plea was made at an outdoor meeting in a cornfield.

Attended by 3,000.

The meeting, attended by 3,000 men, had been called to consider an ultimatum from President Roosevelt that if work is not voluntarily resumed tomorrow, the United States army would seize and take over the aviation plant. Approximately 200 million dollars in war plane construction contracts are being tied up by the strike.

Before Frankensteen appeared at the meeting, the local strike leaders invoked a technicality of the union by-laws which prevented the men assembled from voting on a question of returning to work or remaining on strike. Complaint was made in some quarters that this amounted to a denial of their right to vote. The leaders, headed by Elmer Freitag, president of the local, explained that the by-laws authorized such a vote only thru mail ballots. They did not say when such a ballot would be held.

Speaker Drowned Out.

The crowd's greeting to Frankensteen was not, apparently, what he had expected. He was booed from the moment he appeared on the platform and hissed from the start of a speech designed to inspire a back to work movement. The boos, whistling, and hisses drowned his voice. Finally Frankensteen left the meeting.

Meanwhile Freitag and other speakers urged the men to continue on strike, no matter whether the army took over the plant in the morning. Picket lines should stand firm, they exhorted. The crowd applauded the speakers.

Not long afterward, Frankensteen issued his order suspending Mortimer, the three international organizers, John [Scotty] Orr, Stanford Douglas, and Arthur Kearns, and all officials of the local union, including John Orr Jr., publicity agent for the union, Freitag, local president, and William Goodman, local financial secretary.

Supported by CIO.

Frankensteen was backed by Philip Murray, president of the CIO itself. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins appealed by telegraph for the workers to return to work.

Frankensteen has charged that the strike was fomented by a minority and has laid it to communists.

The strike was called five days ago in the midst of negotiations called in Washington, D. C., by the National Defense Mediation board. The men are demanding an increase in minimum wages from 50 to 75 cents an hour, a 10 cent an hour increase for skilled workers, and a closed shop. Some 12,000 workers are affected.

An AFL mechanics union local tonight ordered its 4,000 members to return to work provided that peaceful conditions prevailed or that the army controled the plant.

[News of developments in other strike fields is on page 23.]

URGES FOUR MAN BRITISH EMPIRE STRATEGY BOARD

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—Beverly Baxter, Canadian born member of parliament and a newspaper writer, today urged a four man supreme directorate of strategy for the British empire. Writing in the Sunday Graphic, he suggested that Prime Minister Winston Churchill remain political head of the nation, that Marshal Jan C. Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, and Robert G. Menzies, prime minister of Australia, give up their posts and come to London, and that Lieut. Gen. Andrew G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian expeditionary force, be the fourth member.

PRINCIPAL MEN IN STRIKE---AND THEIR RECORDS

Inglewood, Cal., June 8 [Special].—Here are the principal CIO union leaders involved in the strike at the North American Aviation corporation plant:

Richard T. Frankensteen—National director of the aircraft division of the United Automobile Workers. His charges yesterday that the strike was inspired by communists, recalled his own suspension from the UAW in 1938 on charges that he had communist leanings. Frankensteen is 32 years old and a college graduate. He joined the CIO in 1936 in Michigan and was a leader in the auto strikes there in 1937. The next year Homer Martin, then president of the UAW, suspended him and three other UAW vice presidents on charges that they had encouraged domination of the union by communists. Frankensteen denied the accusation. With the others he later was reinstated.

Wyndham Mortimer—Chief assistant to Frankensteen. Veteran union man, said to be close to several communist leaders. Mortimer was an early member of Lewis' United Mine Workers, and he followed Lewis into the CIO movement. He helped organize the sitdown strikes in Flint, Mich., in 1937. Is more persuasive with individuals than with crowds.

Lew Michener—West coast director of the aircraft division. He is a Texan. He is described as a fellow traveler, but not a communist. He also is depicted as a follower of Harry Bridges, alien CIO chief. Michener formerly was president of the Los Angeles Industrial Union council [CIO]. He figured in the Vultee aviation strike last November.

Elmer Freitag—President of local 683. Has been with the North American company six years. He once admitted before the Dies committee that he had registered as a communist in 1938, but he now disavows communist connections.

William Goodman—Financial secretary of the local. He has been with the company three years, and with the union two.

John [Scotty] Orr—A union leader from Scotland and an organizer on Michener's staff. First came into prominence in the "communist" Vultee strike.

Robert Mallory—A factory clerk, recently out of high school, and militant. Company employé and union member six months.

Irvin Smith—A company mechanic, union member one year, and employé two years.

Walter Wiitanen—A punch press operator from the middle west; with the company about a year.

David Simpson—A union member and employé about six months.

William Pupos—A recent union man, but company employé two years.

William Backman—A company labor and union member six months.

All these leaders are opposed to Frankensteen's return to work plea and sponsor continuation of the strike.

CHICAGO-BOUND ARMY BOMBER MISSING; 6 ON IT

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 8 (AP).—An army bomber of the B-18 type with six men aboard was reported missing tonight by army authorities at Fort Douglas.

An army spokesman said the plane left here at 3:35 p. m. [Chicago time] today and was to fly to Chicago.

The plane was piloted by Capt. D. N. Motherwell, commander of the 12th reconnaisance squadron, based at Boise, Idaho. Others aboard the plane were Lieutenants T. F. Holsteen, J. V. Gallagher, and L. K. Harvey, and Staff Sergeants Hawley and McGuran.

JAP CHIEFS CONFER OVER STALEMATE IN DUTCH TRADE DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 9 [Monday].—Representatives of army and navy, the ministers of foreign affairs, commerce and industry, agriculture and overseas affairs, and the cabinet planning board were called into conference today on the question of trade with the Dutch East Indies. Negotiations with the Dutch for concessions have reached a stalemate and foreign office officials said there was no room for further discussions at Batavia.

"It is high time Japan showed a stern attitude," the newspaper Chugai Shogyo stated this morning.

The Tokio Asahi attributed Dutch firmness to American backing and declared it useless to continue talking. It urged the government to recall its negotiator and to prepare for the future.

2,000 SOLDIERS MOVE TOWARD AIRCRAFT PLANT

Roosevelt Will Sign Order on Yacht.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—President Roosevelt will take over the North American Aviation corporation plant at Inglewood, Cal., tomorrow morning and operate it under army supervision, according to the White House secretariat.

Failure of the 12,000 strikers to consent to return to work tomorrow morning will compel the President to make good his threat to seize the plant in order to end the stoppage of war planes production, said the White House spokesman.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said the executive orders for taking over the plant under Mr. Roosevelt's recent proclamation of an unlimited emergency are ready for issuance.

Takes Papers on Cruise.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was explained, took the executive orders for the plant seizure with him on his weekend cruise on the yacht Potomac and is expected to sign them by the time he returns tomorrow morning.

Two battalions of the 15th United States infantry moved into southern California today from Camp Hunter Liggett in northern California. The 1st battalion, numbering 1,000 officers and men, is camped at Camp March, 90 miles east of Los Angeles. The 2d battalion, with 888 officers and men, bivouaced at Ventura, 60 miles north. The 1st battalion traveled in 84 trucks, the 2d in 116. Both units carried field kitchens and medical trucks. The men were equipped with field packs, rifles, and helmets.

Ninth army headquarters in San Francisco denied the troops were under any instructions regarding the strike at Inglewood, describing the movement of the troops as "merely routine."

Congress, it was learned tonight, will act at once to prevent further interruption of armament production by labor disputes.

Reach Bi-Partisan Agreement.

The first step toward legislation to end the menace of strikes to the attainment of maximum production of the industries turning out military equipment for Great Britain and the United States will be taken in the senate tomorrow when the amendment of the selective service act is called up for consideration.

Democratic and Republican leaders have agreed on an amendment to that bill authorizing the government to take over any plant if the secretary of the navy or the secretary of war shall certify to the President "an existing or threatening failure" of its production of materials for national defense.

To gain Republican support for this measure, administration leaders agreed to defer action on the administration's dictatorship bill to authorize government seizure of any property, tangible or intangible, required for national defense.

Agree on Deferment Plan.

They also agreed to a Republican sponsored amendment authorizing the President to defer the service of draft registrants who attain their 28th birthday without being called.

The selective service act authorizes the President to commandeer any plant whose owners "refuse" to produce goods needed for national defense. The dictatorship bill for property seizure is designed to enlarge the authority conferred by the selective service act, which is not applicable to a failure of production caused by a strike of employés. If the compromise amendment goes thru, the dictatorship bill, to which there is enormous opposition, will be shelved.

Provisions of Compromise.

The compromise amendment provides that during the full emergency declared by the President on May 27, he could act thru the army, navy or another agency to take immediate possession and lease or operate by government personnel those plants in which there was an existing or threatened failure of production. Neither strikes nor lockouts would be mentioned specifically.

Such plants would be defined as those already equipped, or which the secretary of war or the secretary of the navy held could be equipped, to

DUBINSKY'S UNION SHOWS $936,787 SURPLUS IN YEAR

Garment Workers Pay In $6,932,171 as Dues.

Forest Park, Pa., June 8 [Special].—The extent to which unions have become "big business" was indicated in the annual financial report of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union [AFL] made public here today.

David Dubinsky.

The report, one of the most detailed compiled by any labor organization, showed that the parent union and its local branches thruout the United States and Canada had taken in $6,932,171 and spent $5,995,384, giving the union an operating surplus for last year of $936,787. Copies of the report will be sent to each of the organization's 278,000 members.

David Dubinsky, president of the union, urged that all unions follow the lead of the garment workers in issuing public statements of their finances.

Bow to Public Opinion.

Such a practice, he declared, would make officers more careful about the way they spent the union funds, would increase public respect for organized labor, and would end pressure for government regulation of union affairs.

The union's effort to insure the re-election of President Roosevelt and candidates favorable to the New Deal last fall cost $145,603, according to Dubinsky's report. The union leader declared that "not one nickel" had been contributed to the Democratic party in connection with this effort. The American Labor party got $92,048 and most of the rest went to independent and labor committees supporting the President.

Included in the American labor party expenditure was an outlay of $25,000 by the union to help anti-communist forces retain control of the party's New York state organization in the primary contest of April, 1940.

Outlines Anti-Red Policy.

"Our union is vitally interested in keeping communists from capturing the American Labor party," said Dubinsky. "We consider as amply justified the spending of $25,000 to prevent the communist stooges, Morris Watson and Eugene Connelly, taking over the party."

Dubinsky disclosed that "very little money" had been given to Labor's Non-Partisan League, of which John L. Lewis is national chairman, because of the union's belief that the league is "communist dominated."

The report showed a drop in strike expenses despite an increase in organizing activity. The cost of running strikes was put in the report at $91,085. Benefit to strikes totaled $131,283, a decline of about 20 per cent from 1939.

Aid was extended to AFL and CIO unions to help finance strikes, but none of this money went to organizations involved in jurisdictional or "political" strikes, Dubinsky said. He declined to cite specific strikes which the garment workers had refused to support because they were considered the product of communist machinations.

Salaries for union officers, organizers and clerks totaled $2,073,352, and organizing expenses were $799,419, the report showed. The listing of items of income and expense was broken down for each local and for the international office. Thru this device, Dubinsky said, officers of the various locals were given a standard by which to measure their expenditures.

Clipper Plane Is Forced to Land at Alternate Base manufacture, repair, alter or store defense articles.

These articles would be described as products of facilities required by the army, navy or maritime commissioner "useful" in national defense.

The amendment also would carry a provision that the authority granted the President under its terms should be in addition and not in lieu of other authority already given him.

The house will continue consideration tomorrow of the 10 billion dollar appropriation bill to which Representative Joe Starnes [D., Ala.] has moved an amendment to prohibit the payment of any part of this appropriation to any worker who has struck for a period in excess of ten days in any national defense plant.

On Monday, June 16, Representative Hoard W. Smith [D., Va.] is to move to take up a special rule for consideration of the Vinson bill providing for a "cooling off" period before any strike may be called in a plant working on armament orders. This bill has been favorably reported by the house naval affairs committee and a special rule has been recommended by the rules committee.

May Use Connally Bill.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] recently introduced a bill in the senate to authorize seizure of strike bound plants which may become the basis of the proposed amendment of the selective service act.

"America faces a crisis," said Senator Connally tonight. "The national security is involved. The nation does not propose to have its safety imperiled and its program for national defense delayed or hindered by selfish and wilful groups who seek to take advantage of the nation's necessities to improve their own condition at the expense of 130 million people. Strikes in defense plants must stop. My bill will stop them.

"On the day that I introduced the bill, the war department advices were that there are more men on strike in national defense plants than at any other time since the beginning of the emergency.

"These strikes have got to stop. The people demand it. The congress must take necessary action to stop them. The administration and government authorities must exert their influence and power to stop them."

Definite Procedure Planned.

Senator Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.] will press an amendment whereby the government would be required to seek settlement of strikes thru mediation and conciliation, while private operation of defense industries continued, and the President would be authorized to "draft" these plants only as a last resort.

In deference to objections by labor spokesmen, Senator Ball plans to leave out any stipulated number of days' time limit for the cooling off period.

Instead, his proposal calls for a definite series of steps in the conciliation process which would have to be used before the government could seize a plant.

Senator Ball said that thus far he has developed three steps which would be required before the federal government could deem that efforts to avert a strike had failed, and that therefore the plant could be seized.

The first would be an effort of labor and management to reach an agreement by direct negotiations without stoppage of industry. The second would bring in the government conciliation service. The third would bring in the mediation board with power to arbitrate. If all these failed and interruption of production became actual or imminent, then the President could take over the plant.

WEST COAST OFFICER GIVES ARMY'S 'JEEP' CARS A SET OF FANGS

Camp Hunter Liggett, Cal., June 8 (AP).—Mechanical ingenuity has turned the army's new quarter ton "jeep" cars into lethal lizzies capable of spewing death as they bounce over rough terrain at 60 miles an hour.

The innovation—in which a .30 caliber air cooled machine gun is installed permanently on a tripod in the rear seat on the dwarfish "blitz buggies"—was developed by Maj. Harry Miller, commander of the 3d reconnaissance troop, here from Fort Lewis on summer maneuvers. It will be sumbitted to the war department for consideration as regulation equipment.

The "jeep," getting their first real test in the nation's big war games of 1941, are being praised up and down the ranks for their maneuverability, durability, and performance.

STRIKERS FACING CALL TO DRAFT IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8 [Special].—Two more draft boards late today indicated they would order striking employés of the North American Aviation plant under their jurisdiction who have no dependents to be placed in class 1-A and be subject for immediate induction into the army.

The move followed action yesterday by selective service board No. 221, which sent out physical examination notices to six men declared to have lost their 2-A deferment classification by ceasing to be an aircraft worker.

Board No. 222, at a special meeting decided to place North American strikers who do not return to their jobs tomorrow in the 1-A status. The move will affect 75 men.

An emergency session will be held by board No. 226 to change the classification of strikers who do not return to work tomorrow.

DE GAULLE SETS SYRIA 'FREE' IN APPEAL FOR AID

Planes Shower Leaflets Down on Natives.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 8 (AP).—As British and "Free French" forces swept into Syria and Lebanon today, Gen. Georges Catroux, aide to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, proclaimed himself the liberator of those French mandated lands and their peoples free and independent.

The attack against Syria represented to the British the start of a race against growing axis domination of that country. It was an attempt to eradicate what was considered a dire threat to Britain's whole position in Africa and the middle east. It was the boldest initiative of the war for the British.

With the help of RAF and "Free French" planes, leaflets bearing Gen. Catroux's proclamation of freedom showered down on the flat, sunbaked roofs of Syria's cities and villages, on army posts, and on lonely Bedouins tending their flocks.

Expert On Middle East.

Catroux, long an expert in affairs of the middle eastern world altho his last assignment under the republic was as governor general of French Indo-China, offered independence in the name of "Free France who identifies herself with the traditional and real France."

The "Free French" had entered, he said, "to drive out of Syria the forces of Hitler" and to save the Levant from becoming "an enemy base directed against the British and ourselves."

Catroux promised economic security to Syria and concluded his call with:

"Inhabitants of Syria and Lebanon, the great hour in our history has sounded for you. France declares you independent by the voice of her sons who are fighting for her life and the liberty of the world."

Backed by British Government.

He offered a treaty between "Free France" and Syria and Lebanon—an offer immediately backed by the British government in a statement issued in Cairo by Sir Miles Lampson, the British ambassador.

The British and "Free French" naturally hoped that the call of "Free France" would sweep thru the 40,000 to 60,000 troops supposed to be defending Syria.

The British, stirred into action by recurrent reports of German infiltration into Syria and the growing threat to the Suez canal and the Alexandria naval base which German occupation of Syria would entail, counted heavily on anti-German feeling among the armed forces in Syria as well as among civilians.

There have been frequent desertions of officers and soldiers to the "Free French" forces in the middle east.

Says "America with Us."

One set of the thousands of leaflets which the RAF showered onto Syria was a quotation from Gen. De Gaulle, last reported on tour in the middle east:

"The time has come to resume the fight for the liberation of France. This time we will get them, and France will win."

Other leaflets which Gen. Catroux signed and had scattered over Syria declared "the United States is with us."

Still others from the British middle east commander in chief, Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, appealed to Syrians who would not fight alongside the British and "Free French" at least not to hamper the liberating movement.

The proclamation ended with: "We remember the common victory over the same Boche 20 years ago. Let's beat them again. We would like victory with our comrades of the last war by our sides again, not against us."

Risks Break with Vichy.

Depending on how swiftly, if at all, Germany moves to counter the invasion, the British may need additional men. French troops in Syria, turned to the "Free French" cause, might fill that need.

In dispatching troops into Syria, Britain risked an open break with the Vichy government. This the British hoped to avoid because the French fleet, belligerent in the Atlantic, would add greatly to the hazards already imposed on British shipping by German U-boats and bombing planes.

But the reportedly growing German—and to some extent Italian—foothold in Syria impelled the British to swift action. It is established that German planes, at least those which flew into Iraq recently to help Rashid Ali al Gailani with his now fizzled anti-British campaign, were using Syrian airfields for refueling. The British bombed in retaliation.

Official sources in Cairo said that reports of the last few days that the German infiltration had been stepped up were true and, in conjunction with the "Free French," the British decided that, come what may, the situation could not be tolerated further.

Leaders in New Middle East Outbreak

MAXIME WEYGAND, 74 years old, commander in chief of all the French forces overseas since 1940, with headquarters in Algiers, born in Brussels, chief of staff in the world war to Gen. Ferdinand Foch, commander in chief of the French armies from 1931-'35, and again 1940, defense minister 1940.

HENRI DENTZ, high commissioner of French mandated Syria and Lebanon, general under Weygand in command of all French troops in the near east.

HENRI PHILIPPE PETAIN, 85 years old, chief of the French state since 1940, with his capital at Vichy, marshal and commander in chief of the French forces in the world war, defender of Verdun, and author of the phrase, "They shall not pass," former minister of war and ambassador to Spain.

GEORGES CATROUX, 62 years old, general and "Free French" high commissioner and military commander in Egypt, the Sudan, Syria, Asia Minor, and the Balkans, former commander of the French Foreign Legion, former governor general of French Indo-China.

SIR HENRY MAITLAND WILSON, 59 years old, lieutenant general and commander of British forces in Palestine and Transjordan, director of operations in Libya that drove Italians beyond Bengazi, former commander of British forces in Greece, and former commander of the Army of the Nile, expert in mechanized warfare.

CHARLES DE GAULLE, 50 years old, supreme leader of the Free France committee with headquarters in London, formed June 24, 1940, which controls French colonies of New Caledonia, the Congo, French Equatorial Africa, Tahiti, and French Guiana, major general and divisional commander in 1940, undersecretary of war, early advocate of mechanized armies.

POLISH DESTROYER 1ST TO SIGHT BISMARCK ON DAY OF SINKING

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—The Polish destroyer Piorun was the first warship actually to sight the German battleship Bismarck and moved in immediately to engage the great craft on the day she was sunk, May 27, the British admiralty announced tonight. The destroyer, under Commander Eugeniusz Plawski, came under heavy fire from the Bismarck's main and secondary armament.

Capt. P. L. Vian, commander of the allied destroyer force, in a message to Plawski, said: "Many congratulations that you were the first ship of our forces to sight the enemy. I hope you will be with me next time I go into action."

The Bismarck was sunk 400 miles west of Brest, France, three days after it had sunk the British battle cruiser Hood between Greenland and Iceland.

U. S. SHIP CREW TELLS OF HOOD, BISMARCK FIGHT

Patrol Periled by Falling Shells.

[BY THE NEW YORK NEWS.]

Woods Hole, Mass., June 8.—The United States coast guard cutter General Greene returned today from the naval war zone off the coast of Greenland, where it had been on patrol duty.

The crew brought firsthand reports of the battle between the losing British cruiser Hood and the temporarily victorious German battleship Bismarck. And they told of rescuing survivors from a freighter.

The General Greene, a 125 footer, was near enough to one of the principals in this encounter to shudder under the impact as the mighty battlecraft threw tons of hot steel at each other. The Greene was there because she was picking up 39 survivors of a crew of 80 from the torpedoed British freighter Marconi. Altho visibility was poor, owing to fog, coast guardsmen said tonight they were only about a mile from one of the big opponents in the long range artillery battle.

Planes Roar Overhead.

Planes they identified as German roared overhead, said crew members. "Some of the shells came mighty near to our starboard side," they said. "We were in a tough spot," added one of the crewmen.

The Marconi, it was related, was one of ten ships which German submarines torpedoed on May 29. The General Greene took the survivors from two lifeboats, and these men told harrowing stories of having had to throw overboard crazed comrades who, unable to get along on their ration, had drunk salt water. The U-boat attack was placed as 500 miles east of St. Johns, N. F.

Two Escape from Attackers.

The rescued Britishers were in a pitiful condition, barely able to stand. The two lifeboats had been at sea for six days. Four teaspoonfuls of evaporated milk per man was their daily sustenance. Drinking water was rationed in the same manner. Thirty-three of the British sailors were found to be gangrene victims, after they had been landed at St. Johns.

Two ships escaped from the attacked convoy. One arrived at St. Johns with a 30 foot hole in her side, but her crew was safe.

FRENCH BATTLE BRITISH TROOPS INVADING SYRIA

Jebel Druz region, the other moving northward almost equidistant between Beirut and Damascus. It was this column which apparently was attacking Banias.

Other British forces were reported attacking to the west toward Merdjayoun, which is about 35 miles south of Beirut and 20 miles from the coast.

As the other wing of the pincer, British motorized troops to the east reportedly were attempting to move up the historic Euphrates river in Iraq.

Aleppo Airport a Goal.

The apparent objectives of these veterans of the recently concluded British war with pro-German natives in Iraq were Deir Ez Zor first and then Aleppo. Deir Ez Zor is an important point for French troop concentrations. Aleppo has a valuable airport.

[The British command in Cairo refrained from giving any details on the progress of the advance into Syria. A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Jerusalem indicated the advance was proceeding smoothly 12 hours after the frontier was crossed at 2 a. m. Sunday [7 p. m., Saturday, Chicago time]. The RAF was said to be encountering no opposition. One route of the British into Syria, Cairo reports said, was along the road from Haifa, Palestine, to Beirut, starting from the frontier post at Ras en Nakura. The road runs along the coast.]

Fleet and RAF Strikes.

British warships and planes were closely coördinating their efforts with those of the land troops, estimated here to number about 20,000.

A British squadron of a battleship, five destroyers, and two cruisers pounded the coast south of Beirut. Another cruiser debarked a small detachment of machine gun troops but the French said these were quickly rounded up and taken prisoner.

Beirut itself was bombed twice in extensive operations by the royal air force. In the second attack bombs started "small fires", in the reservoirs of the National Petroleum company. Airports at Mezze, Nerab, and Rayak also were attacked, but they escaped any serious damage.

Destroy British Planes.

Destruction of some British planes along the southern front was reported, and several British armored cars were wrecked.

Battle contact was established with the British at 3:45 a. m., the French said, an hour and three-quarters after the Syrian frontier first was crossed.

The French communique, in addition to claiming "brilliant" defensive maneuvers for its forces, said troops of all branches were carrying out operations bravely and fighting was continuing, indicating that the British and De Gaullists did not catch Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, napping. Gen. Dentz was believed to have assumed personal command of his armies.

[A broadcast of the "Free French" radio heard in New York said that "our military forces in Syria are continuing their advance in spite of scattered opposition." The broadcast, originating in Brazzaville, French Equatorial Africa, said "we take pride in announcing that our initial success has been due in large measure to American supplies."]

Gen. Dentz, a stalwart soldier who commanded a division in the war which ended for France last June, has between 40,000 and 60,000 troops under his command to contend with the British attack. Most of his men are colonials.

The French population, which heard the news of the fighting late this afternoon with great emotion, was anxiously awaiting details.

The French declared that the British design was to seize the French empire and also grab French interests in Iraq oil fields.

They also said that the attack on Syria was "a continuation of Prime Minister Churchill's plan which aims at profiting from the tragic situation in which France now finds itself to grab the French empire."

The French continued to insist on their position that there were no German soldiers in Syria and therefore the attack was without any justification.

Relations between the French and British have been growing worse for the last two months and in view of the series of incidents of the last three weeks the outbreak of hostilities in Syria was hardly unexpected.

Mothers, Here's F.D.R.'s Pledge!

President Roosevelt, on October 30, 1940, speaking to fathers and mothers on the selective service act.

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers I give you one more assurance.

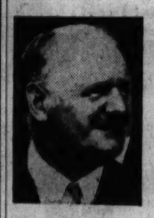
"I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.

"They are going into training to form a force so strong, that by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war far away from our shores.

"The purpose of our defense is defense."

BRITAIN'S PLEDGE OF FREEDOM FOR SYRIA, LEBANON

CAIRO, Egypt, June 8 (AP).—Sir Miles Lampson, British ambassador to Egypt, made this statement today on behalf of the British government:



Sir Miles Lampson.

"Gen. Georges Catroux on behalf of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, chief of the Free French, has issued a declaration to the inhabitants of Syria and Lebanon before advancing with the object of expelling the Germans. In this he declares the liberty and independence of Syria and Lebanon. He undertakes to negotiate a treaty to insure these objects.

"I am authorized by his majesty's government in the United Kingdom to declare that they support and associate themselves with the assurance of independence given by Gen. Catroux on behalf of Gen de Gaulle to Syria and Lebanon.

"I am also authorized to give you the assurance that should you support and join the allies his majesty's government in the United Kingdom offer you all the advantages enjoyed by free countries who are associated with them.

"The blockade will be lifted and you may enter into immediate relations with the sterling bloc which will give you enormous, besides immediate, advantages from the point of view of your exports and imports. You will be able to sell your products and buy freely in all free countries."

BRITISH SCHOOL CHILDREN ASKED TO HELP HARVEST

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—British agriculture appealed to school children and volunteers today to harvest this year's expected bumper crop from increased acreage and make up for the diversion of labor into the war effort and the fighting forces.

The board of education "has asked local educational authorities to facilitate the employment of school children within the limits permitted by law by fixing holidays to fit with local agricultural needs."

The ministry of agriculture said "this year we shall have considerably greater acreage of crops to be harvested under almost certainly less favorable conditions and we shall have to look to school children for even more help." The ministry said at least 8,000 schoolboys attended 250 harvest camps last year and this year older children have been asked to go to neighboring farms one or two days a week.

5,000 Drown During Storm in India, London Hears

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Calcutta, India, reported tonight 5,000 persons were said to have been drowned in a storm which struck a large number of villages in the district of Barisal in the Ganges delta.

SAYS 'SOMETHING GONE WRONG' IN NAZI-RED TALKS

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Stockholm said today the Berlin correspondent of the Social Demokraten had called this Swedish newspaper that "evidently something has gone wrong with Russian-German negotiations."

The correspondent was quoted as saying German political circles were betraying anxious interest in the flight of British Ambassador Sir Stafford Cripps from Moscow to London to make a report to his government.

"Political quarters in Berlin suppose that Eden [Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden] called Sir Stafford to London because of the uncertainty of Russia's attitude toward both Great Britain and Germany," the correspondent said.

The correspondent said the German press expressed curiosity as to how Sir Stafford would make his journey to London without passing over German controled areas. [Moscow dispatches last week said he was going by way of Stockholm.]

THREE CHINESE OUSTED OVER 700 DEATHS IN RAID

CHUNGKING, China, June 8 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today dismissed three prominent officials, but ordered them to carry on their duties—a seyere form of censure because it involves loss of face—as a result of the disaster in which 700 persons were suffocated on Thursday at an aid raid shelter.

The officials were declared guilty of negligence and responsible for the disaster in which the Chinese, attempting to rush back into a cave after a premature signal of "all clear," trampled one another at the entrance.

The dismissed men were Mayor K. C. Wu, Air Defense Commander Gen. Liu Shih, and Deputy Commander Gen. Hu Pei-han.

A hundred buildings were said to have been wrecked and 13 persons killed or wounded by Japanese planes which dropped 100 bombs yesterday.

PICTURE OF SYRIA: ITS SIZE, PEOPLE, AND OCCUPATIONS

Mainly Agricultural; Area Equal to Illinois.

War in Illinois—that is the geographical picture that might be evoked as a comparison with the beginning of fighting Syria. The situation would be geographically similar because Syria and the other divisions of the French mandated territory cover an area almost exactly the same as Illinois. Syria also is an essentially agricultural state.

Situated on the far eastern shore of the war torn Mediterranean, Syria [with its component Levant states of Syria, Labanon, Latakia, and Jebel Druz] is administered by France under a league of nations mandate.

Despite the terms of the 1936 treaty of friendship and alliance, which substituted Syrian autonomy for the French mandate [pending acceptance of the treaty by France], the French still maintain a high commissioner in the region, Gen. Henri Dentz.

Rises Steeply from Sea.

Syria, bounded on the west by the Mediterranean, the south by Palestine and Transjordan, the east by Iraq, and the north by Turkey, rises steeply out of the sea to a height of about 10,000 feet only a few miles from the coast. Then it falls in a series of long steps eastward to the basin of the Euphrates river and thence east almost to the foothills of the Kurdistan mountains.

The few indentations of the coastline limit the number of natural harbors and, in turn, the danger of an impressive invasion from the sea. However, Syria's flat desert regions would facilitate an airborne thrust by the Germans.

According to the latest population figures, the Syrian region had 3,630,000 inhabitants. This is slightly less than half of Illinois' population, despite the similarity of Syria's 57,900 square miles to Illinois' 56,043.

Mixture of Former States.

The Syrian territories are composed of a somewhat heterogeneous mixture of former states, peoples, dialects, and religions.

Arabic is the predominant tongue, with many dialectal varieties. Added to these are the languages of the Turks, Turkomans, Kurds, Circassians, Armenians, Persians, Jews, and Europeans who help make up the population.

Religiously the country is mainly Mohammedan, this religion claiming more than a million and a half persons. Christians, however, are an important element and have had churches in Syria since the earliest times. Now they number about 500,000. Divisions include Maronites, Greek Catholics [Uniats], Orthodox, Armenian Catholics, Protestants, and Melkites.

Ten Per Cent of Soil Tillable.

Altho it is an agricultural land, only about 10 per cent of Syria's soil is tillable without extensive irrigation. Most of the farmers raise grain crops. Tobacco is an important crop and recently there has been extensive development of cotton. Cattle and camel raising also are important.

Syria produces few minerals, altho there are indications that more might be found if the country were sufficiently exploited. Little petroleum is found, by contrast to the rich Iraqi and Turkish fields nearby. Syrian industry is almost inconsequential.

Great strides have been made in improving communications in Syria since 1900. The region is well provided with railways and motor roads. In 1924 it had 4,021 miles of highways, of which 1,384 were suitable for automobiles and trucks. At the beginning of the war it boasted two regular air lines, one between Tripoli, Lebanon, and Marseilles, France; the other linking Damascus and Bagdad, Iraq.

Under Different Rulers.

Thruout her history, Syria has been carried along as part of one empire after another. In the 15th century, B. C., the country was held in part by Egyptian viceroys.

The Assyrians took over in 1050 B. C. The Persians conquered in 733 B. C. and lost the land to the Macedonians in 332 B. C. When Alexander the Great moved into the east.

During the Persian sway, the Phoenicians populated the shores of the land, sailing from it to far corners of the earth.

Syria was among the dominions of Tigranes, king of Armenia, from 83 to 69 B. C. when the country was taken for Rome by Pompey. She became one of the most important provinces of the Roman empire.

In 616 A. D., the Persians subjugated Syria again, but later she fell to the Mohammedans. The country figured in the crusades and later was overrun by the Mongol invasions. In 1516 the Ottomans took the land from the Egyptian Mamelukes. After the world war the Syrian territory was taken away from the Turks.

Miss Jinx Falkenberg, movie actress and model, doesn't think that her first name bodes ill luck, and she isn't a bit superstitious. That's what she said yesterday on arriving in Chicago aboard a TWA plane for a week's visit. In proof she picked up a broken mirror and powdered her nose. Lots of people, she said, wouldn't use a broken mirror for fear it might mean bad luck. Miss Falkenberg recently finished a movie called "Two Latins from Manhattan."

JUNK NOBILITY FOR U. S. UNION? BRITISH PONDER

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—Declaring that an Anglo-American union would mean the "salvation of the world, let alone ourselves," Leslie Hore-Belisha, former secretary of war, told THE TRIBUNE today that an "intention on both sides" is all that is required to achieve it.

He was asked if he believed England, to unite with the United States, would abolish its nobility to comply with the American constitution. He said that "we should abolish whatever is nonessential to achieve what is essential."

World's "Biggest Idea."

The correspondent paraphrased this to mean that the nobility should not stand in the way of the union. "It means about the same thing," Hore-Belisha replied, but he said he preferred his phraseology.

"I consider Anglo-American union the biggest single idea in the world today," he added, and declared he could see no real objection that could not be solved. He said union between the two countries was "severed abruptly" without any one having given serious consideration to a study of why and how it should be done.

The Means Only a "Detail."

"They could easily be tied together again," he asserted, declaring only a "single act of vision by President Roosevelt and the prime minister here [Winston Churchill]" was required to accomplish the reunion. The means whereby this could be done he added, is merely a "detail."

2 Shot by 1 Police Bullet; Bandit Suspect, 16, Dies

James Holliman, 16 years old, colored, died yesterday in county hospital of a bullet wound in the right lung. He was shot June 1 by Policeman Edward Delso of the Hyde Park station shortly after an alleged attempt to rob a man at 43d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The same bullet also wounded Holliman's companion, Glen Fields, 19, also colored, of 733 Bowen avenue. He is in Bridewell hospital. Holliman lived at 4114 Vincennes avenue.

GERMANY AWAITS FRENCH ACTION ON BRITISH IN SYRIA

Says Invasion Is Chiefly Vichy's Concern.

BERLIN, June 8 (AP).—British operations in Syria were watched intensely by Berlin tonight but Dienst Aus Deutschland, a news service close to the foreign office, said the affair was regarded here, at least for the present, as one which concerns chiefly France. Thus it was said, the official reaction at Vichy was receiving greatest attention.

"The declaration of the French government that this portion of its empire will be defended to the fullest extent of French strength is not doubted by Germany," the news service said. "The greatest reserve is being observed in Berlin, but nevertheless it is pointed out that this new act of aggression is in line with earlier British attacks on Oran [Algeria] and Dakar [French West Africa]."

In these cases, too, Dienst said, the British used "false charges of German military plans, preparation or action" to justify attacks, while "selfish British aims really were at the bottom."

Nazis' Course Uncertain.

The impression prevailed in many quarters, following reports that British troops and Free French forces under Gen. Charles de Gaulle had invaded southern Syria, that an episode had begun to unfold that will have an important bearing on the military situation in the eastern Mediterranean and the near east.

Whether there will be any German countermeasures remained an unanswered question. But it was obvious the Germans felt that the axis military position in the southeast was greatly strengthened by the occupation of Crete.

British Lifeline Perilled.

Much expert opinion was that the German air force based on Crete, in coöperation with the Italian navy, would soon be in a position to close off the eastern Mediterranean at will. A military spokesman observed that the only relatively secure place for the British navy was within a small triangle, the points of which are Cyprus, Haifa, in Palestine, and Alexandria, Egypt.

Axis dominance of the Mediterranean north of Egypt, if actually achieved, would be of vast importance because it would cut the British lifeline and make the British go a long way around to support their forces in the near east.

Hear Nazis Will Rule Syria.

New York, June 8 (AP).—The British radio said today that a German mission was scheduled to reach Aleppo, Syria, on June 15 to take over the government from the French resident general, Gen. Henri Dentz. The report said Vice Premier Jean Darlan had agreed to grant Germany air bases in Syria.

Turks to Observe 'Hands Off' Policy Toward War in Syria

ANKARA, Turkey, June 8 (AP).—The Turkish government will observe a hands off policy towards invaded Syria, taking only such action as is necessary to defend its own national frontiers, the British embassy was reliably informed today.

[Reuters, British news agency, reported from Ankara that all communications between Syria and Turkey had been cut off.]

The Turks, with the Germans already installed on their European frontiers and dominating the entrance to the Dardanelles, were said in informed quarters to view the allied drive into the French territory to the south with considerable satisfaction.

President Ismet Inonu was on the Syrian border inspecting Turkish defense arrangements when the long-rumored British-Free French invasion actually materialized.

"Now or Never," Says Britain.

A British military source said German penetration of Syria with air force detachments and the advance nucleus of an army expedition had endangered the entire balance of power in the middle east.

"It is a case of now or never for us," said a high British officer. "If we let the Germans grab Syria we might as well kiss Suez goodby."

"Hitler can't do much in the western desert [of Africa] while there is the scorching heat of summer, but if we held back he would be ready in September to hit us from two sides —from Syria and from Libya," this officer added.

In some circles the thrust into the French mandate was regarded as having forestalled axis preparations for a full scale attack eastward from Libya toward Suez.

Distraction Seen.

Others believed the alleged Nazi provocation in Syria had been designed mainly to distract the British while the main attack got under way in North Africa.

It was disclosed meanwhile that two German and three Italian planes had been forced down on the Turkish coast and their crews, including nine German airmen, interned. The Germans were reported en route to Syria from the Dodecanese Islands.

Despite heavy RAF raids on Rhodes, that island's air fields were reported still serving as refueling bases for axis aircraft bound from the Balkans to Syria.

MASON WARNS WE FACE CRISIS UNPREPARED

The United States is facing the fourth major crisis in its history totally unprepared and heavily in debt, Congressman Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.] told cadets of the Marmion Military academy in Aurora yesterday at graduation exercises. The home, church, and school must bulwark the nation and tide it thru the emergency, he said.

Religious and military ceremonies occupied the day. The Right Rev. Edward F. Hoban delivered the commencement address to the 59 graduating cadets. Honors won by the cadets during the semester were presented. They included three medals for military efficiency awarded by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Col. McCormick spoke briefly and emphasized the importance of obedience, duty, and personal appearance in military life.

40,000 SEASONED MEN MAKE UP DE GAULLE FORCE

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's "Free French" forces leading the allied drive today into Syria and Lebanon are part of some 40,000 seasoned veterans fighting at the side of the British. Most of De Gaulle's men have been joined with the imperial armies in the middle and near east; many of them fought with the British in the African campaigns.

Included are several mechanized detachments, and a company of Spahis —the celebrated desert bred cavalry which rode from Syria to join the British in Libya. Foreign legion recruits are in the Cameroons, deep in Africa.

Gen. De Gaulle himself at present is in Palestine, working in close contact with Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander in chief of British forces in Palestine and Transjordan.

"Free French" naval forces consist of more than 100 vessels, chiefly battleships, destroyers, motor torpedo boats, submarines and minelayers. One of the submarines is considered the world's fastest. The navy totals some 400,000 tons. French crews have been joining the ships in India, Singapore, Egypt, Palestine, Australia, Bermuda, and Trinidad. There are well over 1,000 flyers in the air force.

"Free French" colonies with modern ports and airdromes include the New Hebrides, Chad, Gabon, the French Cameroons, the Middle Congo, establishments in the Pacific, India, and New Caledonia. A few "Free French" are in training in Britain.

FRANCE RECEIVES LAST OF BREAD PROVIDED BY U. S.

VICHY, France, June 8.—The last of the three free distributions of "American bread" took place today in unoccupied France. Altho not actually baked from American flour, this bread represented the gift of 14,000 tons of flour made some weeks ago by the American government.

At all bakeries there were collection boxes in which those who could afford it were asked to place the price of the bread, the resultant sum to be used by the French Red Cross for relief of prisoners.

Children in the unoccupied zone continue to receive milk sent by the American Red Cross.

POLITICAL MOTIVE PROMPTED ACTION IN SYRIA: BRITISH

Claim No Choice Was Left but to War on France.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9 [Monday].—"If it means war with France, then war it must be," Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express commented this morning concerning the "Free French" and British invasion of Syria.

There was a tendency to insist that the invasion was "more political than military," but satisfaction was expressed with the statement of Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in the middle east, that the attack is being made with a strength that is regarded as a guarantee there will be no repetition of previous fiascos.

The Daily Express said "Darlan [Admiral Jean Darlan, French vice premier] and his cohorts will squeal that this is unprovoked aggression, but they know full well that they are now all out to see Britain beaten. That is why they let the Germans infiltrate into Syria in pursuit of oil."

The Express declared Britain must war against France if necessary to "stop the German grab for oil."

"Tarried Too Long."

"Here is action and welcome action," the Daily Mail said. "The question is whether we have tarried too long while German infiltration has obtained such a hold as to become too strong to shake."

The Daily Mail approved the British and "Free French" promise of independence to Syria as a most "effective counterblast to German propaganda among the Arabs," and warned that the British operations would involve "great risks and possibly even bring the French fleet against us."

These uncertainties, the Daily Mail said, are counterbalanced by the "certainty" that the Germans would have fortified Syria, captured Cyprus, probably Palestine also, and endangered Egypt.

The New Chronicle said the invasion "should clear up at once and for all the anomalous position of the Vichy government, reveal the full extent of 'collaboration' with Germany to which Vichy has secretly committed the French people."

Claim Weygand Disapproves.

The Times asserted that Gen. Maxime Weygand [commander of all French colonial forces] had failed to approve any Vichy action that might lead to a clash with Britain and said, "He will return to North Africa with the excuse, it is believed, that he did not regard Syria as a part of his province since it was mandated and not colonial territory. In reality, this means he is washing his hands of Syria and is taking no responsibility for anything Darlan may do against his advice."

The British government yesterday issued a declaration charging that the Vichy government failed to heed the British warning of July 1, 1940, that if any attempt were made to "allow Syria and Lebanon to be occupied by a hostile power or used as a base for attacks on countries in the middle east which the British government is pledged to defend," it would be forced to take counteraction.

Supports De Gaulle Pledge.

The British charged Vichy had placed air bases in Syria and Lebanon at the disposal of Germany and Italy, supplied war material to rebel forces in Iraq, and was taking measures "whose effect must be to bring Syria and Lebanon under full German control." The British, it was said, "Could not be expected to tolerate such actions."

The declaration stressed Britain's support of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's promise of independence for Syria and Lebanon.

The De Gaulle headquarters here charged that "it is to Darlan and his policy of gradually giving away the French empire to Germany and collaborating militarily with the enemy that must be ascribed the responsibility for any fighting that may take place in Syria."

The British and "Free French" action in Syria, according to informed political sources, is assured of wholehearted support of all parties when the house of commons, reassembling after the Whitsun vacation, begins a series of debates on Crete and the conduct of the war.

The first discussion will be of a general character and will provide Prime Minister Churchill with an opportunity to give a full account of the British defeat in Crete and to review the latest developments in the middle east.

11 BRITISH SHIPS SUNK, NAZI CLAIM; 7 BY ONE U-BOAT

Germans Bombed Trying to Salvage a Wreck.

BERLIN, June 8 (AP).—Destruction of 10 merchant ships and a patrol boat were reported today by the Germans.

The high command said planes and submarines accounted for the shipping losses inflicted on the British. Its war bulletin said a cumulative total of seven ships amounting to 42,642 tons had been sunk by a single U-boat, 21,250 tons of the total in its latest trip.

Three other armed merchantmen were sunk by aerial bombardment off the west coast of Scotland. A bomb was said to have destroyed the patrol boat off the British east coast.

Salvage Ship Set Afire.

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—A German salvage ship, working on "an evidently important" wreck off Terschelling Island in the North sea on Saturday, was bombed and set afire, the air ministry announced today.

A plane of the bomber command, approaching the island off the Netherlands coast, saw a large sunken wreck and the salvage ship surrounded by five anti-aircraft ships.

The British plane ducked in low between the anti-aircraft ships and "our first bombs dropped short," the navigator said. "But we had better luck with the rest. One fell alongside the salvage vessel and I was convinced that another fell either directly on the vessel or the wreck."

The pilot said that after the attack a column of black smoke was seen to rise 300 feet.

Attacked on Way Home.

On the way home the British plane which had joined up with another RAF plane was menaced by two Messerschmitt 109s, one of which was exposed to a long burst of machine gun fire. When last seen it was going down in slow circles with quantities of black smoke gushing out. The other disappeared.

British bombers also attacked German convoys off the Dutch and Norwegian coasts and dropped many series of bombs across the docks at Brest, France, despite fog and poor visibility. Docks and shipping at Bergen, Norway, were also attacked.

The British lost three bombers and one fighter plane in patrol and offensive action on Saturday.

Bombs from a lone German plane in a twilight raid killed four persons in a town in southwest England today and injured a number of other persons. Other raiders appeared over coastal areas on a quiet Sunday.

The admiralty announced that the drifter Thistle and the trawler Evesham have been sunk.

SOUTH GREENLAND'S GOVERNOR IS ON WAY TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—Aksel Svane, governor of southern Greenland, is expected here tomorrow for a round of conferences which may have an important bearing on the part of the north Atlantic island will play in "protection" of the western hemisphere.

Svane was en route on a coast guard cutter with a group of United States officials. The Americans have been on a survey trip of the island, where the United States has agreed to establish air bases.

In taking the island under the protection of the United States on April 10, President Roosevelt said he was doing so under an agreement with the Danish minister, "who acted on behalf of the king of Denmark, as sovereign of Greenland." Later, the Danish foreign office in German occupied Copenhagen declared the agreement invalid.

Tokio Hears Singapore Arms 'Feverishly' for War

TOKIO, Japan, June 8.—Japanese reaching here from Singapore say the British stronghold is making feverish preparations for war, constructing trenches and other fortifications, while Australian soldiers are arriving in large numbers during blackouts. Japanese rubber planters were said to have been compelled to move from the tip of the Malay peninsula to make way for fortifications.

NAVY HOLDS KEY TO BRITAIN'S FATE IN MIDDLE EAST

It Must Cut Axis Supply Route to Libya.

BY ROBERT NEVILLE.

[Copyright.]

New York, June 8.—British chances of holding the eastern Mediterranean against Germany and Italy depend almost entirely upon the royal navy. That was the opinion I found most prevalent among military leaders in Cairo, from where I have just returned to New York.

If the navy has to run, then there is no reason why the Germans cannot pour enough equipment into Libya to force the issue and push on to Alexandria and the Suez.

At best the British are given a "fighting chance" of withstanding the axis assault in that theater of war.

The British army in the middle east is not the same homogeneous force that the Nazi army is. It is composed of English, Scotch, Irish, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Indians, Rhodesians, Palestinians, Cypriots, Sudanese, Poles, Czechs, "Free French" and "Free Belgians."

All these different armies have their own reasons for being in this war. Some of them are mere mercenaries. Some of the South Africans are pledged to fight only in Africa.

Wavell a Coördinator.

The New Zealanders had only one division in the middle east, and obviously for political reasons Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the British commander in chief, could not allow the entire New Zealand expeditionary force to risk capture or annihilation in one engagement. The commanders of these various units had their own axes to grind, and certainly there were some cases of jealousy.

I never got a clearcut analysis of Gen. Wavell as a commander in the field, but I do know that one part of his genius was that he was able to coördinate and weld into an effective fighting force all these units of the empire.

As for the Balkan Campaign.

One impression given in London was that the British knew that they would be beaten in Greece, but that they went there with their eyes open to fulfil a pledge of honor.

I cannot flatly contradict this, but I can say that that was not the impression around the general staff in Cairo before the Greek campaign started. The British thought the difficult terrain in Greece would be more to the defenders' advantage than it turned out to be.

I find a current belief among Americans that the Turks have not honored their alliance with Britain. I got no such impression in Cairo. In fact, the Turks every time they met the British asked for one thing and only one thing—more equipment. It was common knowledge in the near east that the Turks were woefully ill equipped in almost every department of warfare and that it would be suicide to plunge into a fight with the Germans.

The day before I left Cairo I had the privilege of listening to a summation of military events from an officer of high standing. He stood before a big map of the eastern Mediterranean and held forth for a half hour.

British Forces Scattered.

"Look what we have done," he said. "With our limited forces we have tried to wage war on one front in Libya, on a half dozen different fronts in Ethiopia and in Greece, all at one and the same time.

"We drop a bomb over in Tripoli one night, then switch to the Dodecanese the next night. Now look at what the Germans did. They concentrated all their available forces on the one single tiny objective of Greece. Their bombers operating from the Dodecanese, from Sicily, from Italy proper, from Bulgaria, and even from Austria, did nothing but attack Greece. In other words, Hitler goes after one small thing at a time with all his available forces while we have been dispersing our strength."

Political Influence on Army.

"As an example of this dispersion, British units which participated in the capture of Sidi Barrani in the second week of December were taken from Libya and sent to Ethiopia."

What this officer did not discuss was the political influence on the army. It was more than once gossiped around Cairo that Gen. Jan Smuts, the South African prime minister, was the man who had insisted on the Ethiopian campaign, a campaign which might have been delayed for some time in favor of the conquest of entire Italian North Africa.

It was said that Smuts, who had only a small majority in the South African parliament in favor of his war policy, had to have an African success to hold his political position.

ORGANIZE DRIVE FOR SEPARATE AIR FORCE FOR U. S.

Birmingham, Ala., June 8 (AP).—A national aviation organization seeking establishment of a separate air force for the United States was formed today. Titled the Billy Mitchell Air Defense committee, the flying leaders decided to develop units in every army corps area.

A resolution appealing to the President and congress to have the air force made a separate unit adopted yesterday, was offered by I. S. Randall, vice president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc.

James R. Graham, Chicago, United States aviation underwriters' official, said the movement has been assured, the full coöperation of the National Aeronautics association and Aviation Writers' association. He and Frank Tiechner, publisher of Aero Digest, were appointed on a steering committee. Tiechner suggested appointment of secretaries of national defense and aviation.

The national air carnival closed today. Police estimated 450,000 persons attended.

NAZI HEAVY CRUISER HIPPER RAIDS BRITISH SHIPPING IN ATLANTIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—The 10,000 ton German heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper, equipped with eight eight-inch guns and capable of at least 32 knots, is raiding British shipping somewhere in the Atlantic. This was disclosed in a long narrative of a 2,000 mile Atlantic cruise in a British destroyer which appeared as a booklet on news stands today.

The booklet was written by Marsland Gander, who is a radio expert and a war correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. He estimated the British have sunk more than 100 German submarines since the war began.

He stated that 50 officers and more than 400 men from German U-boats now are in British hands.

PARK POLICEMAN, OFF DUTY, SEIZES ALLEGED BANDIT

Anton Grisz, a park district policeman assigned to traffic duty at Michigan avenue and Randolph street, disarmed and captured an alleged bandit while off duty at Oakdale avenue and Sheridan road last night.

Grisz and his wife, Jean, noticed two smashed cars at the Outer drive and Oakdale avenue. Grisz was told by witnesses that two men, one with a gun, had fled from one of the cars.

The policeman, not in uniform, found the armed man a few minutes later and seized him. He was Raymond Kertson, 37 years old, 3854 Maypole avenue. Police said he and a companion, now being sought, had stolen a car from James E. Milligan, 741 Buena avenue, a salesman. They wrecked the car a few minutes later by smashing it into the automobile of Mrs. Mabel Colby, 1128 Loyola avenue.

Prisoner Admits Slaying Soldier in Hawaii Park

HONOLULU, T. H., June 8 (AP).—Federal Bureau of Investigation officials said today they had arrested C. M. McFarland, 20 years old, of Schofield barracks, for the killing of Robert A. Scott, 21, a soldier, and has obtained a confession. They said McFarland declared he killed Scott when they quarreled while drinking. Scott's body was found with the head crushed in Haleiwa park.

Soldier Slain; Nazis Demand Belgians Hand Over Killers

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 8 (AP).—Hundreds of men in Laeken, Brussels suburb, have been arrested following the slaying of a German soldier in Laeken park on May 24, it was officially announced tonight. The soldier, Rudolf Vescly, was hit by revolver bullets fired by two civilians who escaped in the darkness. The German military commander of this area warned that other measures will be taken if the slayers are not soon handed over to authorities, the announcement said.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNNERS LACK ONLY THE GUNS

11,000 Ready and Willing at Camp Davis.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Davis, N. C., June 8.—More than 11,000 new soldiers, most of them young draftees from Illinois and Michigan in the 6th corps area, are waiting here at the army's latest coast artillery training camp to learn how to use anti-aircraft guns. To date their sole armament consists of a few thousand bolt action Springfield rifles.

The rifles, long encased in protective grease covering, arrived a few days ago. The draftees are cleaning the rifles and practicing the manual of arms.

Just when the proper weapons will roll into camp, no one knows. Brig. Gen. James B. Crawford, camp commandant, said he hopes the date will be July 15.

The Scheduled Armament.

There are six coast artillery [anti-aircraft] semi-mobile regiments garrisoned here. Each is scheduled to have twenty-four 3-inch cannon, thirty-two 37 mm. automatic cannon, and twenty-four 50 caliber machine guns, a total of 480. The only guns of any caliber above that of a rifle in camp are the twenty-four 155 mm. guns of the 54th coast artillery tractor drawn regiment, a regiment of colored soldiers and white officers from Texas, and used in coast defense.

In time the 3 inch guns will be replaced by the army's new 90 mm. weapon, considered necessary to deal with modern warplanes. But again no one here wants to hazard a guess on when delivery will be.

According to Col. Richmond T. Gibson, commander of the 94th regiment, the present schedule calls for artillery training and gunnery school.

"But the guns aren't here," he added, "and so we are concentrating on the gunnery school. Each anti-aircraft soldier has to be proficient with a rifle anyhow, in order to serve as an infantry man on a moments' notice. So we'll make them soldiers first and artillery men second."

The Morale Angle.

Gen. Crawford considered the problem from another angle, that of morale. He has studied the present European war in detail, and has talked with officers who were military observers in the war zones. From this he said he believes that the superb morale of the German troops, as much as their superiority in mechanized equipment, was responsible for the German victories.

"One reason I wish the guns were here," Gen. Crawford declared, "is to bolster the morale of the men. There will be more incentive to the classroom work with guns on hand for demonstration. When the boys get a chance to begin shooting with them they'll feel better."

When the guns arrive they will be used, depending on their caliber, at the camp's three firing points and safety zones. These are within the nearly 9,000 acres under 25 year lease [the camp proper covers 3,200 acres, and lies about 30 miles northeast of Wilmington, N. C.]

Hurry Firing Range.

At the southern limits of the camp, construction is being rushed on four reinforced steel and concrete butts, 10 feet high, for the firing range. This is for practice with pistol, rifle, and machine gun.

Outside the camp site are the two firing points. One is located 20 miles south of Wilmington, at old Fort Fisher, the famous confederate blockade port and the last confederate port to fall in the Civil war. The other is being prepared 4½ miles due east, on a long sandy stretch of beach, known as Sears landing.

This practice ground, according to Capt. Jeff Barnette, public relations officer, will not endanger the Atlantic coastal shipping lane, which lies 27 miles from shore. Also, the water miles from shore.

Meanwhile, the troops, the first of which arrived on May 8, continue to shoulder arms. They also are beginning to get instruction in the use of searchlights, range and direction finders, and sound detectors, some of which have just arrived.

A cadre of officers and enlisted men from Fort Bliss, Tex., is preparing to receive the first troops of the barrage balloon training center, the newest and only organization of its kind in the army. These troops are the 3d barrage balloon squadron from Fort Lewis, Wash., where they have been conducting experimental work. They will be joined later by at least 50 per cent of the present personnel of the 1st and 2d balloon squadrons from Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Bragg, N. C.

Barrage balloon defense, heretofore a function of the air corps, operates from the ground. Hydrogen filled captive balloons, 87 feet long, are sent aloft attached to long steel cables.

The theory, evolved in the battle of Britain, is that fear of becoming entangled in the cables will deter enemy dive bombing of vital areas and force bombers to fly at high altitudes, thus decreasing their effective range.

Col. Robert Arthur, D. S. M., until recently in charge of the historical section of the army war college, will command the new training center and school. The first troops are due June 16, and by July 1 the army hopes the school will be started. It is designed for an initial student body of 80 officers and 750 enlisted men.

NAZI BOMBERS HIT ALEXANDRIA IN ALL NIGHT RAID

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 8 (AP).—Hundreds of persons were believed killed or wounded last night and early today by Nazi bombers which attacked this British naval base in the heaviest raid Alexandria has experienced.

The main attack developed in the port area, where a number of planes penetrated a wall of anti-aircraft fire from British and Greek fleets.

It was reported they failed to hit warships or any military objectives, but considerable damage was reported in the European and Arab residential quarters, where many fires started.

Only toward dawn did the roar of anti-aircraft fire subside.

More than 100 persons were killed in an attack last Wednesday night.

Roads were crowded by Egyptians leaving Alexandria and the government began running special trains free to evacuees. Premier Hussein Sirry Pasha sent three ministers to direct relief work and said $1,200,000 would be appropriated for it.

British Bomb Libyan Ports.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 8 (AP).—British planes bombed the Libyan ports of Derna and Bengazi over the weekend.

The middle east command reported artillery dueling at axis besieged Tobruk, Libya.

[In Rome the Italian high command said its planes struck again at the besieged British garrison at Tobruk, bombed British forces at Siwa oasis, guarding the inland approaches to the valley of the Nile, and raided the British base at Malta.]

Pursuing their cleanup of Ethiopia, the British pressed on from the Omo river, which they crossed last week. They said they had captured 3,000 Europeans and 1,000 Eritreans.

[The Italian high command said its garrison at Uolchefit, in the Gondar zone of Ethiopia, rejected a demand for surrender and inflicted losses on the besiegers with daring sorties.]

Damage Heavy, Nazis Claim.

BERLIN, June 8 (AP).—DNB, German official news agency, today quoted reconnaissance pilots as saying extensive damage was inflicted in the raid last night on Alexandria and that nearby military installations sustained equally heavy destruction.

The raid was said to have been directed mainly at the Egyptian port's harbor, arsenal and supply depots. DNB asserted a large fire was started west of the harbor by heavy caliber bombs.

John E. Warner says, "SORRY I CAN'T HELP YOU"

John E. Warner Associates cannot help this man because he waited too long. In spite of the claims of various "hair growers" —baldness is a permanent condition except in very rare cases. To the man who is losing his hair—and wants to avoid baldness, John E. Warner Associates offer:

1. A free private scalp examination and analysis by a competent experienced expert.
2. No false or misleading claims or promises are made for Warner treatment—and we do not use high pressure sales tactics.
3. The assurance that your case will not be accepted for treatment unless beneficial results are certain.
4. An advanced scientific form of treatment which has successfully saved and improved the hair of thousands of men. Each case is treated individually and in complete privacy.
5. A reasonable fee, payable as the treatments are taken. We have enough confidence in our service that we do not ask you to pay in advance or sign any agreement to take a series of treatments.
6. One of the largest and best equipped offices of this kind in the world. The same John E. Warner Associates' treatment and service which has proven so successful in Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Detroit.
7. The honest advertising of a worthwhile service.

If your hair and scalp show the symptoms of approaching baldness such as very dry, itchy scalp, dandruff and excessive falling hair you SHOULD arrange to save your hair while you still have hair to save. The new offices of the John E. Warner Associates in Chicago are conveniently located, suite 1320-24, North American Bldg., 36 S. State, northwest corner of State and Monroe, phone Central 1451. There is a separate department for women.

$2,000 Changed a Life, Decided a Career

You have asked me (writes a well-known New York agent) to tell your readers the story that made me choose life insurance as my career. So here it is—the story of a young couple who lived on a farm in upstate New York back in the nineties...

It was unusually poor land, that farm. Stony and worked out—the sort of farm that makes a woman old before her time and breaks her husband's heart.

It didn't break this young farmer's heart. But it filled him with a grim determination to see that his baby son had a better chance than he had had. Somehow his son was going to have a college education—going to have the thing that would give him a chance to choose the kind of life he wanted.

Their son was going to college ... It became the most important thing in that young couple's life. They struggled desperately to save money, they made many sacrifices to pay the premiums on a $2,000 life insurance policy...

By the time the boy was four years old, he was an orphan, living with his grandmother. She was a fine woman, with her son's same grim determination. She never forgot that her son wanted his boy to go to college, so she didn't touch that $2,000 that came from her son's policy, not even when she was hard-pressed for money—which was often.

The boy went to college. $2,000 was more money then than it is now; by combining it with a lot of hard work, he got through college and went out into the world with a first-class education.

He found many opportunities. But when it came to deciding among them, he remembered always that he owed his opportunities to a life insurance policy and to the sacrifices his parents and his grandmother had made for that policy and its proceeds.

So he became a life insurance agent... And that story is true. I know it's true—because I was that boy...

330 WOMEN FORM A 'LITTLE BRITAIN' INSIDE GERMANY

Tell About Their Life in Internment Camp.

BY ANGUS THUERMER.

RAVENSBURG, Germany, June 8 (AP).—There is a hotbed of British patriotism here in the heart of southern Germany.

Arrow locates Ravensburg.

Three miles from this little walled town, 330 English women and six children are interned for the duration of the war. They are living in three large buildings on the grounds of a convent of a German order of Catholic nuns.

Some have been in internment at various places since the Polish campaign late in 1939, but thruout the camp the spirit of "thumbs up" still prevails.

The women were brought here from Belgium, the Netherlands, Poland, and parts of Germany. The internees range from girls of 5 to women more than 60 years old. Some had been governesses. One girl taught Dutch officers how to ride horseback. One was captured with the French Red Cross inside the Maginot line. Others are blues singers and dancers.

Booth Granddaughter There.

Among them, too, is Col. Mary Booth, granddaughter of the famous Salvation Army leader. She was taken into custody on a battlefield in Holland where she was caring for her charges.

In the camp, in the beautiful Wurttemberg hill country, with the Alps visible in the distance, Miss Olivia Paquin of Montreal, Que., said, "Yes, they treat us okay, but I sure would like to get out."

Several of the women, however, were bitter about what they called the severe conditions they were forced to undergo in occupied territories and Germany before arriving in this camp.

The internees get about the same food as the German population and one of their pet peeves is the heavy percentage of potato dishes.

Cigaret a Medium of Exchange.

Arrival of food packages from the Canadian and Scottish Red Cross was one of the greatest events in a rather humdrum life. Cigarets also play an important part in camp life, and visiting forsign journalists passed out the first English cigarets the women had had since the outbreak of the war. The cigaret is a medium of exchange in the camp.

Internees are free to do as they please during the afternoons.

"We run almost out of things to do and things to say," one declared. "We haven't a radio, we have no English newspapers, and we've read all the books."

A girl who has been carrying the male leads of the camp plays is becoming doubtful of her technique.

"I've been doing these love scenes now from pure memory for a long, long time," she said sorrowfully.

Asked what was the worst annoyance at the convent, a girl answered, "Women, women, women. When I get out I don't ever want to see one again."

The average internee looked smart and well.

CONTRACTOR KILLED IN CRASH.

Jackson, Mich., June 2 (Special).—Fred J. Krumry, 70 years old, a contractor, died in a Jackson hospital last night, the result of a fractured skull incurred in a traffic accident earlier in the day.

MYSTERY BLAZE WRECKS CANNON FITTINGS PLANT

Damage Is Estimated at $200,000.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 8 (AP).—Fire that spread rapidly thru oily equipment today laid waste to the half block long plant of the Wheeling Machine Products company—which was working 24 hours a day on government munitions contracts—within two hours.

Fire Inspector Homer Oats estimated damage at $200,000 to $250,000, but said origin of the blaze had not been ascertained. He added that a watchman who reported "everything in order" found "everything in flames" 20 minutes later.

State Police Chief John W. Bosworth said he had received reports that two fires started at the same time—in the third story office space and in the ground floor machine shops. "If that is true," Bosworth said, "there was sabotage."

Make Parts for Bombs.

Mrs. Ernest Kruse, wife of the firm's president, said its government orders included parts for bombs and machine guns and fittings for cannon. She said "we will try to have the plant back in operation in 90 days," which would entail rebuilding and installing new equipment.

The three story brick factory located along the Ohio river employed 300. A skeleton Sunday crew escaped from the flames.

Armament orders formed 50 per cent of the plant's output, its normal products being oil field equipment. Oil used in threadcutting processes fed the flames. Firemen kept the blaze from Gulf Oil company storage tanks, with a 500,000 gallon capacity, which lay only 40 yards from the burning mills.

Florida Docks Burned.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 8 (AP).—A fast-spreading fire that caused an estimated $800,000 damage today destroyed two of the Clyde-Mallory Line's three terminals here and almost trapped the liner Seminole.

The $1,500,000 liner, which arrived this morning on its regular run from New York and Charleston, pulled away from its pier as flames scorched the port side and set two lifeboats afire. The passengers had already disembarked.

Nine firemen were hospitalized. Scores of soldiers and sailors on duty helped fight the flames.

Mayor George C. Blume, Acting Police Chief E. L. Acosta, and federal agents began an investigation. They said the cause had not been determined but that the possibility of sabotage would be investigated.

BURGLARS GET $8,000 LOOT IN APARTMENT RAID

Burglars broke into the nine room second floor apartment of Alvin E. Sandroff, 540 Stratford place, early last night and fled with jewelry and furs valued at $8,000. The thieves overlooked $600 cash in a dresser drawer and a quantity of sterling silver. Sandroff, president of the Thomas Paper Stock Co., Inc., told police the robbery occurred after he and his wife and two young daughters left the apartment at 6 p. m. They returned at 7:30 p. m. to find the apartment door ripped off.

DIES IN CHAIR AT HOME.

Pana, Ill., June 8 (Special).—Mrs. Stella E. McNeely, 51 years old, wife of Bliss McNeely, a farmer of near Lakewood, died last night of a heart attack while seated in a chair at her home. Two sons, three daughters, and a grandchild also survive.

TELLS CATHOLIC GRADUATES U. S. ALREADY IN WAR

America is in this war, and the sooner all Americans realize and accept this fact, the greater will be the chances for a quick and decisive victory, Dr. Francis E. McMahon, associate professor of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, said last night. He spoke at graduation exercises of the South Bend Catholic High school.

Dr. McMahon, a member of the Fight for Freedom committee, said America "is in this war, not because the American people want war, and not because their government wants war, but because there is a world revolution in progress, initiated by Hitler, which threatens to destroy our national existence as a free nation.

"There are some Americans who refuse to face the fact of our present involvement. These people have put blinders upon themselves and clamor for peace when they must know there can be no peace while Hitler is rampant.

"Why deceive ourselves? The alternative for America today is either to throw its entire weight into the battle for freedom, aiding those nations now fighting our common struggle, or to allow those brave peoples to collapse and face the enemy alone. America and Britain can win this cosmic struggle, providing America casts timidity to the winds and tackles the job with the greatest possible vigor and courage."

Lieutenant Dies in Crash of Army Training Plane

Banning, Cal., June 8 (AP).—An army training plane crashed on the Morongo Indian reservation near here today, killing Lieut. J. R. Brosheer of Santa Maria, Cal. Lieut. K. R. Granzow, the pilot, walked five miles despite injuries to report the accident. Granzow said he remembered nothing after encountering a fog over the San Bernardino mountains while en route from Santa Maria to the army base at March field.

WRIGHT PREDICTS EXTENDED USE OF RELIEF JOB PLAN

Asks Support of Private Agencies Campaign.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

State Treasurer Warren Wright predicted yesterday that within a few days his new method of putting reliefers in private jobs will be greatly extended. Gov. Green appointed him chairman of a committee which on an experimental scale is utilizing private employment agencies to reduce the relief rolls.

"We hope that the results will be immediate, and we ask the coöperation of all Illinois citizens," Wright said in a radio broadcast yesterday.

First Test a Success.

Wright's committee already has achieved success in its experiments in getting jobs for an initial group of 90 reliefers. Permanent type jobs were found for 56, and 23 more are being interviewed by employers. Nine refused jobs and two failed to report for work after accepting employment. Another group of 100 reliefers will be material for further experiment, by instructions of the committee which met here Friday.

"Relief should be refused to men who won't work," Wright said. "That is based on the same reasoning which causes us to provide relief for those who can't find work. We are going to find out who are in each class. However, our experiment convinces me that the great majority of people on relief rolls want to work.

Hits Social Workers.

"The problem is to find out what they can do and who can use them. Finding out what they can do is not a task for social workers, but for practical men. The social workers have failed. Finding the jobs should be the task of the Illinois state employment service, but this bureau has not functioned, and the size of the relief rolls proves it."

"Most of the persons sent to us by the relief headquarters had handicaps of age, infirmity, or color, but there were jobs for them somewhere," the treasurer said. "This should give hope to others on the relief rolls, and to the overburdened taxpayers."

The genesis of the plan, said Wright, came shortly after he had to sign a state relief check for approximately $4,000,000. He took office in January.

Reports Governor Enthusiastic.

"I took that check to Gov. Green and said, 'This will break the state if it keeps up.' He agreed that what we need is relief from relief. Since then I've been trying to find a workable plan. I think we have it—ahead of any other state—and to say that Gov. Green is enthusiastic is putting it mildly."

Wright estimates that 20,000 reliefers could be put to work shortly with the aid of private employment agencies.

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, paid tribute to the work being done by Wright and his committee. He said that while the relief administration is charged primarily with administering relief, the administrators are doing what they can with limited funds to find work for reliefers.

Lyons asserted that he did not know of any influence being exerted by professional social workers or others to keep the relief rolls fat. He said that an examination of the relief records will contradict any belief that such an influence exists.

INJURED GUARD KILLS CONVICT, THWARTS 5 IN PRISON BREAK PLOT

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8 (AP).—A convict was killed and a guard injured seriously today in an attempted break for freedom by five prisoners at the Philadelphia county prison at Holmesburg.

Prison officials identified the slain prisoner as James Kreiger, 21, of Philadelphia, serving 5 to 10 years on a charge of armed assault with intent to rob.

The guard, John Routh, 44, frustrated the plot when he shot Kreiger after the prisoner had struck him on the head with a heavy bolt. Routh, a prison guard for 12 years, was taken to Philadelphia General hospital where his condition was reported serious.

MARTIN CHOOSES SCHROEDER FOR NEW G. O. P. POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., [R., Mass.], chairman of the Republican national committee, announced today the appointment of seven more subcommittees to advise him on aspects of the work of the committee.

W. W. Schroeder.

National Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder of Illinois was named chairman of the most important committee—that on organization. As such the Illinois committeeman will occupy the most important post in the organization next to the chairman.

Appointment of Mr. Schroeder gives recognition to the fact that the Republican party's outstanding success in the 1940 election was scored in Illinois and other midwestern states and to the feeling prevalent in the party that the middle west by virtue of this achievement should be accorded the leadership of a Republican comeback in 1942 and 1944.

Other members of the committee on organization are:

E. F. Colladay, District of Columbia; William Stern, North Dakota; Mrs. George T. Geringer, Oregon; Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds, Indiana; R. B. Creager, Texas; Walter S. Hallanan, West Virginia; Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa; Mrs. John E. Hillman, Colorado; Mrs. Alfred B. Williams, Massachusetts; Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Wisconsin; Mrs. Chris Carlson, Minnesota; Ezra R. Whitla, Idaho; Cyrus McCormick, New Mexico; Daniel E. Pomeroy, New Jersey, and Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, New York.

YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.43 A MONTH

No endorsers or guarantors needed : : :
Loan arranged in brief, private interview
A quick, simple way to get cash for emergencies

HAVE you a money problem which a personal loan will help you solve? Here is a simple way to borrow without endorsers or guarantors—and at rates substantially below the lawful maximum. If you have a job and can make monthly payments you are invited to come in and see us about getting a loan up to $300.

Suppose that you need $100. Find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payments convenient for you to make. Twelve monthly installments of $9.77 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. Or, as little as $6.43 a month for twenty months, will also repay a $100 loan.

All you do

All you do to apply for your loan is to acquaint us with your problem. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. But we attach far more importance to character and regular income than to the value of security. It is unnecessary to ask outsiders to sign the loan papers with you. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit.

Get your loan for less

The payments in the table include all charges. These charges are calculated at Household's rate of 2¼% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge a substantially higher rate than this. Some finance companies do charge a higher rate. We publish our payments and rate of charge so that you may compare costs before you borrow.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2¼% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

ENERGY ..To Grow.. To Learn..To Play

With delicious Silvercup Bread on the table every meal there's lots of energy for work—and for play.

New Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread is Here!

WHY THE New Silvercup Balanced-Diet White Bread IS SUCH A RICH, INEXPENSIVE SOURCE OF ENERGY

CARBOHYDRATE (Energy)

52% of Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread is carbohydrate . . . the energy part of food. Yet Silvercup costs only..... 10¢

An approximately equal amount of carbohydrate would be contained in 9 large bananas, costing about..... 30¢

PROTEINS (Body Building)

Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread is a rich source of proteins, for muscle and general body building. Costs only..... 10¢

An equal quantity of protein is contained in about ½ lb. top-grade porterhouse steak. (Weighed without the bone.) Price... 34¢

CALCIUM (Good Teeth and Bones)

Calcium promotes good bone and tooth structure . . . important to children and mothers. Silvercup contains large quantities of calcium — costs..... 10¢

Oranges are a good source of calcium . . . but to equal the calcium content of one loaf of Silvercup you would need 3 lbs. of oranges costing..... 24¢

VITAMIN B_1 (The Nerve Vitamin)

Vitamin B_1 is added to Silvercup in generous measure. Helps you digest the carbohydrates. Good for nerves and morale. A loaf rich with Vitamin B_1. Only 10¢

Calf's liver is an excellent source of Vitamin B_1 . . . but to equal the amount contained in one loaf of Silvercup you would have to pay about..... 66¢

IRON (For Good Rich Blood)

Iron is an essential part of our diet. Too many people get too little. The new Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread is rich in iron salts. Only..... 10¢

Fresh eggs are a rich source of iron. Ounce for ounce they contain exactly as much as Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread. 9 eggs equal one loaf. Price..... 29¢

Silvercup Balanced-Diet Bread also contains 6 per cent fat and other valuable minerals.

ALL STATEMENTS BASED ON ANALYSES BY LEADING BIOCHEMISTS, WHOSE STATEMENTS ARE ON FILE AND MAY BE INSPECTED.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that all so-called "enriched" white breads are alike.

The new Silvercup Balanced-Diet White Bread, for instance, brings you all the goodness of ⅔ of a pint of rich country-fresh milk in every loaf.

Not skim milk—but real golden milk with all the cream left in.

And Silvercup is now even further enriched with minerals and vitamins, as recommended by the American Defense Commission.

Two slices with every meal—and as much as your family will eat between meals—will go a long way toward balancing the family diet—and the family budget.

Silvercup is baked fresh for you twice every day.

And we, who have been bakers all our lives, are completely and sincerely certain that no finer, more delicious loaf of bread has ever been baked—at any price.

ALL THE GOODNESS OF ⅔ OF A PINT OF COUNTRY-FRESH MILK IN EVERY LOAF!

LOWERING THE DRAFT AGE LIMIT.

The draft act was, as THE TRIBUNE said when it was pending before congress, a fraud on the people of the United States. Its primary objective was not to strengthen national defense but to promote war hysteria for the benefit of the third term.

Now that the administration of the act has been turned over to the army, which is interested in defense but not in politics, it has been necessary to strip it of some of its fraudulent features in order to adapt it to military necessity. That is the meaning of the reduction of the maximum draft age from 35 to 27 years, proposed by Brig. Gen. Hershey, the selective service director, and approved by the senate military affairs committee.

The economic absurdity of drafting men in their thirties, when the majority of them have married and are advancing toward responsible positions in business and industry, was made clear when the original draft bill was pending. The only object in retaining the high age limit was the political one of spreading the hysteria as widely as possible. The original propagandists for the draft had suggested a 45 year limit. Now the army says it wants young soldiers.

The amendment proposed by Brig. Gen. Hershey is commendable. If it is subject to any criticism, it is that it does not lower the maximum age enough. Twenty-three years would be a better maximum than 27, with the minimum age also dropped to 18 years. A draft liability period from 18 to 23 should, within a year or two at most, satisfy the needs of the army, and it would be much more satisfactory to the draftees themselves.

It is often a considerable sacrifice for a man to give a year to the army at 26 or 27. Often, by that time, he has married. He has usually got a start in his life work. From economic, physical, and educational standpoints a year in the army could hardly be called a sacrifice to a boy who has just finished high school.

He rarely has financial responsibilities. He is capable of strenuous work, yet still at an age when that work will benefit him physically for life. If he intends to go to college, a year in the adult world under army discipline will enable him to take far better advantage of his later educational opportunities.

Whether the draft is to become a permanent institution in the United States depends largely on whether our national policy demands a mass army. If we avoid the folly of foreign crusades—such as the one now being urged upon us—there is sound military opinion that we do not need such an army. But if we do have one, the younger we take the draftees the better it will be for both them and the army.

THE KAISER AND HITLER.

Nazi comment on Wilhelm II. after his death at Doorn was respectful enough but it attributed to him three weaknesses: one in not realizing the intentions of Great Britain soon enough, another in giving too much encouragement to Austria, and the third in not prosecuting the war with sufficient determination at the critical times.

Two of the criticisms seem out of line. The kaiser gave Great Britain an early indication of his hostility when he congratulated Kruger on the successful defense of Boer territory. He was a spectacular front for the German colonial demands and his government refused to consider a naval limitation treaty with the British. He put Great Britain on notice that Germany was a challenger and caused the British statesmen to look about for new arrangements and new insurance.

His government was responsible for an encouragement of Austria. He may have had little to do with it. His chancellor and foreign office may have had little to do with it. The military caste had Wilhelm's ear. The high command on land and sea ran the war and the kaiser was almost completely under control. Von Tirpitz had his way at sea in spite of the doubts of the civil government. Hindenburg and Ludendorff were in control of the military operations and toward the end the emperor had become little more than a puppet.

The world opposed to Germany made the kaiser and his clique symbols of human wickedness. Extraordinary personal guilt was ascribed to them. They personally were the origins of the calamity which had befallen the nations. The mistake in making such a simple explanation of causes might not have been so bad if it had been followed thru to its logical end. That would have meant that when the form of government regarded as perilous to the world had been overthrown the major war objective had been attained.

Then the excessive penalties would not have been placed upon the fragile republic which took over. It would have been given a chance to breathe. If the theory of personal or group responsibility were correct, the treatment of the mass of the people was wrong. If it were not correct, it would give a wrong view of the war and would be of no use in protecting the peace. And such the event proved.

It must have been a rather general reflection when Wilhelm died that the words used to characterize him and his advisers are now being used to characterize another German government, altho a greater difference than the one separating Hitler and the Hohenzollerns in origins could hardly be imagined. The phenomenon presented by the kaiser at Doorn and Hitler in Berlin could not be ignored by any one seeking cause and effect in a hope that the world might escape its wars of extermination.

Malignance in single human forms is an untrustworthy explanation of these events. It is a part of certain terrors and abuses but it doesn't contain the whole cause.

FRANCE IN A TOUGH SPOT.

Mr. Hull has given the French government of Marshal Petain and Admiral Darlan a warning not to go beyond the armistice terms and not to give Germany any coöperation not required by the terms of capitulation. Mr. Hull adds that his department is not wholly certain of the facts, but is making every effort to get a complete grasp of the French government's intentions. John Winant, the ambassador to Great Britain, just returned from London for consultation, is one of the sources of Mr. Hull's information.

The French have already replied to Mr. Hull that the promises of the United States government putting all the resources of this country in support of forces anywhere fighting oppression did not keep the Germans out of Paris. The aid France received was purely promissory and altho words crossed the Atlantic nothing else did. Nothing more could fairly have been expected because the United States did not have anything except words and hasn't much else at the present moment, when its new army in maneuvers still uses sign boards to indicate where guns should be.

France was not the only nation urged by the United States to resist the oppressor. It is not the only nation which seems to have received guaranties of assistance which could not be given and it is not yet known fully how many of these countries went in with vain ideas of what the United States would do and could do to help them out.

The men who are responsible for French policy now may be in a tough spot. They may have little confidence in the forces which promise to overthrow Hitler on the continent and break his rule over the countries which now take his orders. France is there on the continent, living under an armistice and facing eventual peace with what the terms may grant and what they may impose. Its government is confronted with a choice of making the best terms possible which might be greatly improved if the French did not rely upon an ultimate victory over Hitler, but undertook to adjust themselves to what they had reason to think would be the reality.

The period of German hegemony in Europe under the Nazis is one difficult to measure. The belief that the Hitler system is not durable does not carry with it the idea that it will not prevail for some years. Its weaknesses underlie its strength and people are justified in the hope that the weaknesses will sink it under. However, that does not overthrow Hitler now and if the French believe that they must deal with him and not with the United States or Great Britain, they may be consulting what they think to be the only entertainable view of their prospects.

THE ROOSEVELT BOYS.

As commander in chief, Mr. Roosevelt has made each of his four sons a commissioned officer. One is a captain of marines, one is a captain in the air corps, and two are naval ensigns.

James, the marine, has been gallivanting about Europe and the near east, delivering letters. Elliott, the flying captain who doesn't fly, is in Ottawa on what is described as a mysterious mission. Franklin Jr. is serving on a destroyer and appears to be the only one who is drawing his pay in return for the kind of service expected of a member of the armed services. John "feels strongly against killing," his mother says, and has weak eyes, but he has just been given a post in the naval supply bureau.

What the effect of this nepotism upon the morale of the armed forces may be we do not know, but surely it cannot be beneficial. Hundreds of thousands of Guardsmen and other hundreds of thousands of conscripts are getting their military training the hard way. They draw private's pay, wear private's clothes, and eat what is served at the company mess. Most of them are just as smart and many of them are just as well educated as the Roosevelt boys. It is even possible that many conscripts share John's aversion to killing.

The Roosevelt boys have shown only the most ordinary attainments but they have pull; and as a result they get relatively better pay, comfortable quarters, and slacker assignments which will keep them out of harm's way should Mr. Roosevelt succeed in plunging the nation into war. Perhaps the other young men in the army and navy are not indignant at this show of favoritism, but if they ever think about it they cannot but wonder what Mr. Roosevelt means when he uses the word democracy.

Men who are not preaching the European crusade have seen their sons called to camp. Many young men have been forced to interrupt their careers to answer their country's call. Young Willkie is under no obligation to enlist, of course, but soldiers slogging thru heat and dust under a full pack may be excused for overlooking that point.

Editorial of the Day

MASS ARMY, OR MECHANIZED?

[New York Sun.]

Anything that Representative Ross A. Collins of Mississippi has to say about the kind of army that the United States ought to have merits respectful attention, for Representative Collins was a pioneer among American legislators as an advocate of mechanization and motorization of the army. In the current issue of the Reader's Digest he puts and answers the question, "Do We Want a Mass Army?" His answer is an emphatic negative. He insists that the United States should stop drafting men by the million and should concentrate on developing a smaller mechanized and armored army. His description of the army of today is that of "young men in cantonments learning to fight yesterday's war" under the tutelage of officers, many of whom do not think in terms of modern war and most of whom are too old for their jobs.

One thing that Representative Collins says deserves particular attention. It is that no democracy can afford both a powerful mechanized army and a mass army. It must choose between them. Our choice seems to be a little of both, with more than 1,300,000 men in the army, but with scarcely a single division ready for combat in the modern sense. Secretary Stimson's recent hint that he may ask for an appropriation of $4,000,000,000 over and above what the present program calls for tells of the astronomical cost of a mass mechanized army. Almost everything that an army needs and uses costs more than it did a generation ago. Representative Collins, who for a decade has been advocating a compact, hard hitting, fast, well trained army, does not believe that the United States needs a mass army for its defense. The important point is whether Representative Collins' colleagues will listen to his arguments.

So far there is no movement to pay United States soldiers time and a half for overtime.—Indianapolis News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS IN THIS CORNER.

9th June—Did try to find a colleague the other day to ask for information I need, and not seeing her and noting her column was not in the paper, I wrote her a note and it came back to me from another person with this added: "She has been in hospital since last December. Didn't you know?" So I turned to fellows at adjoining desks and said, "I hear So-and-So is sick," and they all roared at me, "Didn't you know?"

So I roared right back at them, "How in the name of Beelzebub could I know when you sit around here like Stoughton bottles all day long, not telling me anything?" For never a word on the subject had I heard out of them, yet they come running to me often enough to ask questions. All of which goes to show that newspapermen, who are supposed to know everything, seldom know what is going on under their own noses.

Did answer the telephone at the next desk, my custom when it is vacant, and said, "He's not here, but he's around somewhere. Try him again later." Then the other fellows fell into fits of laughter and said, "He got married day before yesterday. Didn't you know?"

Went in search of fried chicken for dinner at the restaurant called "Kentucky Serves a Meal" and found it vacant, and a sign up saying that the place would become a funeral home. Then went to my club and found my favorite snuggery empty of dinner service, and asked why and was told, "Plans for re-decoration. Didn't you know?"

Well, anyway, I know they're going to close the Auditorium pretty soon, but I'm afraid if I walk over there to verify the report I'll find a grand opera season in full blast and President Harrison making the dedicatory speech.

TWO SAILORS.

Young Jock was reared in mucky slums
Hard by the River Tyne,
While Hans his infant goose step pranced
On banks o' storied Rhine.
In youth fate placed Jock on the Hood,
Slipped him a pittance wee
O' some few bob a month, besides
His beef, an' jam, an' tea.
His country's navy grabbed young Hans,
Taught him tae heil an' hate,
Then sent him o'er the watery deep:
The Bismarck was his fate.
Auld grisly Mars played wi' these lads,
As aye has been his habit,
An' tae each yin he gied aboot
As much chance as a rabbit.

There dawned at last the fatefu' day
When Hood an' Bismarck fought.
Hans' fingers were upon the key
That loosed the fatal shot.
A figurin' o' trajectory,
A boom, a michty swish!
An' sailor Jock a-flyin' went
In pieces tae the fish.
The sufferin' o' Jock, ye ken,
Compared tae Hans was nil;
For Hans went floonderin' roond for days,
Just waitin' for the kill.

(Despite the flag, the fife, the drum,
An' gabby gaffers' talk,
I canna help but think o' war
In terms o' Hans an' Jock.)

A Legal Tradition of the Rialto.

Speaking of the Grand Opera house, the theater that Wizard Oil built [May 29]:

In 1880 John Hamlin, of Wizard Oil renown, was the lessee of the Grand. His business manager was Will J. Davis, afterward manager of the Columbia, Haymarket, and Illinois theaters. His lease was to expire in April, 1883, and during his absence from the city Davis secured a renewal of the lease for ten years—in his own name.

Hamlin filed a suit in equity to have Davis declared a trustee for himself in taking over the lease in his own name. In the Circuit court Judge Murray F. Tuley decided in Hamlin's favor. Davis carried the suit to the Appellate and Supreme courts, but Judge Tuley's decision was affirmed.

The case of Davis vs. Hamlin, as reported in 108 Supreme Court reports, is one of the leading cases in regard to the law on the relationship of principal and agent, where the agent tries to acquire rights of his principal by secret negotiation.

A Portrait for the Archives.

Before the Auditorium hotel is locked up and turned over to the ghosts of a great past, take another look at the life size portrait of a lady which hangs at the landing of the grand staircase, in full view from the lobby. Many people have made wrong guesses about her name, so I'll tell you. She was Mrs. Lincoln J. Carter, wife of the producer of melodramas.

WRITTEN ON A ROCK.

Shrouded in mystery these writings stand
When those who daubed them long have turned to clay;
Strange symbols from a prehistoric day
Of men and creatures vanished from the land.
Forgotten characters! What urgent hand
Set you to tell what tale of lost emprize!
Your muffled words enthralled what eager eyes!
What effort started at your dumb command!
The years are dead that knew this ancient screed,
But man, concerned with outward things alone,
Still scars the rock with records that depart;
I, too, have carved my graphs upon the stone
And left a cryptic message none may read
Upon the rocky tablets of your heart.

Outside of my operation and my talking ailments, I'm too healthy. It worries me. I keep remembering the old saying, "The good die young," and I feel that if I live to a ripe old age people will misunderstand.

Why not start a drive to save the Auditorium for Britain? That ought to turn the trick.

YOUR "PELT" IS NOT BOILER PLATE.

SOME of us may look upon the skin as a nuisance because of its tendency to itch. Occasionally it will erupt like a volcano. But what funny looking and useless creatures we would be without this covering. It is even more important to us humans than armor to a battleship.

The fact of the matter is that the epidermis serves as a vital organ. It protects the soft tissues beneath and—like the stoutly built walls of a house—it repels many vagaries of the weather. Furthermore, without it, the onslaughts of bacteria would lay us low.

But it is quite different from a coating of boiler plate. It is highly sensitive, richly supplied with nerves and blood vessels, and will resent vigorously any type of irritation. We bathe daily because we have learned that the system can rid itself of considerable waste thru this envelope.

But, like all other important structures, it is subject to disease. In other words, it can be torn, poisoned, or infected. All sorts of microörganisms may find it a veritable feeding ground, should some drop in reserve permit them to multiply. Again, it acts as a wastebasket for various substances. In the presence of jaundice, with the circulation loaded with bile, this material may be deposited in the cuticle as the blood attempts to dispose of it. Yes, a careful scrutiny of one's pelt will tell us much about the state of health. It may be likened to holding the body before a mirror.

Many of the common ailments which attack this region arise because bacteria are allowed to collect upon the surface. Pus producing germs, particularly staphylococci and streptococci, may find their way into hair follicles—where they will grow. A pimple or a boil is the result. The ordinary powers of resistance will defeat many infections. With a patient who is rundown, however, an attack may be successful.

None of us is wholly clean. Dust from the atmosphere covers all exposed parts and "bugs" may be riding on every fragment of lint. Wipe the forehead, the nose, and the cheeks—using a clean, sterile handkerchief. A grayish looking smudge will indicate the presence of dirt, and this means germs.

Impetigo is a rapid spreading, ugly looking affair. It may start from touching contaminated fingers to the lips. Reddish patches first appear, followed by blisterlike blemishes which soon rupture. The exudate dries and yellowish crusts form. Scratching disseminates the disorder and a large portion of the face may be involved. Few of us realize the necessity of keeping the skin intact, as it is thru slight cracks—too small to be noticed, perhaps—that these invaders find entrance.

For the one who has repeated or semiannual crops of the affliction of Job [boils], some care should be taken to sterilize the entire body surface. This calls for the generous use of soap and water. Thoro scrubbing may be followed by the application of a weak solution of bichloride of mercury. In addition, an inspection of the home surroundings should be made, to make certain that the disease is not being kept alive by the use of infected washcloths and towels.

Carbuncles are more extensive, and no chances should be taken with these lesions. Sometimes the causative microbe may escape and enter the blood stream, with a disastrous aftermath.

We cannot be too "choosy" about the chemicals which we employ for beauty's sake. Every week some fair lady visits the hospital—badly poisoned by a cosmetic. Of course, she is highly sensitive. But the injury may persist for a month or more and recovery will be attended with much unhappiness and discomfort.

FOR A "RIP SNORTIN' FOURTH."

Attica, Ind., June 5.—With the Fourth of July only a month away I wonder how many true Americans realize they may be celebrating it this year for the last time. For two reasons it may be "canceled." First, so as not to hurt the feelings of the British. Second, because we won't have any independence and won't be allowed to celebrate.

Let's not forget this year—let's make it a good, rip snortin' day—it may be our last.

JOE APPLEGATE.

FREE POSTAGE FOR SOLDIERS.

Tell City, Ind., June 5.—Some time ago I conceived the idea of giving all United States service men envelopes that require no postage. Such envelopes would be placed in community buildings or with regimental commanders for distribution. They would have an American flag and an emblem of the division of service the man belongs to where the postage stamp would ordinarily be. Being an ex-service man I believe this would be appreciated more by the men in service than any small thing that could be done for them.

I believe the soldier is more entitled to free postage than any one else because of the small amount of pay he receives. If congressmen, WPA projects, and CCC official mail are more entitled to free postage than our American troops who get $21 a month to protect all of us, well, then I don't see that it makes much difference if we have a postoffice department or not.

CARL VAN WINKLE.

WHO REMEMBERS WISNICKY?

Wilmette, Ill., June 2.—I read in this morning's TRIBUNE about the party of the boys of the 1st division and I wonder if perhaps some of them remembered my late husband—Stanley Wisnicky? He was of the 1st division, 16th infantry. Perhaps they will remember the time when the shipload of sick soldiers were sent to the United States because there wasn't enough room in the hospitals in France, and the ship was torpedoed with all those sick buddies on board? And about the two brothers meeting on the ocean, one on a rescue ship who picked up his own brother from the ocean? One of these brothers was my husband. He often wished before he died that he could get in contact with some of the boys from his division or some that were rescued from this ocean mishap. If any one should know of any one of the boys that remember him, would he please have them write to me? I will be waiting to hear from some one; till then I beg to remain, your buddy's widow,

CAROLINE WISNICKY,

A TOURIST IN CANADA.

Chicago, June 3.—Canada welcomes United States visitors.

1. No passports or birth certificates are required. Only simple form of identification, car license, driver's permit, or social security card.
2. No restrictions on gas. Their gallon is 1/5 again as large as ours.
3. Pets may be brought with good health certificate from veterinary.
4. Cameras are welcome.
5. Good fishing. A short term license for $2.
6. American money goes further. Rate of 10 per cent exchange is paid in Ontario.

I have just returned and found the Canadians most courteous in every way.

M. G. FORREST.

THE WAR IN NORWAY.

Royal Norwegian Legation, Washington, D. C., June 5.—Allow me to point out an error which has crept into your editorial, "The Lesson of Crete," in your issue of June 3. You state that "the war in Norway lasted 24 days." That is not so. The Germans invaded Norway April 9, 1940, and the Norwegian resistance did not end until Sunday, June 9. Thus the war in Norway lasted for 62 days. During that war more than 60,000 German lives were lost in transport and in land fighting, and approximately one-third of the German navy was sunk.

I shall appreciate it very much if you will publish these facts.

HANS OLAV,
Press Attaché.

[Mr. Olav is correct. We should have said that the allies retreated from Norway after 24 days, leaving the Norwegians to carry on the unequal struggle alone. The outcome was not in doubt, of course, after the 24th day of the campaign.—Ed.]

CHICAGO BOYS FETED.

Summitville, Tenn., June 1.—Summitville community was host last Sunday to 107 soldiers of 131st infantry from Camp Forrest. They were entertained at the most spacious, shady place available, which was at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Roberts.

On their arrival at noon the ladies had the plates ready to serve, the menu being snap beans, potato salad, pickle, sliced tomatoes, dressed eggs, baked chicken with dressing, cake and ice tea.

Singing, kodaking, softball, and resting in the shade filled the afternoon hours. Sergt. Bruce D. Moore expressed the appreciation of the group for the southern hospitality they had heard so much about. The whole soldier group applauded.

The hosts enjoyed the association with these men of the United States army and the Summitville community was impressed with the courteous conduct of the soldiers thruout the day.

MRS. VIRGIL BANKS.

DIRECTED "SMEARING."

Evanston, Ill., June 2.—There is every sign in the growing attacks on Charles Lindbergh that opposition to him is a centralized and directed administration job, with the same method used in the "Smear Hoover" campaign.

The tirade of abuse by speakers and writers is really a compliment to Lindbergh's high character, patriotism, and intelligence, which they regret and resent is not used for instead of against the war policies they advocate.

A. R.

CALL DOUG. JR., HOME!

Alexandria, Minn., June 5.—The news seems discouraging. Let me suggest that Douglas Fairbanks Jr. be immediately recalled from South America to join with whatever war experts can be spared from Hollywood to counsel with Jimmy Roosevelt on his return. This mess is becoming complicated.

There must be some way we can get into this war now.

J. B. SMITH.

BOOKS CITED AS EVIDENCE.

Chicago, June 6.—Expressed in terms of books, the difference between democracy and dictatorships is very simply illustrated by the 11,328 book titles printed in the United States and the none whatever printed in Poland during 1940.

With us there is a wealth of ideas, while in dictatorships there are no ideas permitted at all.

CODICIL TO WILL.

Chicago, June 4.—Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago I had my last will and testament drawn by an attorney. Now I wish to change the name of the executor of said will. I cannot go to the expense of another attorney's fee. What is the best method of procedure?

1. To rewrite the document in my own hand writing and have it signed by two witnesses?
2. Use the original will [attorney's], scratching the name of the executor and substituting the new name? I have placed the will with stocks and other securities in a safety deposit box at my bank.
3. How can I be certain that these things will not fall into the hands of my family but only to said executor?
4. Some shares of bank stock were given me by my father as security on a loan of other stocks which he used as collateral at his broker. I believe he has lost my stocks but still refuses to sign the bank stocks over to me.

J. D.

1. We would consider it preferable for you to make the change by a document describing itself as a "codicil to the last will," so that if you make any mistake then the will drawn by the lawyer would still stand.
2. You should not do this.
3. Talk this over with the safety deposit officials.
4. You ask no further questions.

SURVEY REVEALS TRAVEL LIGHT ON POLITICAL ROADS

Only Turtle, Team Seen on Keller Highway.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—A turtle, dragging its heavy shell across the concrete of Illinois 151, stretched its neck as if surprised to see an automobile on this $445,579 highway. It was The Tribune road car on a 1,450 mile tour this week-end of political pavements that have exhausted the state's construction funds.

On leaving Ava, population 821, the Illinois 151 is posted with a bill board reading: "This highway was secured by Congressman Kent E. Keller and in his honor is called the Keller highway."

Only the turtle and a frightened team of farm horses were encountered in driving the 7.8 miles of this route southwest from the home town of the former rubber stamp congressman, thru wooded hills near the Mississippi river to Illinois 3.

Only 50 to 200 Daily.

Highway department surveys have reported from 50 to 200 automobiles a day on Keller highway. Using the larger figure, the traffic volume is only a sixth of the minimum that the engineers calculate is sufficient for the gas tax and license levy on the users to pay $30,000 a mile average construction costs plus maintenance. The road cost more than $57,000 a mile.

Keller highway is part of 3,300 miles of rural road in the Illinois primary system that does not produce revenue adequate to cover amortization and maintenance costs. Most of this construction, about a third of the rural primary system, was inspired by political pressure or the pressure of special interests.

Keller highway, built in 1937, took nearly a half million dollars that otherwise might have been used to relieve congestion and reduce hazards in cities and on main cross state routes where the bulk of the gasoline tax revenue is engendered.

Traffic Light on Another.

Crossing the state thru Franklin and Williamson counties, where high accident records call for amortization of worn out pavements, The Tribune car reached McLeansboro, home town of former Gov. John Stelle. Thence north on Illinois 142-A, we traveled another of these highways that took money and are still taking money sorely needed where it would serve more traffic. On 18.4 miles that cost $516,121 to build in 1932, the state's volume count is 450 cars a day, a little more than a third of the minimum to cover the expense to the road treasury.

Southwest from Havana, home town of Senator Scott W. Lucas, we covered the 25.2 miles to Petersburg yesterday afternoon, passing seven cars, not including two of fishermen that were parked near the Sangamon river. This traffic is served by pavement that cost $1,235,748 to build in 1932 to 1940. The department's usage count is 700 cars a day.

Cook County Has Its Share.

Cook county has an extended mileage of little used pavement, most of it built by the county highway department but maintained by the state. The state's traffic count for Willow road from U. S. 45 to Shermer avenue, is 525 cars a day; for Pfingsten road from the Lake county line to Milwaukee avenue, 325 cars a day, and for Keane avenue from Archer avenue to Palos park, 225 cars a day,

[a] Khyber pass. [b] Brenner pass. [c] Schober pass.

PROMISE REBEL CLERKS FREEDOM FROM UNION CZAR

One thousand revolting members of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, were assured yesterday that they would be freed of domination by Max Caldwell, business agent of the union.

C. C. Coulter, secretary-treasurer of the international, and Frank P. Fenton, representing the AFL, who investigated their charges, told the insurgents they would be permitted to form a local of their own and still retain AFL affiliation.

The anti-Caldwell clerks are employed in the stores of Hillman's, Inc. On Friday they notified William Green, president of the AFL, and their own international union that they would no longer recognize Caldwell as their leader. Caldwell was labeled a goon for the crime syndicate of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and a former associate of Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton, one of Nitti's gang chiefs.

Attorney Francis Heisler, representing the objectors, said they plan to file a court petition this week asking an accounting of union funds. The clerks charge that Caldwell set aside 25 cents per member per month for lawyers and legal fees and they placed the total membership at from 12,000 to 14,000. State Senator Abraham Marovitz, counsel for Caldwell and the union, denied being paid on a per capita basis. He said Caldwell would be glad to give an accounting.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Many declarers seem to have the idea that the opponents are there for only one purpose, to make ghastly errors that will concede the contract and, perhaps, a couple of overtricks as well. Some opponents are like that, but it is not wise to depend on such beneficence. Note today's deal:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH
♠ Q 7
♥ 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A 5 4

♣ A J 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

This bidding was not general at all tables of the match-point duplicate game but, in several cases, South became the declarer at six no trump.

At one table West opened the heart king. Declarer, hoping for a heart continuation, tried the "Bath Coup" of holding up his ace, but West was not to be trapped. He paid full attention to his partner's heart deuce, and promptly shifted to the jack of spades. To declarer, hoping that West was leading away from the king, the shift looked like an opportunity to win two spade tricks without conceding any. In any event, declarer could see no possible gain in leaving the spade queen blank on the table where it would be easily smothered by the king. Hence he put up the queen and, when East covered, either had to win with the ace or concede defeat on the spot. After that he was struggling with a lost cause. He could run six clubs and his three top diamonds but, with seven diamonds missing, it was impossible for the suit to break, hence he came out one trick short.

Strangely enough, at another table the first two plays went precisely the same, namely the heart king and then a shift to the spade jack. This declarer, however, was not given to wishful thinking. He knew that no defender in his right mind would lead away from the spade king with dummy's queen plainly in sight, hence it would be pointless to sacrifice the queen. There might be a much better use for that card. This declarer took the spade jack with the ace and promptly cashed the ace of hearts, then rattled off his six club tricks. On the last club, East found himself in great difficulties. Forced to reduce to four cards, he had to let go either the spade king, which was unthinkable, or a diamond. Naturally, he chose the latter. Declarer, meanwhile, had held on to his four diamonds. Now all he had to do was lead a diamond to his own hand. The deuce of diamonds had been promoted to the fulfilling trick.

The moral is that even a blank queen can fulfill an important function.

Tells Graduates How Minorities Aid Democracy

Jacksonville, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Speaking on "The Glory and Power of the Minority," the Rev. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, urged the graduating class of Illinois college at the baccalaureate service here this morning always to tolerate the minority.

"It is the best strategy, if nothing else," he said. "Don't drive the communists under ground. Bring them out in the open so you can see what they are doing. Control minorities, but don't suppress them. That only gives them added power. Minorities have faith and they have to live by that faith. Democracy is the right of the majority to rule, coupled with the right of the minority to criticize.

"The majority always needs the checking influence of an able, alert and courageous minority. Some one has said that in America 5 per cent of the people think, 5 per cent think they think, and the rest live by slogans. The real test of a minority is to be able to stand prosperity. The value of the minority lies in the fact not only of the right and purpose to criticize the majority, but in the ability also to criticize itself."

The speaker tomorrow will be Prof. Barthalow V. Crawford of the University of Iowa. Luther J. Hess of Fairbanks, Alaska, graduate of the class of 1891 and formerly of Pike county, Illinois, and Willard Garrett, vice president of Baker university of Baldwin, Kas., will receive honorary degrees.

Miss Barbara Krouskup Weds Naval Officer

Mrs. R. Dickey Krouskup of Evanston has announced the marriage on June 4 in Honolulu of her daughter, Barbara, and Ensign Robertson Currie Dailey, U. S. N., son of Mrs. A. N. Dailey of Billings, Mont. The ceremony, an all white one, took place at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Cross Roads, the Rev. Glen E. Weaver officiating, with a reception following in the garden of the Halekalani hotel.

Mrs. Alan A. Pither of Chicago, the former Marjorie Steiner of Evanston, was the matron of honor. Ensign Robert Rayburn Startzell of Dallas, Tex., the bridegroom's roommate at Annapolis, was best man. Ensign Dailey, who attended the University of Montana, was graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1939. He and his bride, whose father is W. L. Krouskup of Wilmington, Ill., will be at home in Honolulu for the present. Mr. and Mrs. Pither are in Honolulu on a holiday.

Miss Zelma Girtman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Girtman of Coral Gables, Fla., and Richard G. Schmid Jr., son of Mrs. Schmid of Sheridan road and the late Mr. Schmid, were married on May 22 in Coral Gables. They will make their home in the Florida city, where Mr. Schmid is engaged in business.

The marriage of Miss Fern Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beck of Hyde Park boulevard, to Herzl Marvin Daskal, son of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Daskal of Drexel boulevard, took place on June 3 at the Belden Stratford hotel. The former Miss Beck attended the University of Chicago, and Mr. Daskal is a student in Rush Medical college.

Miss Elizabeth Ulrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. Ulrich of Dobson avenue, and John Stolte were married in a solemn nuptial mass on May 31 at St. Lawrence's church. A wedding breakfast and reception followed in the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip to the Great Smoky mountains, Mr. Stolte and his bride will be at home at 7751 Evans avenue.

Frock with 'Soft' Shoulders

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Since fashion has adopted soft shoulders in place of those with exaggerated squaring, some rather pretty results have been obtained. This change of persuasion has affected the skirtwaist frock realm, too, as today's pattern illustrates. The handsome shoulder yoke extends into short sleeves. While the bodice buttons down the front, the gracefully, but slightly, flared skirt is plain. This pattern makes up beautifully in striped washable materials, as illustrated.

Style No. 2949 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

600 Graduates at U. of I. from Chicago Area

Urbana, Ill., June 8 [Special].—More than 600 young men and women from metropolitan Chicago will receive degrees at the 70th annual commencement exercises at the University of Illinois tomorrow.

Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president of the university, will give the commencement address and confer degrees on more than 2,300 seniors.

Today the graduating class attended baccaulaureate services in Huff gymnasium at which Willard L. Sperry, dean of the Harvard divinity school, told them there were three ways of living thru such times as the present era.

"You may live in your memories of a happier past," he said, "you may live in your dreams of a better future, or you may devote yourself to living as well as you can in the present.

"If our communities are to survive, their members must make unselfish acts of imagination to understand each other, since it is only by such moral generosity that understanding is born."

Universal day—Get all your telephone calls made and your personal correspondence caught up.

Flowers—Since the number eight is strongly individual and indicates personal power, magnetism, and considerable worldly show, you can see that a variety of flowers would be suitable in the garden of those with many eights. The jasmine for its heavy odor, the rhododendron for its showiness, and also the dahlia and begonia for size and color. There is a sturdiness and self-confidence about eight, so the delicate flowers are not strong enough in attraction. For landscape gardening, which is much more in keeping with eight, the self-sufficient pine is a true representative. The eight garden should be important looking, large, showy, and dominate the other gardens around it. It should look rich and flourishing.

Yale Festivities to Draw Many from Chicago

BY JUDITH CASS.

NUMEROUS Chicagoans will be going to New Haven, Conn., next week-end for the 240th annual commencement of Yale university. It will be held from Saturday thru the following Wednesday. The graduating exercises will be held on June 17.

The following Chicago boys will be among those receiving the degree of bachelor of arts: John R. Winterbotham III., Philip William Jr., John Clarke Washburne, Kenneth Farwell Burgess Jr., Elliott Ray Detchon Jr., Philip Field Wythe Peck Jr., Henry Atwater Preston, Edward Larned Ryerson III., Charles Spalding, Charles Preston Aberg, Robert Bruce Brooks, James Oliver Buchanan, John Meigs Butler Jr., William Dale Fisher, Charles Edward Ford II., Ray Garrett Jr., Eugene Joseph Garvey, Richard Nash Gould, Henry Porter Isham Jr., George Noyes McLennan, Claude Green Metzler, and Mather Pfeiffenberger.

Charles Anthony Bemis, Haldane Young Wilson, Edward Gardner Counselman, and John Foster Teevan will receive their degrees from the Sheffield scientific school of Yale. Henry Preston is ivy orator and will make the principal address at the senior class day exercises Monday afternoon in Branford court.

Glee Club to Give Concert Monday Night.

The Yale Glee club, which sails for a concert tour of South America on June 20, will give its commencement concert in Woolsey hall Monday night. It will be followed by the senior prom at the New Haven Lawn club. The graduating exercises will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and at 1 the colorful parade of reunion classes will start. At 3 the traditional commencement baseball game with Harvard will be started and in the evening the Dramatic association will present "Antony and Cleopatra" in the University theater.

On Wednesday the annual commencement exercises, at which graduate and honorary degrees will be conferred by President Charles Seymour, will be held at 10:30 o'clock. The alumni luncheon that day will bring to a close the commencement program. The opening event will be the baccalaureate address by President Seymour next Sunday. The new Yale library will be dedicated that afternoon.

Young Mr. Detchon's engagement to Miss Joan Reid of Lake Forest was announced last week and young Mr. Ryerson will become a bridegroom on June 21. His marriage to Miss Alice Clay Judson will take place on that date in Lake Forest. Miss Reid and Miss Judson will be in New Haven for the commencement festivities, of course.

Albert P. Pattous to See Son Graduated.

The Albert B. Pattous have left for Connecticut to attend the graduating exercises of the Kent school, from which their son, Brace, is being graduated. Mrs. Joseph C. Belden Jr., the former Mardo Pattou, went east with her parents and will be with them while Mr. Belden is attending his class reunion at Yale. When the Pattous return to Lake Forest, they will bring with them for a visit Brace's classmate, Robert Blair, son of Mrs. Arthur Krock and of William M. Blair. Young Mr. Blair formerly lived in Lake Forest. Mr. Belden will leave today for New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rowe will be going to Cloquet, Minn., on June 19 to be best man and a bridesmaid at the marriage of Mr. Rowe's cousin, Morris Eddy, and Miss Barbara McNair, on Saturday, the 21st. They will be there for the bridal dinner on Friday night and so will Mr. Eddy's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler of Lake Forest. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. Wheeler's younger son, will be a junior usher.

James A. Graham is the only other Chicagoan in the wedding party. Mr. Eddy, an ensign stationed on the U. S. S. Cole, and his bride will live in Newport, R. I. They are being married in the evening in the little Episcopal church of Cloquet with a reception following at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving McNair Jr.

It is probable that Mrs. Wheeler's father, Lansing B. Warner, and Mrs. Warner will go north for the wedding and so will the John Eliot Warners and Bradford Tobey.

Mrs. Cyrus Bentley's Granddaughter to Visit.

Elizabeth Hamilton will arrive today for a brief visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley. Miss Hamilton was graduated last week from the Sandia school in Albuquerque, N. M. She is the younger daughter of David O. Hamilton of Grosse Pointe, Mich. Cecilia Badger and Consuelo Barker are among the Chicago girls who go to the Sandia

Ensign J. Dunham Reilly and his bride, the former Louise Blossom, who were married yesterday afternoon.

Ensign J. Dunham Reilly and his bride, the former Miss Louise Blossom, are on their way today to San Diego, Cal., after making all their wedding plans and going thru the ceremony in the record time of a little more than 24 hours. Ensign Reilly flew to Chicago on Saturday afternoon when he suddenly was given a four day leave, and he and Miss Blossom were married at 4 o'clock yesterday in the Chapel of Christ church, Winnetka, the Rev. Herbert Prince officiating.

Only the two families attended the ceremony and reception following in the Lake Forest home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. Miss Barbara Blossom was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Hester Reilly, was bridesmaid. The bride's flowered green and white crêpe gown was topped with a little green jacket, and her white flowered toque was veiled in green.

John Reilly was his brother's best man. The two young men are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Rice Reilly of Winnetka.

Ensign Reilly and his bride will be in San Diego until he receives orders to return to Honolulu, T. H., where he was stationed on a cruiser until a month ago. He and his bride had planned to be married later this month.

Here Are Ideas About Gifts to a Bride-to-Be

BY REA SEEGER.

Last minute gift ideas for the bride-to-be include romantic trifles such as pale blue garters with bowknot trim to wear as the "something blue" for the big day, bowknot pins of silver filigree or seed pearls for "something new" and incredibly fine bridal handkerchiefs to be treasured for years to come because they are museum pieces of great beauty and probably the last of their kind.

Another museum treasure is a point Duchess wedding veil, an exquisite length of real lace, that, too, is undoubtedly the last find of the times. Some indulgent bachelor uncle might be flattered into making a gift like this. . . . Certainly any bride would be a vision of loveliness with such a mist of beauty on her curls to sweep down over her satin train.

Two pairs of bridal hosiery are another ideal gift, two pairs to save any lines of fretful worry on the brow of the bride. In case one filmy stocking should snag, there is the second pair for the emergency.

One particularly flattering shade is called "blossom." It is an accent for all white, for off white, and the shell pink or ice blue wedding gowns. It goes with cotton sheers and with satins with equal effectiveness.

A pair of long white kid gloves, with the ring finger thoughtfully unseamed will be most appreciatively received by any bride.

A fluffy coat of snowy white marabou, a long fitted coat of white faille or bengaline, or a cape of quilted taffeta or crêpe to wear over the wedding gown, a luxurious seed pearl bag with fittings of silver or white enamel; all these are luxuries that few brides permit themselves if they must spend their trousseau money. So, as gifts, they become prized extras.

There are representatives of 27 different nationalities and races among the 116 members of the graduating class of Chicago's Central YMCA college. It includes representatives of all of Europe's vanquished and warring nations. Dr. Edward J. Sparling, president, believes the class to be an eloquent example of the democratic ideal. . . . Wally's meat market and the Windsor bakery are both in the 4500 block on Milwaukee avenue. . . . Optimist's Note: A bride from the east wrote to a friend in Chicago to have a real estate agent prepare a list of apartments to show her. Requirements: Besides living room, dining room, and kitchen, two master bedrooms and baths, maid's room, a garden; apartment must overlook lake. Rent $60 a month, tenants to move in in June but rent to start next October.

Take These Days.

Take these June days for your own. There's a radiant charm in their quality—the deepening of spring—not quite summer, but almost. Days created for dreams and adventure. Anxious days. . . . Days when the sky is too blue to seem real and Lake Michigan dancing in the sunlight, is blue as the sky it reflects. In the parks, along the drives, in city dooryards the fresh green foliage grows dense and darkens to richness. The air smells clean and good. On the avenue brimming with life and colorful clothes, exciting accents of coral, yellow, and purple stand out from the rest. And little side streets that were drab before, are gay with children's voices.

Walk thru country fields knee deep in daisies. Smell the fragrance wafting from quiet gardens. Let wild roses lure you to the hedgerows where late fledglings are trying out their wings.

Sunny, lingering, daytime hours. Slow dusk and the stars. And a June moon silvering the magic nights. Whatever your mood, live these days, one by one . . . deliberately. They're yours.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Vacationers, travelers, and just plain thrifty stay-at-homes will find a new little hands-and-face kit awfully tempting. It's a beauty bargain, and a sensible idea, especially if you believe, as we hope you do, that nail lacquer and lipstick should match in color.

There's a full size bottle of nail enamel in the little box. It's a famous polish, and a fine one, in beautiful high fashion shades that give you a wide choice of selection. There is also a generous bottle of one of the best nail polish bases you can find. This not only guards your nails but makes your polish coat more lustrous and long lasting.

Then there is lipstick, keyed, of course, to the polish color. These sticks are fairly new, but are already extremely popular. They have an elegant texture, the shades are very smart, and the rouge has a good reputation for staying on.

To match your lipstick color you have cheek rouge, too, this also in stick form. It's a good cream rouge, wonderfully easy to apply in this medium. Saves you from the irritation of getting rouge under your nails as you do when you scoop it out of a shallow container.

If you wear lots of color and are properly concerned about lipstick and nail polish harmony, this is your chance to acquire a good wardrobe of color accents without too great a dent in your budget. You'll find these little kits in just about all the shops.

Paid Companion

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1941: By Elizabeth York Miller]

Saturday was a bad day for job hunting, and of course after 1 o'clock it was quite hopeless. But Celia made the morning rounds as usual and there was nothing doing until she looked in at the Helpful Ladies, who unexpectedly had something for her.

Miss Voisey, the aged ex-actress who lived around the corner in the superflats, was laid up with lumbago again and wanted somebody to exercise her Pekes. Preferably "that nice Miss Ames."

As there were three of them, that meant 3 shillings for Celia Ames if she trotted them around the park for an hour; 6 shillings for two hours. Celia said very firmly that she could not consider the offer unless it was for two hours and the Helpful Ladies agreed that it was only fair. After all, shoe leather costs something, which had been pointed out to Miss Voisey before.

This was an unexpected windfall for Celia. Heavens, what a break! The Helpful Ladies—there were two of them in the office at the time—beamed on her as she turned to wave grateful thanks on her way out. Even the coldest maiden-lady heart warmed to Celia in spite of the fact that she was young and gay and blondely lovely. Yet not a true blonde because her eyes were brown, altho her hair was the color of well pulled toffee.

This girl, who was 22, had been taking care of herself for four years now, without any help from any one. When she was a baby her parents had both been killed in a motor car accident, and two young uncles who might have taken an interest in her welfare died in the war. When she was 5 her grandmother, who lived on the pension of an army surgeon's widow, also passed on, and then Celia was handed over to a convent. There was enough money to educate her, and no more. In due course she left the convent and took a course in a business college, was graduated, got a job and settled down to earn her living.

But three months ago the firm failed and Celia Ames' job came to a sudden and unexpected end. She had been looking for another one ever since.

In November she had had an attack of flu that involved a period of convalescence during which she had been a little half-hearted in the job of job hunting. At Alanbrook, the "flatlet" house where she boarded, it cost 35 shillings a week for a room and two meals a day, full board on Sundays. And there were other expenses, too, such as gas and one-and-six a week for electric light, a penny in the meter for a bath, and a little tipping to preserve one's self respect. Even when she was in work, it had not been easy to save very much out of a salary that only for the last year had reached 3 pounds a week. Yet she had saved a little. But it was all gone now, and at the present moment Celia Ames had less than 2 shillings in the world—plus the 6 she would get for airing Miss Voisey's Pekes—and she owed two weeks' board.

In fact, she had been near to panic that morning when she came down and found a note from the management in the letter rack, reminding her that residents were expected to pay their bills promptly. She felt like a thief when she ate her breakfast.

There was also a problem of the emotions, which sometimes was so agonizing that it almost nullified the out of work problem. What does a girl do when she begins to suspect, if not actually realize, that she is casting pearls of her affection before an unworthy object? How are you going to make yourself stop being in love with a man whose one outstanding quality is excessive charm?

Val Quentin and Celia Ames were not exactly engaged, but everybody at Alanbrook thought they were, and there were even times when Celia thought so, too.

Val did nothing as a visible means of support, yet he was the star boarder. For a few years he had been married to a woman 15 years his senior but they were now divorced. He had a sitting room and a bedroom, instead of merely a bed sitting room, and he went out to parties a lot. He kept his life, even where Celia was concerned, in water tight compartments.

Every woman in Alanbrook, with one exception, was in love with him, from Dorothy, the 16 year old cleaner, all the way up to old Mrs. Maxton, age about 70, who liked nothing better than to lose money to Val at bridge, even at the cost of some of her little luxuries. And Mrs. Maxton loved her luxuries, too.

The exception was Miss Best, the thin nosed manageress, who hated all men on general principles, and particularly one like Val, who was such an out-and-out favorite.

As Celia Ames trotted Miss Voisey's Pekes around the Serpentine she fell almost to wishing she could emulate Miss Best's attitude toward Val Quentin. She herself could tabulate his faults with no trouble at all. He had even borrowed money of her which always took a long time to get paid back. His own luxuries were never curtailed for anybody's sake. He was completely selfish—altho according to Miss Best that was the commonest of masculine traits.

Yet when he turned on the charm one forgot Val Quentin's faults; one almost believed one had made a mistake about him.

Celia's mind turned uneasily from Val to ways and means again. Miss Voisey's Pekes were not so troublesome as most of their breed. Obedient little fellows, she would even let them off the leads and trust them to mind their own business and come when they were called. In fact, they left her mind almost too free.

Something would have to be done about that board bill, of course. She could sell her mother's old fashioned wedding ring and her father's watch, and a few other keepsakes. There was that little necklace Felicity had given her, too. Or pawn them? Something seemed to turn over in her heart at the thought of such sacrilege. But what would her mother and father think about it, if they could know how she was placed?

It was nearly 1 o'clock now and quite frankly Celia was hungry. It seemed a long time to go until dinner. This eating only two meals a day didn't suit her, especially with all the walking exercise she had been getting lately.

"I wonder what Miss Voisey feeds them?" she thought enviously as she called in the sleek little dogs.

As she rose from fastening their leads, a smart cream colored sports car passed her and then drew up with a startled screech of brakes. A single occupant, a young girl, leaped out without bothering to open the door and ran back toward Celia.

The girl was tall and slender with a mop of curly dark hair, and could have posed as she stood for one of those magazine posters of glorious, open air girlhood. Over her black and cream checked suit she wore a white wooly lamb coat with a pillar box scarf that matched her lipstick, and soft, white gloves with lambskin gauntlets. Her storm boots matched her gloves, but she wore no hat. Only a red ribbon to hold back her hair.

At first Celia had no idea that she herself was the cause of the car's drawing up so abruptly, yet the sports model girl was running straight toward her with a glowing grin. That grin faintly perplexed Celia. She seemed to recognize it, but there was something missing that ought to be there.

"Celia Ames—it is Celia Ames, isn't it?" the girl cried breathlessly.

The Pekes began to yap and Celia was terribly embarrassed.

"Be quiet—be quiet! Stop it! . . . Yes, I am Celia Ames," she admitted, smiling in her perplexity.

"But you don't know me? O, Celia, how could you have forgotten! I knew you the very instant I saw you, just in a flash. It's five years, but you haven't changed a bit."

"Good heavens, it's little Felicity Stanmore!" cried Celia.

FINAL INSTALMENT.
PROPOSAL.

McFee extended his hand.

Dave looked at it and then at him and he said suspiciously, "Why would you like to shake my hand?"

"Because I was all the names you called me and considerably more, too. I'm goin' to spend the rest of my life makin' up for what I spent most of it doin'. I'm goin' to hunt up Lacey Thornton first and offer to throw in with him again. Then I'm goin' to hunt me a new foreman." He looked steadily at Dave. "You lookin' for work?"

Beal said quickly, "Just a warnin', Dave. You can't leave the county until this reward business is settled."

"But——"

"I know," Lily said, a faint teasing malice in her eyes. "You can't just drift now, can you, Dave?"

Dave glared at her.

"Better take it," Ernie said. "We mean business when we say that, don't we, Harve?"

Beal looked at him and laughed. "Did you say we?"

Ernie's face fell. He remembered that tonight he was thru, fired. "Well, I can say it up till midnight," he said truculently.

Beal laughed. "Ernie, you can say it till next year and the year after, so far's I'm concerned."

Ernie grinned, looked at Lily and nodded his head to Dave and Carol. Lily said, "I feel very faint," with astonishing abruptness.

"Why, lady," Ernie said. "It's hot in here. Let's get out of this jail before you faint."

He took Lily's arm and McFee's arm and started out with them, saying to McFee, "You look faint, too, Mac. How'd a drink go?"

And that was the way Lily and Ernie, more observant and considerably more understanding than Beal or McFee, at last left Carol and Dave some privacy.

Beal, at the door, turned and had his mouth open to call Dave, when Ernie yanked him thru the door and slammed it. "This is my night to howl," Ernie said pointedly. "I'm doin' it. Man, I don't see why I work for such a dumb man." And he grinned—and Beal did, too.

In the cell block Carol said, "Well, we'd better go, too."

Dave said nothing, only looked at her.

Then he said abruptly, "You reckon all women are alike, Carol?"

Carol looked at him strangely.

"What a queer question. I don't know. Why?"

"Lily claims they are," Dave said. It was hard for him to talk, but he was slogging away at it.

"Does she?" Carol said blankly.

"You take her," Dave said. "She married a murderer. She knew it. You think she's crazy?"

"Why—not if she loved him, no."

Dave gulped, and his hands were fisted until the knuckles were white. "You think Jim Sholto had a right to ask her to marry him?"

"What are you talking about?" Carol said impatiently.

"O, hell," Dave said miserably. "I dunno myself."

"But what were you trying to say, Dave?"

Dave took a deep breath. He said swiftly, agonizingly, "Lily married a murderer. Did you—could you—do you think a woman—well, does a girl——"

"You mean," Carol said quietly, "if Lily would marry a murderer, do I think I could marry an outlaw?"

"How'd you know?" Dave blurted out.

"O, Dave!" Carol said impatiently. "You've shied all around it for 10 minutes. Can't you speak plain.

"Sure. Will you marry me?"

"Of course. Why didn't——"

Dave didn't wait for the rest. He had done a lot of unorthodox things in a jail, but this was the first time in one he had ever asked a woman to marry him. And been accepted.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Meat loaves are popular picnic fare. They may be carried hot to the picnic, right after they come from the oven, or they may be chilled and sliced. Thin slices of a good meat loaf make excellent sandwiches for a picnic indoors or out. Lettuce and a little mustard, catsup, pickle relish, or mayonnaise will make picnic meat loaf sandwiches really savory. For an outdoor picnic it is better to carry the lettuce separately, wrapped in a wet cloth, than to put it into the sandwiches so early that it has time to wilt.

Picnic Meat Loaf.

1 pound fresh pork, ground
½ pound smoked ham, ground
1 cup crushed cornflakes or rice flakes
½ cup catsup
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg

Combine ingredients, mix well, and bake in greased loaf pan at 350 degrees for an hour.

This two-tone meat loaf is really too attractive to go into sandwiches. Better carry it hot to the picnic, or chill it and carry it cold.

Two-Tone Meat Loaf.

(First layer.)

1 pound ground veal
¾ pound ground fresh pork
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup fine dry bread or cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 beaten egg
Milk to moisten

(Second layer.)

½ pound smoked ham, ground
1 pound fresh pork, ground
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dry bread or cracker crumbs
1 beaten egg
¼ cup tomato soup
¼ cup chopped pickles

Have meats for each layer ground together. Pack first mixture firmly into a loaf pan, and second mixture firmly on top of the first. Bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours.

Lamb Loaf.

2 pounds ground lamb
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
¼ cup catsup

Mix ingredients, except catsup, and pack in a greased loaf pan. Pour catsup over the top of the loaf, and bake at 300 degrees for 1½ hours. A clever trick with any picnic meat loaf is to pack a row of hard cooked eggs down the center of the meat before baking. Then, when the loaf is baked and sliced, there'll be a slice of egg in each serving. They could even be deviled eggs.

The Saddle and Cycle club will be the scene today of the Junior League of Chicago's annual meeting, a business session and luncheon starting at 10:30 o'clock. The Evanston Junior league will close its doors for the summer simultaneously with a final luncheon today at the Glen View club. In place of the field day which usually marks this meeting, members will have a program with preparedness work as its theme. Speaking will be Edwin Jones, coördinator of community services in this area; Lieutenant Commander Richard K. Gaines of the naval aviation base at Glenview; and Lieut. Col. Basil B. Spalding of the army.

Parties to Aid Drive of Woman's Symphony.

A series of parties will be given this summer to give momentum to the drive the Woman's Symphony board is putting on for associate members. The big annual benefit bridge party will be held on July 9 at the Shawnee club. Mrs. Burt Denman, who had planned a party at her home in Wilmette today, canceled it, and is concentrating instead on the bridge benefit. Mrs. Albert Ulrich is entertaining at luncheon today at the Arts club for the symphony board members. Mrs. Ernest Kreutgen will entertain the board on June 17 at the Lake Shore club.

Mrs. Edward M. Whiting will be hostess at the bridge party. On her committee are Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. William Stanley.

The Garden club of Illinois will meet today at the North Shore Country club in Glenview. A board meeting will be followed by luncheon, with the Lincolnwood Garden club of Evanston as hostess. A tour of the Grosse Pointe Lighthouse, Deering Commons, Northwestern University Garden walk, and some private gardens are on the program for the afternoon.

The date of the annual fashion show and tea of the Winnetka board of Northwestern University settlement has been set for a Saturday afternoon, Sept. 27, at the New Trier High school auditorium. The season's debutantes will be invited to join buds of past years as models. Mrs. Richard A. Aishton heads the Winnetka board. Mrs. John P. Hooker will be in charge of the show. She is returning to Winnetka this week from Bellegrove, her Virginia home.

Mrs. Harley McNair was reëlected president of the Friends of China at the annual meeting held on Thursday at her home. The vice presidents are Russell Tyson, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Woodbridge Dickinson. Dr. C. Martin Wilbur is secretary and Dr. Walter Lichtenstein is treasurer. The meeting was the final one of the season.

Good Morning!

What should a doctor do in an emergency? Take a chance on saving a life, or sit back and refuse to shoulder responsibility? This question is pretty adequately answered [I think] in "The People vs. Dr. Kildare."

The film has crude and unconvincing moments, it is, on the whole, a satisfactory addition to the series detailing the life and growth of young Dr. Kildare under the shrewd eye and guidance of wise old Dr. Gillespie, diagnostic brains of the Blair General hospital.

An automobile accident forces Dr. Kildare, who happens to be on the spot of the calamity, to make a decision. . . . Without benefit of hospital aid or sterilization facilities—he pinch hits with alcohol from his emergency kit—the young doc operates then and there assisted in his roadside ministrations by his fiancée, Nurse Lamont, who had been driving with him when they came upon the accident.

For a time the patient, an ice dancer, is no end grateful. Then—the unexpected develops. And Dr. Kildare finds himself defendant in a lawsuit, with his reputation and that of Blair General at stake.

From here on I'll let the film tell you what's what.

Familiar characters are portrayed in familiar fashion by the—so to speak—Kildare stock company, headed by Lionel Barrymore as Dr. Gillespie. . . . Bonita Granville, who's getting to be a great big girl, scores as the temperamental, easily swayed, tragically unhappy wreck victim. I bet the kid loved that rôle with all the grownups just dithering on her every word!]

The picture is intelligently staged and has some grand, impressive, tongue twisting medical terms that fill the layman with awe and lend the piece a tinge of mystery.

[ISN'T Laraine Day the beautiful creature, tho!]

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—Sunday—The Venice season is on, and any night you'll find celebs off the usual beat, having some of Jack's seafood. Tonight the diners include Orson Welles, Dolores Del Rio, Jack Moss, Kay Kyser, Ginny Simms, and the Richard MacCaulays.

Monday—To the Lockheed plant, where 20th Century-Fox is shooting some scenes for "A Yank in the RAF." The going over one gets before being admitted is cold and thoro. Armed and unarmed guards are everywhere, watching everybody's slightest move. After a while you get a sort of guilty feeling. . . . Ty Power is supposed to be at a training field somewhere in England, talking to a pretty uniformed lass named Betty Grable. It's a perfect setting, for on the field are more than 100 Lockheed-Hudson bombers, looking chunky and deadly in their brownish camouflage paint and bearing the insignia of the RAF. They'll be over Germany soon. . . . Work doesn't stop for the movie company.

Tuesday—To Harry Carey's ranch to get a column, and in the evening to the Coconut Grove to see Mitchell Leisen's new dance revue, a pleasant, elaborately costumed show featuring a genteel jitterbug named Mary Parker. She used to be called Punkins Parker.

Wednesday—A daylong rendezvous with the old mill and a quiet evening.

Thursday—To RKO, where Fibber McGee, Molly, Edgar Bergen, and Charlie McCarthy are making "Look Who's Talking." Molly, who looks the way she sounds, confesses she is afraid about the movie. On the radio each listener has no more than his own mind's eye view of the team—and this, she feels, may be best.

Friday—To 20th Century-Fox to watch them film the evacuation of Dunkirk, of which more later. . . . Then to Warners', where John Huston is starting "The Maltese Falcon" with Humphrey Bogart. It's Huston's first director's assignment.

Saturday—Some early mopping up, and then to Yosemite.

Club District President Hostess to Board Today

Mrs. Thomas Clyne, new president of the 1st district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will be hostess to her executive board at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. On the board are Mrs. Arthur W. Nelson, first vice president; Mrs. David C. Slagle, second vice president; Mrs. Raymond S. Harper, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert L. Holmes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, treasurer; Mrs. William S. Olsen, Mrs. George S. Mandeville, Mrs. Robert J. Sterling, and Mrs. Rudolph Baumel, directors.

CUBS SPLIT; SOX LOSE TWO, DROP TO THIRD

WALLER, LANE CREWS WIN; QUALIFY FOR MEET SUNDAY

TECH SENIORS' 4-YEAR REIGN ENDED IN UPSET

Victors Will Race in Tribune Event.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

It had to end sometime—this Chicago schoolboy rowing dynasty set up four years ago by the stalwart oarsmen from Lane Tech.

And end it did, yesterday, when the Techmen were upset by a hustling boatload of lads from Waller High school, who thus qualified to represent Chicago next Sunday in the first annual Central States Schoolboy Rowing association regatta on Lincoln park lagoon.

That is where the seniors from Lane met their Waterloo along about sundown yesterday before a crowd which lined the banks of the course. But the juniors from Lane kept their record clear by winning two races and becoming Chicago's entry in that class in next Sunday's big show, which is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the Lincoln Park Boat club, and the recreation division of the Chicago Park district.

Waller Timed in 2:57.

With a slight wind at their backs and the water kicking up quite a fuss, the Waller seniors negotiated the five-eighths of a mile in the good time of 2:57. They used a long, driving stroke which reacted favorably to the rowing conditions. The Techmen held the lead for the first quarter, then their aggressive rivals moved even, drawing away in the final eighth of a mile to triumph by a length and a quarter.

The victorious youngsters, deliriously joyful after their accomplishment, dunked Coxswain Bill Cloppas into the chilly water, then plunged in to keep him company. Art Skrabel, former Waller High athlete, and coach of the crew, participated in the victory celebration, then announced he would not be able to lead the boys next week. He will report to the army Saturday — one day before Waller will go up against championship schoolboy eights from St. Louis, Culver Military academy, Ecorse, Mich., Grosse Pointe, Mich., and perhaps Philadelphia.

Waller Then Beats Schurz.

This was the big race of the day—altho it was the first heat in the senior division. Waller, to achieve the title, still had to beat a band of oarsmen from Schurz High. Buoyed up by their first triumph, the Waller lads proceeded to turn in the fastest time of the day—2:44.8—in defeating Schurz. The Waller eight will take possession of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S big gold trophy for one year. The Techmen had two legs on it and needed only another victory to retire it. The junior trophy was retired by Lane.

These juniors from Lane lived up to all advance reports, altho they were given quite a tussle in the first race by their rivals from Schurz who led by a quarter of a boat length in the early stages. Lane came on to win by a length and a half. In the second race, the Techmen, using an easy stroke all the way, won by two lengths over the Waller juniors in three minutes flat, four-tenths of a second faster than the time against Schurz.

Receive Medals Saturday.

Members of the victorious Waller and Lane crews will receive individual medals Saturday night at the Central States regatta dinner in the Parkway hotel. Coach Allen Walz, his Wisconsin varsity and freshman crews, the out of town school boy oarsmen, and the Chicago lads, will be guests at the dinner.

In a feature on next Sunday's program, the national champion University of Washington varsity and junior varsity crews will meet the two Wisconsin eights over a mile route. The Huskies from the west coast will arrive early Sunday morning.

J. A. Hadwiger, general chairman, announced the following list of officials for the regatta last night:

Charles R. Miner, director; John Covington, referee; David C. Zimmerman, announcer; Chet Koehler, Bob Bodach, and R. H. A. Green, starters; Walter Hollatz, chief clerk of course; Dr. Alfred A. Strauss, and Ed Schneider, reception committee; Walter Furth, in charge of Sea Scouts events; Max Deffner, in charge of canoe races; Richard Bundsus, radio short wave communications; Walter Hale, docks and buoys.

Following are judges and timers:

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of Chicago Park district; A. H. Pritzlaff, athletic director of Chicago Board of Education; Avery Brundage, chairman United States Olympic committee; Sheldon Clark, national commodore of Sea Scouts; Fred W. Binder, eldest oarsman in Chicago, of Lincoln Park Boat club; Capt. O. L. Cook, former captain St. John's Military academy; Theodore P. Prost, commodore of Lincoln Park Boat club; Theodore M. Dunlap, vice commodore Lake Michigan Yachting association.

Commander O. W. Fowler, Culver Military academy; Maj. Ralph H. Fletcher, St. John's Military academy; Harry O'Hare, chief of buildings and operations, Chicago Park district; Lieutenant Commander Walter J. Eden, United States Naval reserves; Gladstone C. Hill, Pittsburgh, Pa., vice president Central States Schoolboy Rowing association; William A. Harders, National Rowing association; Clarence Craft, former commodore Jackson Park Yacht club; Dr. Jay Webb Lowell, Columbus Yacht club; D. Clark Leach, chairman Amateur athletic union water sports committee; Richard Canman and Emmett T. Gallagher of the Lincoln Park Boat club; O. K. Brown, director of recreation; Ralph Pierce, superintendent of special activities; Sam Pecoraro, supervisor beaches and golf, and George Campbell, all of Chicago Park district.

BILL KLEM'S chief worry since becoming supervisor of National league umpires has been about the two poles, one a foul line marker and the other a flagpole in left field at Wrigley field. . . . Bill says the two poles sooner or later will give an umpire an optical illusion. . . . He complained about the construction when he was a staff umpire and now, as a boss, is trying to do something about it. . . . It is estimated that changing the poles would cost upward of $1,000, too much to ease an umpire's whim. . . . "Sixty Minutes—Eleven Touchdowns" is the title of an article George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, is authoring for a national magazine. . . . It deals, of course, with the Bears' 73 to 0 victory over the Washington Redskins for the National Football league championship. . . . Coleman Clark, table tennis expert who probably has done more to popularize the game than any other player, recently defeated Fred Perry, professional tennis champion, 21 to 12, in an exhibition at a Chicago Association of Commerce meeting. . . . Among them were Bill Werber of the Reds, Chubby Dean, Hal Wagner, and Crash Davis of the Athletics, Eric Tipton of Toronto, Russ Bergman of Atlanta, and Wayne Ambler of Indianapolis. . . . Don Griffin, half back from Chicago's Fenger High school, who is expected to put some punch in Illinois' attack next fall, has been assigned No. 41. . . . Carleton college of Northfield, Minn., has had only four athletic directors in the 32 years President Cowling has been directing the institution.

Negro athletes, who have come to the front rapidly in track, boxing, and football in the last decade, apparently have little interest in careers as jockeys. . . . There is no colored rider working at any major track today, altho there are more than 250 exercise boys. . . . Charley Root is burning up these days. . . . Long the Cubs' home run hittingest pitcher, he hasn't been able to make the 1941 club composed of Bill Lee [two homers in one game]; Vern Olsen [one homer with two on], and Claude Passeau [one homer with the bases loaded]. . . . Moreover, the only National league park in which Root never has made a homer is Mack stadium, Philadelphia, where Lee and Olsen made theirs on successive days. . . . Issy Kline, trainer of the Baers, Barney Ross, and several other prominent fighters of the last decade, probably makes more money, year in and year out, than any other man in his line. . . . Sam McDonald, Negro superintendent of Stanford's athletic plant, recently had a street on the campus named after him. . . . No president of the university ever has been accorded that honor.

Worst Joke I Ever Heard.

The practice of some tavern owners and bartenders of buying a round of drinks for liberal spending patrons gave the night manager of a near north side bowling establishment an idea when he appeared at the cashier's window of a south side maternity hospital where all of his 10 children were born.

"Here's the bill for your 10th baby, Mr. F. . . .", said the cashier.

"Doesn't the house ever pop?" asked Mr. F. facetiously.

A Faithful Wife.

Did I not hasten when you called to me
Tho you and I were sundered miles apart?
When was I wanting in fidelity,
When have you ever found me faint of heart?
What tho the road was rough, the journey long,
Always within my woman's heart I knew
That every sorrow would be turned to song
If only I might be again with you.

Tonight I'm waiting for the last long call,
For I am weary since you went away,
The things I used to cherish seem to pall
And all the world is garmented in gray;
Let me but hear you calling thru the gloam
And leaving all things I shall hasten home.

The Voyage.

In early years we hug the water's edge,
Nor dare to e'en so much as venture in,
But soon there comes an urge to try to wade
Out there, at least, to where the deeps begin,
Then, grown to youth, a farther call is heard
To sail beyond the dim horizon's gleam,
The age-old quest to know, each for himself,
What lies beyond the hills across the stream.
Then pass the years, this endless voyaging
All up and down the distant seven seas
Begins to pall; no more the stormtossed waves
Those restless, inner yearnings can appease;
Westward, then, we turn this ship of ours,
Back to where homeland waters are serene,
Into the harbor where the winds are calmed,
Back to the dear home shore line of life's dream!

LEE'S PITCHING GIVES CUBS 50-50 DAY WITH BRAVES

Bill Wins, 5-1; French Is Routed in 2d, 13-1.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 8.—Bill Lee soared above the .500 mark for the first time in a long, long while today, when he turned in a handsome job of pitching to beat the Braves, 5 to 1, for his sixth victory against five defeats. His Cub roomie, Larry French, was not so fortunate in the second game. He was batted out in a six run second inning of a riot which ended 13 to 1, much to the delight of 16,657 fans.

A shutout was averted in the second game by Bill Nicholson's 11th homer of the season. Bill drove in two runs in the first game and his homer in the second affair lifted his National league leading runs batted in total to 45. Dom Dallessandro, the other league leader, hit his 16th double in the first game.

Quinn Gets His Baptism.

Best of three Chicago pitchers in the second game was Wellington H. Quinn, who never pitched a ball in organized baseball until he went in and held the Braves to one hit in the last two innings. Quinn left after the game to join the Madison team in the Three Eye league.

Lee might have had a shutout in the first game, a fumble by Lou Stringer on Lloyd Waner's cinch double play grounder helping the Braves to their only run. Lou got L. Waner at first after the fumble but Ray Berres counted, whereas a double play would have retired the side before Ray got home.

In accomplishing his sixth victory, Lee showed the control that has been spectacular all season. He walked only one, Carvel Rowell. This was in the fourth. Lee retired the Braves in order in the first, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth innings. All five of the hits were singles, two of them scratches. One was made in the second, two in the third, and two in the ninth inning.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs started with a big rush but were held to one run in the first inning of the first game. Hack opened against Art Johnson with a single to center and stopped at third on Sturgeon's double to left. Dallessandro flied to Moore, Hack scoring and Sturgeon reaching third, but that was all.

McCullough and Stringer wasted singles in the second inning, but in the third the lads rang up two runs and some statistics. With one down, Sturgeon singled to center and stopped at third on Dallessandro's 16th double of the season. Nicholson singled to right, scoring Sturgeon and Dallessandro. Leiber and Galan flied to Moore.

Braves Pick Up a Run.

The Braves got a run in their third. Berres opened with a single to deep short, went to third on Sisti's single and scored while Stringer was throwing out L. Waner. Sturgeon then sparkled on a one hand catch of Hassett's line drive.

The Cubs added a couple in the fifth. With one out, Sturgeon reached second on Sisti's overthrow and scored on Dallessandro's single. Nicholson's single put Dallessandro on third, whence he scored while Leiber was forcing Nicholson.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs faded badly in both ends of the second inning in the second game. In the offensive half Galan was on third and Scheffing on second as a result of an error and Scheffing's double, with one out. Then Stringer and French struck out.

In the Braves' half Ross walked and moved up on French's balk. Ross scored on Rowell's double to right

Jim Tabor, Red Sox third baseman, stealing second base in the tenth inning of yesterday's first game with the White Sox. Mike Tresh's throw to Luke Appling (in front), was wide and the ball (arrow) landed near Umpire Art Passarella's feet. Ted Lyons then walked the Boston battery—John Peacock and Lefty Grove—and Dom DiMaggio drove in two with a single. The White Sox lost, 5 to 3, and 3 to 0, and tumbled to third place. CARDS LOSE PAIR TO GIANTS; DROP OUT OF LEAD

New York, June 8 (AP).—The Giants defeated St. Louis, 7 to 5 and 12 to 7, today and dropped the Cardinals into second place in the National league, seven percentage points behind the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Shut out for eight innings of the first game, the Giants jumped on Howard Krist for five runs in the ninth to tie the score and then won out in the 10th when Dick Bartell slammed a home run with one on. Bartell also drove across two runs with a single in the big ninth inning uprising.

The Giants belted Mort Cooper from the mound in the second inning of the second game, scoring seven runs and giving Carl Hubbell all the lead he needed to coast in. Score:

Wood, New Open Champion, May Play in the Chicago Open

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., June 8.—A fellow named Craig Wood, who yesterday won the big one, the National Open golf championship, will play in the Chicago Open tournament at the Elmhurst Country club if he can get a release from his own post at New York's famed Winged Foot club. The chances are that the members of Winged Foot will permit the big blond, who last night scored the most popular victory in the recent history of the game, to make the rounds.

As a result Craig will return to our town, where he spent a couple of winters as pro at the Allerton club. Wood said last night that he would make every effort to be on the premises at Elmhurst on July 18, 19 and 20.

The crying rooms are usually packed after the Open with a welter of wakes, postmortems, and autopsies, but last night's finish by Wood, who will be 40 years of age come Nov. 18, was the occasion for an all around celebration by every one concerned.

Even Little's Pleased.

Wood himself made it a point to pay a personal visit to the abdicating champion, Lawson Little of San Francisco, who made a fair try at retaining his crown, and then made quite plain his genuine enjoyment of Craig's triumph, the payoff for a man who, with Harry Cooper, Bobby Cruickshank, and Mac Smith, has come closer and just missed oftener than any of the older swingers in the business.

Whether Wood will be able to make the summer circuit, in order to capitalize on his hard earned championship, one he fought for thru rain and steaming heat, still rests with his officers at Winged Foot, scene of last year's National Amateur and one of the best pro jobs in the country. Craig, however, promised Maynard [Scotty] Fessenden, president of the Chicago District Golf association, that he would try his best to be in Chicago for the Open at Elmhurst and the $11,000 Tam o' Shanter Open in September, richest tee and green show of the year.

Flies to Oklahoma City.

Wood flew today to Oklahoma City to resume a carryover match from last fall with Henry Picard, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan. Therefrom he planned to return to Fort Worth, and then go on to New York.

Last night Craig told this writer that the two vital holes in the final round of his grand victory, were, in his mind, the third and the fifteenth. His par at the third was the one that gave him the thought that he would be able to hold his 2 shot, 54 hole advantage of 214 against such striving gents as Denny Shute, the ultimate runnerup; Paul Runyan, Johnny Bulla and Hogan. His drive at the fifteenth, followed by a 12 foot putt, strengthened his confidence at a time when he might well have been going for bogies.

Wood Owns Great Record.

None would deny, including Wood, that Shute, Runyan, Bulla, and Hogan made noble efforts to continue the perennial frustration of Craig, who in the last three years has had one of the all time competitive finishing marks in the 45 years of the Open. Before last night's victory, Craig had tied Nelson for the 1939 title, losing in a double playoff, and then last year wound up fourth.

Shute found the 3d and the 17th his nemises on the last round. Bulla took a seven on the 11th, which not even a 2—3—4 finish could cure. Runyan's 75 on the final 18 was too much for that little man, who, like many another pro, owes much of his talent to Wood.

Paul was once Craig's assistant. So was Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., who played in the same stretch threesome with the handsome blond. So was Vic Ghezzi, who was so happy after it was all over that you would have thought the tall Italian had won the tournament himself. He flew here with Wood early in the week, at a time when Craig's back hurt him so much that it was doubtful if he would start.

SALLY TWYFORD TAKES 1ST PLACE IN ALL-EVENTS

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8 (AP).—Sally Twyford of Chicago, 1940 singles champion, advanced to first place in the all-events division of the Women's International Bowling congress tonight. She rolled a 636 in the singles to bring her all-events count to 1,799. She turned in a 540 series in team play and today got 623 series in her doubles.

Her 636 put her in second place in the singles, 26 pins back of Mrs. Nancy Huff of Los Angeles. Lee Liepe, Budweiser girls teammate of Mrs. Twyford, closed her third game in doubles play with a 245, one pin more than Mrs. Twyford's high tournament game.

The Rovick Shoes team of Chicago took the lead in the team division late last night with a score of 2,661. The Budweiser girls, also of Chicago, shot 2,567. Scores:

RED SOX BEAT LYONS, 5 TO 3, IN TENTH INNING

2 Walks, Hit, Error Trim Lee, 3-0.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who recently enjoyed a few hours in first place, were forced to vacate their second story apartment yesterday, the eviction being engineered by Boston's Red Sox before 36,859 in Comiskey park. James Dykes' family picked up its belongings and went down one flight to third place, now crowded because the Yankees also are there. Boston went up a flight after subjecting its Chicago hosts to a double trimming, the scores of which were 5 to 3 in 10 innings and 3 to 0.

The White Sox were out of tune in one way or another thruout the 19 futile innings. In the first game they hit, but not profitably, against the 41 year old Bob Grove and the 40 year old Ted Lyons grew weary toward the close of a brilliant battle. In the other struggle they couldn't make batting headway against Dick Newsome and altho Thornton Lee southpawed a three hit job, it meant nothing because most of his ineffective toil was bunched in one inning—the seventh.

Lyons Loses Aim.

The aged Grove, while recording his 297th American league triumph, was no marvel, except when a little extra steam was needed. The Chicagoans had one or more on base in every inning, but Ol' Mose just kept 'em there most of the time. Fourteen White Sox were left stranded. Even two of the three runs registered against him were tainted, one because of his own fumble which enabled the Sox to tie the score in the eighth. The only legitimate tally was started by a single by Ben Chapman, installed in right field because of Taft Wright's slump. It was Chapman's only hit of the day.

Lyons, usually the fellow who can score bull's eyes on every pitch, lost control after going seven innings on a yield of two hits. He walked four men in the eighth and these gifts with one hit brewed two runs, giving Boston a 3 to 2 edge. The Sox got back into a tie in the same inning. But Lyons went wild again in the 10th, which Jim Foxx opened with a single. After two were gone, Johnny Peacock and Grove drew gratuities, the two deciding runs going in an instant later on a single to left by Domonic DiMaggio.

FIRST GAME

Peacock singled to open the third inning of the first game, one of the two hits yielded by Lyons in seven innings. Grove bunted Peacock to second. DiMaggio fanned and Lyons apparently was out of the jam when Finney aimed a grounder to Knickerbocker's left. But Knickerbocker fumbled and Peacock, who had stolen third, hiked home.

The Chicagoans didn't recover this run until the sixth, which Chapman opened by beating out a bunt and getting to second ahead of Tabor's throw on Lodigiani's bunt. Kreevich moved 'em along by sacrificing and Hoag's fly to DiMaggio sent Chapman across the plate.

Sox Go Ahead.

The White Sox went ahead in the seventh by one run which wasn't much, considering that six fellows batted. Knickerbocker started it with a single to left, but was forced by Appling. Tabor picked up Kuhel's grounder and heaved it into the dugout, Appling taking third and Kuhel second. Chapman was purposely passed, filling the bases. Appling dashed home while Tabor was throwing out Lodigiani, after which Kreevich fouled to Peacock.

GHNOULY MEETS DORLAC TONIGHT IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Veteran, Youngster Head Marigold Card.

Al Dorlac, St. Louis lightweight, yesterday was substituted for Bud Cottey of Indianapolis in an eight round bout against Joe Ghnouly in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Cottey asked Promoter Irving Schoenwald to take him off the card after he suffered a cut eye in training.

Ghnouly, who is 31 years old, may not be as spry as he once was, but it appears he still can hold his own against the young fellows. In his last appearance in this vicinity he scored a seven round technical knockout over Gene Spencer of South Chicago in Hammond on March 3.

His 105th Fight.

Prior to that achievement he stopped Joe Doty and defeated Eddie Scott, also in Hammond. His most important victory in recent years, however, was the one he registered over Willie Joyce last Dec. 9. Altho Ghnouly was floored twice for no count he rallied to win a split decision.

Ghnouly will be making his 105th start against young Dorlac. He has a record of 70 triumphs, 13 by knockouts; eight draw decisions, and 25 defeats. He also participated in a no decision event.

Supporting Matches Listed.

Supporting matches each set for eight rounds, follow:

Dan Dowling, Kansas City vs. Bill Petersen, heavyweights.

Johnny Trotter, Chicago, vs. Buddy Rose, Sarasota, Fla., 170.

Jess Ackerman, Des Moines, vs. Tito Taylor, Chicago, 152.

Karol Krauser will face the Swedish Angel in a one hour encounter topping the wrestling show in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. . . . Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, who expects to appear in an overweight contest against Champion Fritzie Zivic in Pittsburgh next month, will leave today for Philadelphia where he opposes Al Nettlow in eight rounds Friday. . . . Johnny Colan, New York middleweight, and Sammy Secreet, New Castle, Pa., welterweight, will arrive today for 10 round matches against Solly Stark and Milt Aron, respectively, in Marigold outdoor arena June 16. . . . Barney Ross will referee a 10 round fight between Ezzard Charles, 1939 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, and Ken Overlin, former New York 160 pound title holder, in Cincinnati tonight. . . . Davey Miller, Chicago referee, has passed his medical examination, as required by the Illinois Athletic commission. . . . Wishy Jones, Louisville 136 pounder, has been signed by Promoter Bud Taylor for a 10 round contest against Leo Rodak in Indianapolis Friday.

Mars Stable Renews Drive at Arlington

The horses from Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm stables, missing from Chicago tracks so far this season, will return to Chicago with the opening of Arlington Park's 34-day race meeting two weeks from today. The Mars horses, particularly the 2 year olds, have been a dominant factor in Chicago racing for many years. The stall application received at Arlington Park indicates another fine band of juveniles will compete in the Milky Way silks.

Seventeen of the 27 horses which Trainer Roy Waldron will bring to Arlington several days before the opening are 2 year olds. They include several nominees for the $20,000 Arlington Futurity and the $10,000 added Lassie stakes.

Man About Town in Group.

The Classic and American Derby candidate, Man About Town, heads the group of seven 3 year olds in the Milky Way Farm string, which also includes the 4 year olds Gallahadion, winner of the 1940 Kentucky Derby, and Tough Hombre. The only other older horse now in the stable is the stake winner, Up The Creek.

Mrs. Mars already has begun a formidable assault on the nation's stakes for 2 year olds. Her Ariel colt, Black Raider, is the only triple stake winner so far among this season's juveniles. He won a division of the Santa Barbara stakes at Santa Anita last winter, then took the LaFayette at Keeneland and the Bashford Manor at Churchill Downs.

Bought Too Late for Futurity.

Mrs. Mars paid $5,500 for Black Raider, but purchased him too late to nominate for the Arlington Futurity, his former owner having neglected to do so. Black Raider, however, is eligible for the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington and for the Washington Park futurity in August.

Milky Way has seven nominees for the Arlington futurity—Son Forever, Clear Drive, Delicatessen, My Choice, Stepsome, Signal Flash, and Dogpatch, the latter a full brother to Bull Lea. The stable's Lassie candidates are Smart Daughter, Laila Brook, and My Choice.

For several years Mrs. Mars was the most liberal buyer of yearlings at the Saratoga sales, her collective purchases usually bringing good returns on her investments.

Coals Win Two from House of David, 10-5, 2-1

Bill Williams pitched and batted the Spencer Coals to a 2 to 1 triumph in the second game of the semi-pro double header with the House of David nine in Spencer field yesterday. The right hander singled in the sixth inning to score the winning run. The Coals also won the first game, 10 to 5.

Our Graduates.

There's much within our present world
That grips us with a keen dismay,
But hope returns to stay the heart
Anew on Graduation Day;
For in each school and college hall
All up and down this favored land
We read within youth's shining face
That God for better things has planned.
New faith in place of that grown dim,
Hearts free from bitterness that blights,
And wings unwearied that await
The eager call to untried heights;
New leaven in a needy world,
High purposes to point the way—
Somehow we know that younger hands
Will usher in a better day.

AQUEDUCT OPENS 21 DAY MEETING WITH $5,000 RACE

New York, June 8 [Special].—Racing at Aqueduct will begin tomorrow with nine important stake events carrying $72,500 in added money listed for the 21 day meeting. The chief event will be the $25,000 Brooklyn handicap. The opening day feature will be the $5,000 added Queens County handicap at 1 and 1-16 miles.

Aqueduct has been reconstructed at a cost of $1,200,000. Buildings have been expanded and the racing strips have been changed. The steeplechase course has been restored.

For the opening day feature, test for 3 year olds, Hash has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds.

GOPHERS, HUSKIES TO MEET AGAIN IN 1944 AND 1945

Minneapolis, Minn., June 8 (AP).—The Minnesota-Washington universities football series, inaugurated in 1936, will continue in 1944 and 1945 after a two year recess following this year's game, Frank G. McCormick, Minnesota athletic director, announced yesterday.

The Huskies will meet Minnesota in Minneapolis on Sept. 30, 1944, and the Gophers will travel to Seattle for the 1945 game on Sept. 29.

Pittsburgh will replace the Huskies as the opening game opponent of the Gophers in Minneapolis Sept. 26, 1942, with Missouri providing first game opposition here on Sept. 25, 1943.

Pine Hill Wins First Midwest Polo Game, 5-2

Menominee, Mich., June 8 [Special].—Pine Hill of Menominee and Marinette, Wis., scored first, then went on to a 5 to 2 triumph over Milwaukee Joy Farm in the opening Midwest Polo league game of the season today. Dr. Ken Pinegar and Leo Dillon each scored twice for Pine Hill.

Stretch Battles for Viscounty, Shot Put Seen

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Viscounty and Shot Put, two horses which always throw solid efforts into their races, are expected to hook up in hard running stretch duels in the two stakes which remain on the Lincoln Fields program. Both are eligible for the La Salle handicap Saturday and for the Lincoln handicap on the following week-end.

Now that the sprinters and the juveniles have had their turn in the Crete, Steger and Joliet stakes, the horses which like the longer routes will take up where they left off after the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap.

Shot Put Will Challenge.

Viscounty scored impressively in the Peabody by launching one of his typically strong rushes thru the last quarter mile—but in the two coming events he's likely to have Shot Put right beside him in that charge down the stretch. Mrs. Marie Evans' distance champion of 1940 was shipped in from the east several days ago after running third to Your Chance in the Suburban handicap at Belmont last week.

The La Salle at a mile and three-sixteenths may be long enough for Shot Put to perform to good advantage, but the Lincoln handicap at a mile and a quarter will be even more to his liking. The farther they go, up to two and a quarter miles, the more dangerous Shot Put becomes. In last year's La Salle, he was closing like a locomotive in the stretch, but just failed to get up in time to catch Mucho Gusto. The following week, however, that extra sixteenth of a mile was just what he needed to score handily in the Lincoln.

Viscounty's Methods Similar.

Viscounty's methods are similar to Shot Put's in many respects, tho he doesn't ask for quite so long a route in which to operate. He also is usually well off the pace during the run down the stretch, but he doesn't lag quite so far behind as Shot Put does and he often commences to move sooner, so that he's at least in a contending position at the head of the stretch. Shot Put, on the other hand, seldom becomes a factor until the last furlong in a mile and a quarter race and often he doesn't get within reach of the leaders until the last sixteenth.

The question of timing their moves will be a mighty important one for the jockeys who handle these two horses in the La Salle and the Lincoln. The boys will be watching each other closely and if either one starts to drive a little too early or a little too late it may be disastrous. If they hit it just right, however, it's almost certain that regardless of what the rest of the field does, Viscounty and Shot Put will be in there running in those last 70 yards.

Sloop Wins Off Grant Park in First Start

William Wachsman, sailing his new 110 class sloop Billous in its first race, won the Columbia Yacht club's first working canvas handicap race yesterday off Grant park harbor. Skipper Wachsman's crew was Mrs. Wachsman and Pete Paganis. The winning elapsed time for the 10 mile course was 1 hour 52 minutes and 30 seconds, and the corrected time was 1:23:30.

Baccarat, Louis Ainbinder's cruising cutter, was runner-up with an elapsed time of 1:36:19 and corrected 1:27:19. Joseph Hruby's cutter Belle Aurore was third in 1:49:15 and 1:30:15. Hope, Max Arthur's Q. class racing sloop, was first of the 10 boat fleet to finish, but placed seventh on corrected time. Its elapsed time was 1:35:13.

Twin Star Wins at Wilmette.

Twin Star, sailed by Lockwood M. Pirie, repeated its victory of a week ago on the Sheridan Shore Yacht club course off Wilmette yesterday. Skipper Pirie defeated six other Star sloops in face of the strong northeast wind and rough water. Twin Star's elapsed time was 1:37:16. Sky Lark, Ted Mead and John Lane's new Star, was second in 1:39:37, and Commodore John T. Pirie II.'s entry, Gemini, was third in 1:41:50.

Hermes, Dr. A. Davis' Star boat, won its third race of the season at the Jackson Park Yacht club yesterday, defeating James E. Elsworth's entry, Skedaddle. Hermes' time was 39 minutes and Skedaddle finished 19 minutes later.

Happy N. Scores Victory.

Five of the eight Lightning class sloops of the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club that raced off Montrose harbor yesterday completed the course. The remaining three were disabled. Happy N., owned and sailed by Fleet Captain Clyde North, with Mrs. North and Arthur Sharpe as crew, was first to finish. The winner's elapsed time for the six miles was 54 minutes and 7 seconds. Warren Hatch's boat, Folly, was second, and Sid Lehrman's entry, Alibi, was third. Sarong, the McNevin-Lund syndicate boat, was leading the fleet by two seconds at the halfway buoy when its rudder broke. The six foot waves forced two other boats to withdraw because of the danger of swamping.

The Lightnings are 19 feet long.

Reds Score 3 in 9th to Beat Dodgers, 3 to 2

Brooklyn, June 8 (AP).—Shut out for eight innings, the Cincinnati Reds rallied to score three times in the ninth inning today, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 2, before 21,663.

John Whitlow Wyatt, the National league's leading pitcher, was well on his way to his fifth shutout of the season when the Reds rebounded. Frank McCormick started the last inning by doubling. Bobby Mattick fanned, but Ernie Lombardi kept the rally alive with a single which scored McCormick. With two out Eddie Joost doubled to right center to drive in the tying run and Paul Derringer then proceeded to win his own game with another double.

The Dodgers scored a run in the third on a single, a walk, and Dixie Walker's fly. They added another in the eighth when Mickey Owen squeezed home Jimmy Wasdell with a perfect bunt. Score:

PIRATES, PHILS SPLIT.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates spoiled Tommy Hughes' day by whipping the Phillies, 12 to 2, in the first game of a double header today, but had to be content with a split when the Phils took the second, 5 to 2, behind the effective pitching of Johnny Podgajny.

Hughes, rookie right hander who pitched a one-hitter against Chicago on Tuesday, engaged in a pitchers' battle with the veteran Joe Bowman for eight innings. He weakened in the ninth, however, and the Pirates went on a nine run scoring spree.

Baseball's Men in Blue

[This is the fourteenth and last of a series on American league umpires.]

TOMMY CONNOLLY was born in England and spent his first thirteen years there, but that's not where he got the brogue he still carries. . . . His parents migrated to America in 1884 and settled in Natick, Mass., which looked good to Tommy at the time and still does. . . . Became a bat boy for the home team. . . . Progressed to the managerial stage, but after looking over the different angles decided umpiring was what he had been looking for since he landed in America. . . . Worked semi-pro or sandlot games for the nominal wages prevailing in those early days. . . . Happened to be seen in action by the late Tim Hurst, who advised the New England league to sign him. . . . Did four seasons of prep work in that circuit after which came promotion to the National league in 1898. . . . When the American league challenged the major league status of the National, Connolly decided to cast his lot with Ban Johnson in 1901. . . . It proved a steady job. He hasn't been away since. . . . Standing rib in the old days was that every time there was a new arrival in the Connolly family he wrote Johnson explaining the necessity of a pay raise because he had to build an additional room on his house. There are seven children. . . . Served with great dignity as well as with rare judgment, also little trouble, until midseason of 1931, when Will Harridge, American league president, appointed him supervisor of the staff. . . . Now snoops around the country looking for material and at the same time coaches the men the league is grooming for future service.

IRVING VAUGHAN.

A manager's award went to Arthur Hauswald, 1014 Bellefonte avenue, Oak Park.

Red Sox Beat Sox, 5-3, 3-0, Before 36,859

wildness gave Boston two runs for a 3 to 2 lead, opened with passes to Grove and DiMaggio. Finney beat out a bunt to load the bases. Williams walked, forcing in Grove. Lyons tightened up long enough to fan Cronin and Foxx, but the third strike on Foxx got away from Tresh, giving DiMaggio time to score.

The Sox tied it in their half on Hoag's single, Grove's error on Tresh's sacrifice, and Appling's single.

SECOND GAME

Possibly a bit concerned about Williams' love for homeruns, Lee walked him to open the seventh inning and it wasn't long before the second battle ceased to be a scoreless tie. Cronin doubled to the scoreboard in left center, driving in Williams. Cronin moved to third on a wild pitch, which helped to build up a pass for Foxx. Lee had no trouble capturing Tabor's tap and throwing him out at first, but he did have trouble with a bunt by L. Newsome. He fumbled it and Cronin scored, Foxx going to third, whence he scored on Pytlak's fly to Hoag.

The White Sox didn't have a real chance to press H. Newsome until their half of the seventh. Kuhel walked and, after Chapman had popped out, Lodigiani singled. The Boston right hander refused to be pressed, however. He got Kreevich on a fly to DiMaggio and Hoag on a pop to Skeeter Newsome. This proved to be the only inning in which more than one home boy got to base.

By courtesy of the schedule makers, the White Sox will have a vacation today, but they will be back at their work in Comiskey park tomorrow with the still dangerous New York Yankees to handle in the opener of a three game series.

Bill Dietrich's right thumb, injured a week ago when he tried to stop a batted ball, is putting a terrific burden on Doc Ad Schacht, the trainer. The doctor has to massage the injured member a half hour every day. And Bill, who delights in worries, insists there has been no improvement.

CAPT. HERNE DIES; WAR HERO, W-G-N NEWS ANALYST

Relapse After Operation Is Fatal; Rites Tomorrow.

Capt. E. D. C. Herne, radio news commentator of W-G-N, the Mutual Broadcasting system, and the National Broadcasting company, died early yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. He had been in a critical condition since Thursday, when he suffered a relapse after an operation performed on May 31.

Capt. E. D. C. Herne.

Capt. Herne was a British flying squadron commander in the world war, an American army aviation instructor, a test pilot, an airplane sky writer, and a world traveler. Altho British by birth, he had become an American citizen. He was 51 years old.

Educated at Cambridge.

Capt. Herne was born in London and educated at Cambridge. In 1911 and 1912 he toured the world as a representative of the Rolls-Royce Motor Car company. He later represented the Hudson Motor Car company in Europe.

At the outbreak of the world war he served in the British royal air force as a lieutenant, being a flying instructor and test pilot before he was sent to the front in 1916 with the rank of captain to command a pursuit squadron.

In 1917 he was returning from a flight over the lines when he saw a German fighter plane at a height of 10,000 feet. Altho he had forbidden his men to take the risk of leaving formation to fight alone, he left the others to engage the enemy in solo combat. He dived at the German plane, and discovered that it was a decoy. Six other German planes were following him.

Capt. Herne pulled up in a loop, attempting to rise above the German planes and get behind them, but his engine stalled. The Germans shot him down, badly injured in both legs. He brought the plane down in France. When he recovered he was sent to the United States as a flying instructor.

Pioneered in Sky Writing.

In 1923 Capt. Herne started sky writing. He wrote smoke messages in the sky from an airplane over Europe, the United States and South America until 1927. The next eight years he was with the Chrysler corporation as an engineer.

He joined W-G-N in 1938. He quickly established a reputation for the clarity, accuracy, and color of his news broadcasts.

His Americanism was best expressed in an address while he was preparing material for a Washington's birthday address. Observing that many Americans were turning their eyes to Europe and Asia, he said:

"I would advise any one whose thinking apparatus has gone a little out of focus to take a half hour off and read about the life of Washington. It's worth the effort. The United States is the greatest country in the world."

Capt. Herne lived at 1328 North State parkway. His widow is Mrs. Gladys Herne. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

Dr. Aldora J. Tyler, 79, Dies at Home in Clinton

Bloomington, Ill., June 8 [Special].—Dr. Aldora J. Tyler, 79 years old, one of the first physicians to receive the American Medical association 50 year pin, died in Clinton yesterday afternoon. She practiced in Clinton for more than half a century. Her father, once a member of the Illinois legislature, practiced medicine in Clinton from 1888 until his death in 1908. Dr. Dora, as she was known, was graduated from Illinois Wesleyan university and attended the Women's Medical college in Chicago. She did post-graduate work in Chicago and New York hospitals. She never married. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

500 Shriners Parade on Way to Indianapolis Convention

Five hundred Shriners of Medinah temple paraded down Michigan avenue yesterday to the Park Row railroad station, where they took trains for the Shriners' convention at Indianapolis, Ind. The marchers spelled out the word, "Medinah" in one of their formations. The convention will be held today, tomorrow, and Wednesday.

Joplin, Mo., June 8 [Special].—Jimmy Dell Tillman, 17 years old, Clarksville, Ark., has been chosen "Smile Girl of 1941" to succeed Jane Nichols of Bentonville, Ark., at a contest held last week in Joplin. Entrants were from Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

THOUSANDS SEE GARFIELD PARK PEONY EXHIBIT

Thousands of visitors thronged into the Garfield park conservatory yesterday to view the magnificent display of peonies which closes tonight.

The exhibition, the annual regional peony show of the American Peony society held in coöperation with the Midwest Horticultural society, contains more than 2,000 varieties of peony, many of them rare crosses and hybrids of single, double, and Japanese specimens. One exceptional exhibit from Cottage gardens in Lansing, Mich., is of the rare tree peony, said to be the finest hybrid in the world; the flower is golden yellow with a slightly red frilled edge.

The society's silver medal for the best 100 specimen flowers in the show went to N. A. Napier of Blue Island. The award for the best flower in the show went to a glowing pink Walter Faxon grown by Roy J. Gale of Rockford; second place went to a Hansinna Brand peony exhibited by Eldred Green, a horticulturist at the park conservatory.

SEAL IDA B. WELLS DIARY IN HOUSING PROJECT STONE

A copy of the diary of Ida B. Wells was included in an assortment of historic documents imbedded yesterday in the cornerstone of the Ida B. Wells homes in a ceremony at 454 East Pershing road.

The homes, a federal low rent housing project owned and operated by the Chicago Housing authority, were completed recently at a cost of $8,816,932. The unit contains 1,662 apartments and covers nearly 47 acres of land on the south side.

Since Jan. 18, when the first family assumed occupancy, 993 families have taken up residence there; 90 per cent of these have incomes of less than $1,000 a year. Under the terms of the United States housing act, federally aided projects may house only families from substandard homes and low income brackets.

Speakers at the cornerstone laying included Mrs. Ida K. Brown, president of the Ida B. Wells club, and Robert R. Taylor, vice chairman of the Chicago Housing authority.

AGE PENSIONERS PERMITTED TO TAKE ARMS JOBS

Old age insurance pensioners who find jobs available as a result of the national preparedness program may resume work without fear of losing their rights to the insurance, it was announced yesterday by H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the Social Security board. Monthly benefits will be discontinued during the period the pensioners are earning $15 a month or more, but the benefits will be restored when the job ends or the salary falls below $15. Those receiving benefits are required to report pay of $15 a month or more to the board in most cases. Pay from farming, domestic service, or odd jobs need not be reported.

7th Ward Rezoning Hearing to Be Held This Morning

A city council subcommittee which has been ordered to draft plans for rezoning the city will hold a public hearing this morning for rezoning the seventh ward. The subcommittee, headed by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell (9th), plans to make a slight increase in the percentage of residential buildings allowed in the ward.

NEED WILDLIFE RESTORATION.

The most pressing need in the national movement to restore the nation's wildlife resources is an effective means of reaching the owners and users of land to advise them of the relatively simple and inexpensive practices that will restore environment conducive to increased wildlife populations, according to officials of the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior.

'31 CLASS SAVING ITS SYMPATHY—FOR UNDERGRADS

N. U. 'Depression Babes' Say Worst Yet to Come.

The 1931 graduates of Northwestern university were slow getting started in life—finding jobs, being able to marry, and all that—but they've been doing all right lately, according to a survey by the class reunion committee.

Larry Oliphant.

Only half of the class have been employed thruout the 10 depression years, 16 per cent found jobs a year after graduation, 14 per cent went to work two years later, and it took four years for the remaining 20 per cent to find jobs.

Took Pull to Land Jobs Then.

Of the 50 per cent who did find jobs their first year out, half of them said they got employment thru friendship or "pull," and the average salary was $1,200 a year for the men, $900 for the women. In 1940, the average salary of the men was $4,300.

Only four per cent of the class married during their first year out of school, but from then on the rate was fairly heavy.

Of the married 75 per cent of the class, 45 per cent have one child and 16 per cent two. All said they expected to send their children to college, but most of the men hedged a little by adding that boys should receive craft and technical training too.

98 Per Cent Own Automobiles.

Automobiles are owned by 98 per cent of the class but only 24 per cent reported they own their homes.

The graduates blame most of their economic troubles on the social and financial upheavals of the period, but they were unanimous in declaring that the next 10 years will be worse.

Larry Oliphant, class president, and Jimmy O'Keefe, chairman of the class reunion, conducted the survey. Next Saturday members of the class will march in a parade at Evanston at 11:30 a. m. A dinner-dance will be held that night.

100 BOY SCOUTS END A WEEK-END OF ROUGHING IT

One hundred young Boy Scouts from the heart of Chicago's near north side tumbled back to their homes last night worn out by what is known in Scouting circles as a camporee.

Their particular camporee was a week-end at Camp Fort Dearborn at Higgins road and the Des Plaines river. To hardened woodsmen Camp Fort Dearborn might be high civilization, but to the young Boy Scouts it was a primeval wilderness.

They had to get water from a pump. They had to use flashlights to get into their tents at night. They had to cook Italian spaghetti and meat balls in portable frying pans over hand made fires. They had to put into actual use the theories of Scouting. The week-end camporee is one of a series held thruout the Chicago area prior to the opening of the summer camps.

MILITARY ORDER OF PURPLE HEART ELECTS OFFICERS

The Illinois department of the Military Order of the Purple Heart held its election of officers yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. The following were elected by the 48 delegates: Commander, Frank J. Schneller, Chicago chapter 50; senior vice commander, George Plate, Chicago chapter 66; junior vice commanders, William Hadley, Neponset chapter 133, and George Bradfield, Chicago chapter 50; finance officer, S. F. McGovern, Elmhurst chapter 60; adjutant, Walter Forgy, Chicago chapter 50; historian, Lloyd Northrup, Pullman chapter 113; judge advocate, Bernard F. Cummings, Chicago chapter 50; sergeant at arms, Walter H. Waidley, Aurora chapter 131; inspector, Noble C. Smith, Chicago chapter 150, and national executive committeeman, George Bradfield, Chicago chapter 50. Commander Schneller said two new chapters have been started at Aurora and Decatur.

OBITUARIES

Henry J. Jakob.

Henry J. Jakob, 1422 Henderson street, a clerk in the city bureau of streets for 15 years, died of a hemorrhage yesterday in an ambulance on his way to Alexian Brothers' hospital. He and his wife, Mary, had been spending the week-end at a summer cottage at McHenry. He was 49 years old. Besides his widow, a son, Henry M., and a daughter, Shirley, survive. Services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday in St. Alphonsus' church, 1439 Wellington avenue.

Charles Emerson Cook.

New York, June 8 (AP).—Charles Emerson Cook, 71 years old, a producer and playwright associated for many years with David Belasco, died today. Cook wrote "The Walking Delegate," "Rose of the Alhambra" and collaborated on "Red Feather," a musical production by Florenz Ziegfeld. He himself produced "Blind Youth," starring Lou Tellegen, "Remnant," starring Florence Nash, and other plays. He was a founder of the Friars club.

Miss Helen Richmond Reid.

MONTREAL, Que., June 8 (AP).—Miss Helen Richmond Reid, one of a group of women who were instrumental in 1884 in opening McGill university to women, died today. She was 70 years old. A writer, lecturer, and leader in social work, Miss Reid had been awarded honorary doctorates by McGill and by Queen's university for her work as director of the patriotic fund in Montreal during the world war.

Mrs. Edith Foster Dulles.

Auburn, N. Y., June 8 [Special].—Mrs. Edith Foster Dulles, widow of the Rev. Dr. Allen Macy Dulles, noted Presbyterian churchman and teacher of theology, died today at the age of 78. She was a daughter of John W. Foster, secretary of state for Benjamin Harrison, and a sister of the late Mrs. Robert Lansing, whose husband was secretary of state in the second administration of Woodrow Wilson.

Msgr. J. N. Grieff.

Union City, N. J., June 8 [Special].—Msgr. Joseph Nicholas Grieff, author, producer, and director of the first Passion Play presented in the United States, died today in the rectory of Holy Family Roman Catholic church here. He was pastor of the church for the last 57 years. He was 86 years old.

James Dillon.

James Dillon, a retired general foreman for the International Harvester company, died yesterday in his home at 1722 Henderson street, where he had lived for 40 years. Mr. Dillon was 81 years old. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Ada Lane and Mrs. Irene Lender, and a son, Ralph J. Dillon.

Dr. Julius Friedenwald.

Baltimore, Md., June 8 (AP).—Dr. Julius Friedenwald, 74 years old, professor emeritus of gastro-enterology at the University of Maryland medical school and a member of the faculty there for more than 40 years, died today at his home.

Dwight Edwards Austin.

Bellport, N. Y., June 8 (AP).—Dwight Edwards Austin, 68 years old, president since 1926 of Thomas Leeming & Co., Inc., pharmaceutical house, died last night.

MAYOR CHOOSES REPORTER TO BE HIS ASSISTANT

William H. Fort, veteran reporter for the Chicago Daily News, will become administrative assistant to Mayor Kelly on July 1, taking over duties previously performed by Gael Sullivan, now state federal housing administrator. Fort has been on the News' staff for 22 years and recently has been reporting traction news. For eight years he was the paper's New York correspondent and for two years he covered Rome.

LADY OF THE LAKE FACES DILEMMA; CAN'T ROW A BOAT

Now That She's a Purser the Law Demands It.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The problem now confronting the first feminine staff officer of the United States merchant marine is how a slender, rather frail person of 27 can man a rowboat, as ordered by federal law, when she doesn't know how to row.

Helen Slaughter.

This was puzzling Helen Slaughter, a brown-eyed Kansas girl, as the S. S. North American docked last night at Navy pier. Shall she run to her authorized station to man a rowboat when the fire drill alarm sounds, or shall she just herd frightened women passengers out of the women's lounge, as she always has done in the past?

She Has Her Certificate.

On June 2, an equally puzzled federal inspector of hulls gave her a certificate of registry as a senior assistant purser with the comment, "The law doesn't say a girl can't have it, but it doesn't actually say she can . . ." Since then Helen, as she is addressed by subordinates and superiors alike, has found life whirling. If it isn't one problem, it's another, as: is it really proper for her to borrow an officer's cap to pose for a picture?

Until she was 15 years old Helen's plight was somewhat akin to that of the nursery's Simple Simon who could find water only in his water pail. For she lived in parched, southeastern Kansas where the sole bodies of water were strip pits of abandoned mines.

The summer she was 15 she came to Chicago to visit her uncle, Capt. H. H. Delatry, now on the lake cruiser, Roosevelt, but then captain of a small freighter running between Chicago and Milwaukee. That was the beginning of her adventures on the lakes.

"Summer and winter I used to go with him after that," she says. "Just for the ride. I don't know whether he always wanted me, but I just couldn't tear myself away."

Began With Summer Jobs.

From that it was an easy transition to summer jobs on various lake cruisers, working first in the dining room, later in the office, and always going home to Kansas City to work as cashier during the winter. Two years ago she started with the S. S. North American as dining room cashier and assistant bookkeeper.

"Then the draft got so many boys that they needed me in the purser's office. I've had six years on the lakes and six months helping the purser, so I just went down and applied for a certificate. They didn't know what to do with me after they got me, and I was surprised to know anyone else was surprised."

As assistant purser, her job is similar to that of a hotel clerk. She handles mail, assigns staterooms, smilingly accepts complaints, tries to balance books ["An awfully hard job," she confesses], and keeps the ship's articles—signing the crew off or on. She also has to pretend a cool disregard of fog, the only factor common to the Great Lakes that invariably frightens her.

FOUND DEAD BY HUSBAND.

Mrs. Lillian McKendry, 43 years old, was found unconscious on the floor of her home at 1639 West 56th street by her husband, John, an engineer, on his return from work last night. She died shortly after medical aid was summoned. The coroner's office said her death resulted from natural causes.

JEWISH OUTLOOK IS MORE HOPEFUL, CHICAGOANSTOLD

Goldmann and Wise Speak at Benefit.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Altho European Jewry has virtually ceased to exist the world situation of the Jew, as a political entity, has been vastly improved during the last two years, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, head of the political bureau of the World Jewish congress, said last night at a dinner in the Sherman hotel.

The dinner was held under the auspices of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress as a $25 a plate benefit for the congress. Max A. Kopstein, president of the local division, presided.

Wise Urges World Leadership.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, head of the American Jewish congress, another speaker, called upon the American Jew to lead world Jewry in its fight for democratic rights.

Rabbi Wise also assailed Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting head of the America First committee, for urging Jews not to be one sided in their adherence to the cause of war. The rabbi said Gen. Wood forgot that historically the Jewish people are "the most consistent and passionate defenders of democracy and are not to be deflected from their purpose."

Dr. Goldmann, formerly a representative of Zionist and other Jewish causes in the chancelleries of many nations, urged that the Jewish problem be considered from a political rather than a philanthropic viewpoint.

Political Outlook Hopeful.

"If the Jewish problem is a philanthropic problem then it is hopelessly bad," Dr. Goldmann asserted. "There is not enough money to meet the philanthropic problem of the European Jew whether American Jewry gives 20, 40, 60, or 80 millions a year to meet it.

"The ending of the policy of appeasement by the democratic world, however, has assured a political future for the Jewish people, with a chance for real freedom and happiness. Continued appeasement would have resulted in a Hitler peace and the Jews of the world would have been isolated and forced to carry on an almost hopeless fight against the Nazis. Today, however, the Jews are not fighting Nazi brutality alone."

A FIREMAN FINDS SHOOTING'S FINE INSIDE A CHURCH

Chief Thomas Ryan of the fire department's 19th battalion was receiving congratulations yesterday for his proficiency with an air rifle, which he displayed in ridding Our Lady of Peace church, 79th street and Jeffery avenue, of two troublesome pigeons.

Father William Friel, pastor of the church, appealed to the fire department after the pigeons had built a nest in a cool, dark retreat in the loft near the entrance of the church. Chief Ryan and his men responded and for an entire afternoon vainly climbed ladders seeking to "shoo" the birds out and locate their nests.

Finally the chief went outside and found a small, unidentified boy with a BB gun.

"Let's borrow that, son," he said and, armed, reëtered the church. One of the pigeons had disappeared by that time—presumably thru a window—but the other still was flying about. After several shots, the chief brought it down, and the search for the nest was resumed. It was finally located behind a statue, 36 feet above the floor, and removed—along with its two eggs.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

WEEK'S EVENTS IN FARM WORLD MAKE HISTORY

Crop Control, Loan Boosts Approved.

Grain dealers, reviewing last week's markets, yesterday asserted that the first week of June, 1941, would be recorded in the history of American agriculture as a period of major importance. During the period there were these devolpments:

1. Farmers voted in favor of government control of the wheat crop thru a system of marketing quotas for the first time in the history of the United States.

2. President Roosevelt signed a bill giving the Commodity Credit corporation the power to make loans on the five basic farm crops—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice—at 85 per cent of parity. Parity is the term used to describe prices which would give the farm products as much purchasing power as they had in the period 1909 to 1914.

Loan Rates Set Record.

3. The department of agriculture announced the highest federal loan rates in the history of the nation on these and other farm products. The basic farm loan rate on wheat was 98 cents a bushel, or $1.15 a bushel in Chicago.

4. Crop forecasters, in predicting bumper grain crops for 1941, estimated that the United States will have the largest supply of wheat on record by the time the new crop is in the granaries.

Of less importance as a matter of history, but of wide interest to the grain trade and agriculture, was the advance of wheat prices during the week to the highest levels since May, 1940. All major futures contracts passed the dollar mark, with the December delivery selling as high as $1.05 a bushel.

Causes of Price Upturn.

New legislation, adoption of the market quotas, large purchases of wheat by the flour mills to fill the summer flour demands of some eastern chain bakeries, and unfavorable weather reports from the areas where the harvest of the new wheat crop is getting under way, were the principal factors in the advancing prices.

Other grains followed the trends in the wheat for the most part, but soy beans suffered setbacks from extended liquidation of futures contracts. Forecast of a large soy bean crop, possibly the largest on record,

WALL STREET WAILS IN ANGUISH OVER ITS 'FORGOTTEN TRADE'

New York, June 8 (AP).—Wall street is in anguish and its walls have been heard to the outermost reaches of the farthest Main street in the nation.

What's the matter? Here are some of Wall street's answers:

"Business is rotten." "Stocks don't act right." "Prices are a steal, but nobody buys."

From the start of this year until today 55,431,722 shares of stock have changed hands on the stock exchange, less than half the 114,283,835 of the same period last year when trade was the quietest since 1921.

The chart compares trading on the New York Stock exchange in May since 1914.

The reported reasons? Higher taxes, mounting costs, federal price fixing, controls over business, and the war.

Imperial Credit Company to Open New Office Today

The formal opening of the new offices of the Imperial Credit company at the northwest corner of Madison and Dearborn streets will be held today. The company, founded in 1904 by Albert P. Snite, president, operates six personal loan offices in Chicago.

Steel Scarcity Is Not Severe, Review Insists

"Despite the cry of steel shortage, the fact is that practically no shutdowns have occurred among consumers because of lack of steel," the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review. "This gives confidence that supply can be made to do, without intolerable hardships, for an indefinite period ahead.

"Moreover, confidence in American ingenuity is being revived as the emergency is being met in manifold ways. Wooden ships are being built to relieve steel, for instance. Railroads may use larger proportions of wood, as in box cars, for the same reason. Where possible, automobile makers are removing chromium plated parts to conserve that metal."

Coke Shortage Looms.

Some coke shortage again is feared as result of a cloudburst in western Pennsylvania that temporarily has shut down a number of mines which are the source of coal for metallurgical coke, the review said. High water on rivers interfered with loading of barges at tipples. The coke situation has never recovered completely from the coal strike of a few weeks back and it is impossible to purchase metallurgical coal in substantial tonnages for early delivery, it said.

Pig iron production in May gained 2.5 per cent in daily rate. Aggregate May output was 4,596,113 tons against 4,340,555 tons in April.

Steel Output Unchanged.

Steel ingot production nationally was unchanged at 99 per cent of capacity last week. It gained in two districts, each by 1 point, Chicago to 101½ per cent and eastern Pennsylvania to 97. Two districts dropped, Cleveland by 3 points to 93 and Cincinnati by 1 point to 91½.

GERMANS HOLD 163,704 SHARES IN STANDARD OIL CO.

New York, June 8 [Special].—The Standard Oil company [New Jersey] today disclosed that 163,704 shares of its stock are still German owned. The German interest amounts to only 0.6 per cent of the 27,283,587 shares outstanding, the concern said. The original German interest was 2.2 per cent.

In addition, the I. G. Farbenindustrie, the German chemical trust, once owned a 50 per cent interest in one Standard Oil subsidiary and a 20 per cent in another, the company said.

Standard Oil revealed that when the German trust's interests were liquidated, soon after the war began, the German concern was given exclusive rights to the production and distribution of certain synthetic products in the world outside the United States and the French and British empires. In addition, the Germans were granted a share of royalties arising from certain oil refining processes.

These relationships, the company disclosed, arose from these sources—its acquisition of a German company and the development of processes for the manufacture of synthetic rubber and other products from by-products of the oil refining process.

CURTISS-WRIGHT PROPELLER UNIT STRIKE AVERTED

Roosevelt Will Meet Union Chief.

New York, June 8 (AP).—A threatened strike tomorrow at the Curtiss-Wright propeller plant in Caldwell, N. J., sole source of propellers used by several kinds of British and American fighting planes, was averted today at a conference of government, union, and company officials.

Agreement to withhold strike action pending outcome of a labor board hearing here tomorrow on a collective bargaining controversy at the Caldwell plant also avoided a "sympathy" walkout at the company's propeller plant at Clifton, N. J.

The strike threat grew out of demands by local 703 of the International Association of Machinists and local 121 of the Metal Polishers' International union, both AFL affiliates, to be declared bargaining agents for craft workers at the Caldwell plant.

OTHER STRIKE NEWS.

Developments yesterday in other strike fields were:

Harvey W. Brown, head of the AFL machinists' union, is scheduled to meet President Roosevelt today, at the latter's request, to discuss the strike of machinists in San Francisco bay shipyards. The strikers demand increases to $1.15 an hour instead of the $1.12 rate contained in a new coast-wide master contract. The old rate was about $1 an hour. Harry Hook, an official of the striking local, said last night that the membership probably would return to work if Mr. Roosevelt requested it.

At Olympia, Wash., delegates representing about 12,000 CIO lumber union workers are to hear a report today from O. M. Orton, international president of the union, who last week denounced the defense mediation board and rejected its request that the men return to their jobs pending negotiations. The lumber workers demand a 7½ cent minimum wage increase to 75 cents an hour, a union shop, and other changes.

Coal Decision Awaited.

The defense mediation board expects to receive word today from soft coal miners and operators on whether they will accept board recommendations for settlement of their contract dispute.

The board recommended Thursday establishment of a uniform wage of $7 a day thruout the industry, as demanded by the United Mine Workers [CIO]. Northern operators had agreed to this wage, but southern operators had held out for continuation of a wage differential.

At Pittsburgh Conciliator John A. Moffitt said disputants in a week old strike involving 2,200 truckers and 179 hauling concerns had been summoned to Washington by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins following the sudden collapse of negotiations.

Pullman Company's April Profit Rises to $95,732

Pullman company, Chicago, the sleeping car subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., yesterday reported that it had a profit of $95,732 in April. A year ago the company had a net loss of $127,548. For the four months ended with April, net income rose to $1,420,778, from $1,192,205.

All of Canadian Pig Iron Orders to be Canceled

OTTAWA, June 8 (AP).—All orders on the books of Canadian pig iron producers as of tomorrow are to be canceled to conserve iron for essential war industries H. D. Scully, steel controler, announced tonight.

TVA Dodges Power Saving Responsibility

Knoxville, Tenn., June 8 [Special].—The Tennessee Valley authority has dumped into the laps of municipal and coöperative power outlets the responsibility for conserving electric power on a voluntary basis for national armament production.

Contrary to previous announcements that TVA would offer a uniform plan for conservation of electricity, the authority called on distributors to work out their own methods of power saving.

"We have contacted every one of our wholesale customers and every city, town, and coöperative we serve has promised to institute a program of conservation at once," J. A. Krug, TVA's chief power engineer, asserted.

Contended Supply Was Adequate.

TVA has consistently contended that, despite a rapidly dwindling water supply in the Tennessee valley and the southeast, it has sufficient water reserves to provide hydro-electric power to fill all contract obligations.

Meanwhile, the Aluminum Company of America, for whose benefit electric power in the southeast is primarily being diverted from non-armament use, started a water conservation program of its own. It announced that Calderwood dam, one of its hydro-electric reservoirs generating electricity for the big Alcoa, Tenn., plant, would be entirely closed over the week-end in an effort to build up the "operating head" of water behind the dam.

Use of Water Heavy.

Draw-down of water at the Aluminum company's dams has been heavy, due to the necessity of generating a maximum amount of power —70,000 kilowatts an hour—and it is reported that unless heavy rains come the plant may be obliged to depend entirely upon TVA and private utilities in the area for electric power at its Alcoa plant.

CIO AMERICA'S WORST ENEMY, SAYS HEPBURN

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 8 (AP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, premier of Ontario, charged today that the Congress of Industrial Organizations is "the greatest enemy to the North American continent at the present time."

Hepburn, who fought the CIO in Canada in 1937, voiced belief that "the axis powers are behind the organized effort to stop the production of war materials in the United States and Canada." He said the CIO was trying again to organize in Canada and that gave him much concern.

The premier predicted that this continent will be subjected to a two-ocean attack, and urged that the whole continent organize its mass production to meet that attack. He recommended that picketing of armament plants be made illegal, and added: "I think any one who tries to stop the man who wants to work in a munition plant is just as much an enemy as the German soldier."

RAILS CONTEND THEY CAN AVOID OIL SHORTAGES

Association Issues Study on Needs.

Washington, D. C., June 8 [Special].—If half the Gulf coast oil tankers are transferred to ocean service, United States railroads, with the assistance of the remaining tankers, could handle oil movements expeditiously enough to prevent shortages, the Association of American Railroads asserted today.

Col. Robert H. Henry explains oil needs.

If all the American ships now passing the Panama canal were transferred to other services, it would mean an increased demand for railway car space of only 2½ per cent, which the railroads could handle without trouble, it was contended.

Service Much Improved.

Altho American railroads have 625,000 fewer cars now than in 1918, a freight train for each hour on the road now performs twice as great a service as it did then, it was said. In the first three months of this year 101,368,000,000 tons of freight were moved a mile, compared with 82,000,000,000 ton miles in 1918.

Col. Robert H. Henry, assistant to the president of the Association of American Railroads, estimated that the existing fleet of American tankers brings 1,200,000 barrels of oil a day to the Atlantic coast. Pipelines convey an equal amount. By shifting sources of supply this movement could be reduced to about 700,000 barrels, he said.

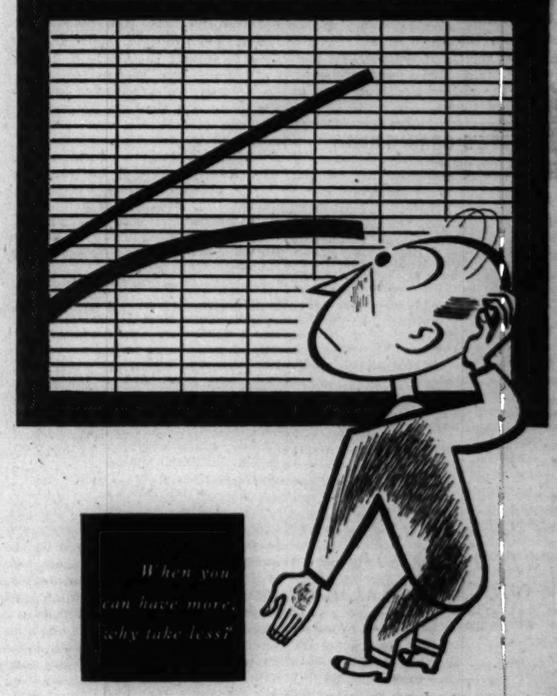
The oil companies, he estimated, have 20,000 surplus tank cars which could handle 200,000 more barrels of oil a day. This would leave a shortage of 500,000 barrels a day if all tankers were taken off, and would mean that half of them could be transferred without causing a shortage, he said.

RESOURCE STUDY PLANNED

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—Chairman Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] of the senate public lands committee announced today the appointment of a subcommittee to investigate underground resources, including oil, on public lands, and determine what use can be made of them in national emergency. Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], author of the measure, under which the subcommittee was appointed, is chairman.

O'Mahoney said it was possible that rationing of gasoline and "gasolineless Sundays" may be avoided.

Is your Chicago sales curve KEEPING PACE with today's upswing?



You can sell more at lower cost with the CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Are you passing up additional sales volume which might easily be yours in Chicago? The rich potential here calls for intensified effort which dips deepest into the expanding stream of spendable income.

You can increase your Chicago sales by building your promotion around the Tribune. With over 1,000,000 net paid every day of the week, it is the one medium which makes the full-market impact you need to develop your full share of the greater volume now available.

On weekdays the Tribune delivers . . . at one low cost . . . from 595,000 to 635,000 more total circulation than other Chicago daily newspapers —from 270,000 to 720,000 more on Sunday than other Chicago Sunday newspapers.

Thru the Tribune you get balanced, market-wide coverage of metropolitan Chicago. You get 450,000 more daily circulation in Chicago and suburbs than other Chicago daily newspapers deliver—more than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined

And on Sunday the Tribune delivers in metropolitan Chicago from 370,000 to 440,000 more than other Chicago Sunday newspapers—more than the other two Chicago Sunday newspapers combined

In every income group of interest to advertisers, the Tribune has more circulation than any other Chicago newspaper. In addition, it reaches hundreds of thousands of other prospects in the adjacent territory.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

A Squirrel Drops In.

June 8, 1941.

THE residents of the Wheaton farm have a new pet to add to their rural "zoo." It's a gray squirrel which stays on the lawn of one of the farm homes and acts as tho the farm residents and their dogs are old friends.

One of the men was telling us about this squirrel the other day. He believes that it must have been a pet at some neighboring farm and decided to do a little spring traveling, because it isn't afraid of any one on the place. When he took an evening walk with his dog he spotted the squirrel in a tree and decided to see how close he could approach before it would dart away. To his surprise Mr. Bushtail held his position until the dog was just about a foot away. Without much effort the friendly squirrel undoubtedly could be trained to eat out of the hands of the farm residents.

Something of a Rarity.

In city parks it isn't unusual to find squirrels which have lost their natural fear of humans because they become used to seeing many people every day and will come close to get food. In rural areas, however, squirrels usually keep their distance because they don't have to beg for free handouts. On the Wheaton farm, for example, there is so much woodland where the squirrels can find natural feed that they rarely come close to the farm homes. When they do approach they are wary. So this friendly little gray pet is something of a rarity.

Squirrels are so common both in the city and the country that they often are overlooked as sources of wild life study. One of the farm residents reports that by watching these agile fur bearers he has seen some interesting woodland phenomena. Recently he watched a squirrel take a 12 foot dive from a tree to the ground and began wondering about the animal's natural "shock absorbers" which permit it to make perfect four-point landings without any damage.

Tail Used for Balancing.

In the dive the squirrel held its tail horizontally, indicating that these animals use their tails for balancing in the air and perhaps for decreasing the shock of landing. At any rate Mr. Squirrel landed on all four feet and bounded away without considering the dive out of the ordinary.

Young rabbits also are occupying the attention of farm residents. Altho the cottontails sometimes cause a little winter damage by nibbling on tree saplings in the farm woods, they more than make up for these minor depredations by their bouncing activity in the wood lots. Many of the young cottontails being seen on the farm now are about one-third grown.

In the realm of wild flowers the wild roses on the farm are the prize attraction. In going to and from our bird banding traps we have found a number of these pale pink blossoms which have a delicate color unmatched by most cultivated varieties. The other wild flowers which are giving the roses competition for attention are the purple Job's tears, the first white blossoms of the milfoil, and the easily recognized oxeye daisy.

Chicago Hotel Seeks to Woo Tourists from Highway Cabins

One big Chicago hotel will try to win some of the tourist business lost by hotels to motor courts and tourist cabins along the highways and to tourist homes in towns and cities. Joseph P. Binns, general manager, yesterday announced a plan whereby the Stevens hotel—world's largest—will endeavor to woo tourists moving thru the Chicago region from roadside cabins.

Joseph P. Binns.

The hotel will set aside a floor for the exclusive use of tourists traveling by automobile. The floor will have a clerk in charge to register the guests who need not go thru the main lobby.

Services Are Provided.

Hotel employés will take charge of the tourist's automobile and will park it and get it for him. There will be a moderate charge for room and other accommodations, including breakfast in a dining room on the tourist floor.

"Surveys made among motor travelers disclose that one of the reasons they go to tourist courts is because they don't have to undergo the 'ordeal' of passing before well dressed lobby sitters while dressed in their own comfortable touring slacks," Binns said.

"Roadside hostelries—which supplied a need for accommodations in smaller communities which existing hotels did not have—have been partly responsible for loss of summer vacation revenues by the big cities. Located along the main highways the motor courts have caused many tourists to bypass cities and towns.

Believes Trade Too Small.

"How many tourists Chicago and other large cities have lost to highway cabins by persons who must economize, we don't know. We do know that summer business is not what it should be and we are out to regain a part of it."

Binns' plan includes a program for acquainting tourists with the many attractions which Chicago has to offer the summer vacationist.

300,000 TEXTILE WORKERS TO GET WAGE INCREASE

Washington, D. C., June 8 (AP).—A wage increase of 5 cents an hour for 300,000 textile workers, the largest single group to receive raises under the wage-hour law, was announced today by Gen. Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator.

Effective June 30, a minimum of 37½ cents an hour must be paid in the industry. This will raise the pay of the lowest scale workers from $13 to $15 for a 40 hour week. Since October, 1939, the minimum wage has been 32½ cents.

Investors' Guide

If you wish information about investments or insurance write to The Tribune Investors' Guide. Inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply. Answers of public interest are published, but inquirers' names are never revealed. Please do not ask for information on more than one company in each letter. Answers to inquiries are based on information which The Tribune believes reliable, fair, and unprejudiced, but The Tribune assumes no responsibility therefor.

DENMARK.

What is the extent of the American investment in Danish government loans? Is interest being paid on the bonds?—M. W.

Answer: Americans hold about $89,000,000 of the Kingdom of Denmark's dollar bonds, of which $92,800,000 are outstanding. Interest and sinking fund payments on the dollar loans have been paid in full since the kingdom was invaded by Germany on April 9, 1940. However, there have been occasional delays because it is necessary to obtain licenses from the United States treasury to release Danish government funds blocked in this country by Presidential decree.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Do you have any idea as to how many government bonds are held by life insurance companies?—T. R.

Answer: Life insurance companies in this country hold about 6 billion dollars in United States government bonds, according to a recent trade estimate.

MENGEL CO.

I would like to know what products are made by the Mengel company. —P. D.

Answer: The Mengel company, Louisville, Ky., produces lumber, shipping cases, toys, playground equipment, bedroom furniture, fiber and paperboard containers, building materials, and other wood products.
